IRISH WAR THREATENS.

North and South Oppose Home Rule.

Defiant Warning Sent by Unionists of Emerald Isle to Balfour.

Politicians Straining Every Nerve to Rush Work in Hot Campaign.

America Features Largely in Excited Charges and Counter-Charges.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

COLCHESTER (Eng.) Nov. 29.—Riotous scenes attended the appearance here tonight of Winston Spencer Churchill, Home Secretary. Thousands congregated in the streets, jeering and shouting. Many of them gathered around Mr. Churchill's carriage, at which they threw fish, eggs and other missiles. Many of the windows in the Liberal headquarters were smashed. A large draft of police was sent out to patrol the streets.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Politicians of all parties are straining every nerve to crowd into a few days work, that in ordinary elections is spread over weeks or months. Nearly all the heavy guns were in action tonight.

Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, before a meeting in Albert Hall, where he warmly supported the referendum, described the government as puppets, dancing to the tune of John Redmond and his American paymasters.

The issues are narrowing down daily. The Conservatives make much of the menace of home rule. They proclaim the plan of the Liberals for the reform of the House of Lords means a single [illegible] and [illegible] to the [illegible] and [illegible] to the [illegible] of the Lords, a measure being the medium to [illegible] of the present Lords who claim that Lansdowne's referendum scheme is a snare because the parties would be unequally yoked together under it, that conservative measures would always sail smoothly through the House of Lords, while the referendum would be invoked only for Liberal bills distasteful to the Peers.

Moreover, they estimate the cost of each appeal to the people at $16,000,000.

CLEAVAGE OVER TARIFF.

An interesting factional cleavage has occurred in Balfour's party over the tariff reform. The Spectator, the spokesman of the Unionist Free Traders, has proposed that the tariff reformers pledge themselves to submit the question to a referendum if the party wins, it not being a leading issue of the campaign.

The most ardent tariff reformers, led by the Morning Post, contend that it is the foremost principle of the party.

"The Unionist party breaks into fragments," says the Post, "if a Unionist victory does not mean tariff reform."

Mr. Balfour tonight announced his willingness to leave it to a referendum. In the meantime, the leaders are making every appeal to the independent vote, believing it controls the issue.

The Irish Unionists sent a message of defiance of Home Rulers to Mr. Balfour's meeting and deputations from the Nonconformist Association of England and 600 ministers of non-Episcopal churches in Ireland have addressed Mr Balfour in opposition to home rule.

The reading of the message from the Irish Unionists at Albert Hall caused much enthusiasm.

"In all solemnity," said the message, "we now declare that home rule will bring Ireland not peace, but the sword. If an Irish Parliament is set up the Unionists of the south, allied with the men of Ulster, will not acknowledge its authority. They will neither obey its decrees nor pay its taxes."

Mr. Balfour pronounced strongly in favor of the referendum as the best method of settling deadlocks between the two houses without requiring reform of the House of Lords, and said it could be carried into effect before the House of Lords reformed. This he declared to be Lansdowne's plan.

The cost of a referendum, he said, would be nearer $1,000,000 than Liberal estimates of $10,000,000.

"Some people seem to think," continued the opposition leader, "that asking whether I would submit the tariff reform to a referendum would put me in a hole. I frankly say that tariff reform would be a great change. This election cannot be described as taking place on tariff reform simply, and I have not the least objection to submitting tariff reform to a referendum. It seems to me that our opponents should respond with the generosity of honorable combatants and say, 'we agree that home rule shall be subject to a referendum, too.'"

[illegible]ence had been broken up by the conference had been broken up by the unyielding attitude of the Lords. He said the government was threatening a revolution, based on the wants of one particular section, who boasted they had not yielded an inch from the position of Parnell.

He concluded by declaring the Cabinet was governed by its noisiest members, [illegible] governed by John Redmond, who was governed by Patrick Ford.

"Don't trust the puppets who are performing their parts on the stage," admonished Balfour.

"Don't trust the Irish wire pullers. Don't trust the American paymaster who calls for a tune. Trust alone the sound judgment and enlightened patriotism of the people of this country."

J. H. Seaverns, who was member of Parliament for the Brianton division of Lambeth in 1906, and who was at one time a resident of Boston, has become the Liberal candidate in the same constituency against Davidson Dalziel, Unionist, once a resident of New York.

Lord Joycey, who was created a Peer by the Liberals, has increased his bolt from the party because of its failure to provide for the defense of the country and for its alliance with the Socialists. It is said several other Liberal Peers are tending in the same direction.

DOGS ROUTED BY AMMONIA.

Revenue Agents Raid Oleomargarine Factory in St. Louis and Land Goods.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Armed with ammonia guns, a squad of seven United States revenue agents raided a brick stable today, battered down two iron gates and seized more than 3000 pounds of colored oleomargarine, part of which was still warm from the vats. The raid is said to be the first of its kind ever carried out in St. Louis in the day time. The ammonia guns were taken along because the officers had information that the stable was guarded by two vicious bulldogs. As soon as they battered down the gates the dogs leaped at them, but were almost instantly overpowered by the fumes from the weapons.

BELMONT IS PEEVISH.

"Persecuted," Says Horseman.

Admits Magnates Financed Fight on Anti-Racing Legislation.

"But We Fought Fairly," Says Millionaire Before Investigators.

Fails to Explain by What Authority Jockey Club Levied Assessments.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—August Belmont, millionaire horse owner and chairman of the Jockey Club and the Westchester Racing Association, took the witness stand this afternon and told the legislative Investigation Committee that he conisdered he had been persecuted.

"And I want to say," he added with emphasis, "that the racing asssociation and the Jockey Club fought the anti-race track bills fairly.

Mr. Belmont is the only one of a trio of prominent men identified with racing whom the committee has been able to get to testify concerning the charge that a $500,000 corruption fund was raised to combat the Hart-Agnew law, prohibiting betting on horse races, which passed the legislature in 1908.

Service has not yet been obtained on Messrs. Keene and Whitney, and their secretaries, both called as witnesses today, testified they were in Europe.

The Jockey Club, Mr. Belmont explained in his testimony today, is a close corporation of fifty members, brought into being some ten years ago by men interested in the turf. He was asked by what authority the Jockey Club had assessed $5700 on the Coney Island Jockey Club, and replied the money had not been paid as the result of an assessment, but contributed informally.

"Tell me all you know about what funds were raised, and how," said Judge Bruce.

"I can't tell you how much," answered Belmont, "but the acts of the association are public property and open to inspection, and the funds were raised pro rata among the various racing associations."

The witness admitted several conferences were held by men interested in racing.

"At one of these," he said, "the purse was made up to protect the racing association, but everything was open and well understood."

"Who was the custodian of these funds?"

"Sometimes I was," replied Mr. Belmont.

Former State Senator Reynolds followed Mr. Belmont on the stand. He is president of the Metropolitan Jockey Club, and gave a detailed list of the amount contributed by the Metropolitan to the Jockey Club. In all, he said, $32,936 had been contributed from August, 1907, to May, 1909, all subscribed by the association in a legitimate manner and not by individuals.

"Were you ever approached by any member of the Legislature saying it would be wise for your association to raise a fund?" he was asked.

"I was not," he answered.

Warns Governors Against Being Pedantic.

Woodrow Wilson,

Governor-elect of New Jersey, who yesterday in address before conference of Governors said co-operation was necessary to the regulation of business.

PRESENT PROBLEMS.

STATE CO-OPERATION NEEDED IN REGULATION OF BUSINESS.

Woodrow Wilson Warns Governors Not to Be Jealous of Federal Authority Nor to Be Sticklers at Words and Phrases, But Deal With Realities.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRANKFORT, (Ky.) Nov. 29—Woodrow Wilson, governor-elect of New Jersey, addressed the conference of governors here today. He said in part:

"The last sixty years have seen the great continent knit together by systems of railway and telegraph and telephone. More and more completely has the network spread over every quarter of the great area. With the perfecting of the means of intercommunication, with the swifter and swifter movement of trains, the more and more rapid growth of traffic business has spread itself with a new organization and volume.

"No wonder we began to turn to the national government to regulate, in the name of the soverign nation itself, what has become a force as great as the nation in its scope and consequence.

"The great organization of business seemed to play with the states, to take advantage of the variety of laws, to make terms of their own with one state at a time, and by one device or another to dominate whatever they chose.

NEW PROBLEM.

"A new problem was presented to us. We still did not desire rigid uniformity of law, even in these matters of common concern. It was still desirable that the states adapt their regulation of the new forces to their own conditions. To put federal law back of the great corporations would have been to give them the right to dominate and override local conditions, to equip them with the majesty and supremacy of the law which created and regulated them, and to level the variety of communities before them.

"No absolute, uniform set of rules are likely to fit the infinitely various circumstances of the states and their people. Hence this conference.

"We have no foolish or pedantic jealousy of federal power. But we do not believe the intervention of federal power is either necessary or desirable. We are not attempting a task of mediation; neither are we trying to stand off revolution.

"We ought not to allow ourselves to be pedants, stickling at words and phrases. We ought to deal with realities and deal with them frankly. Let us distinguish local power from personal influence, the two things ought to be easily distinguishable.

OPEN LEADERSHIP.

"I am sure that I am not mistaken when I say that the people are calling for open leadership and that they wish

ROMANTIC.

LIVED LONG AS INDIAN.

Interesting Tale of Frontier.

Comanche Chief Recovers Remains of Mother, White Woman.

Captured When Child of Nine, Grows Up to Savage Life.

Coffin Smuggled Across Texas Border at Dead of Night.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAWTON (Okla.) Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Quanah Parker, the famous half-breed chieftain of the Comanche Indians, returned to Cache today, bearing with him the remains of his white mother, Cynthia Ann Parker, which for years have lain in an unmarked grave near Poynon Station, Tex.

In order to secure the remains the Indian chief was compelled to enlist the assistance of whites, enter the cemetery at night and smuggle the coffin across the Oklahoma border, Texas authorities refusing to recognize his right to remove the body.

A romantic story of life among the Indians is recalled by the incident. In 1836 Parker's Fort, near what is now the site of Novasota, Tex., was raided by Comanche Indians and among the captives taken were Benjamin Parker and his daughter Cynthia, then a child of nine years. Parker, it is supposed, was killed by the Indians, and the same fate was believed to have overtaken the little girl until the early part of 1860.

WHITE WOMAN RECAPTURED.

In that year the same band of Comanches, under Peta Nocona, for whom the town of Nocona was named, made a raid through Parker and adjoining counties, and was later pursued by a troop of United States cavalry and a company of Texas rangers, the latter under the command of the late Gov. Sull Ross. The Indians were overtaken and surprised in a camp established on the Pease River in the Panhandle district. After the fight a woman carrying a baby was captured.

This woman turned out to be Cynthia Ann Parker, the missing daughter of Benjamin Parker. She had grown up in captivity and married the Chief of the Otos, Peta Nocona, who was killed during the engagement. After her rescue, it is said, she pined for the life of savage freedom to which she had become accustomed, and several years later died and was buried in the Fosterville graveyard near Poynon Station.

INDIANS REFUSE RANSOM.

Cynthia Ann Parker is described as a handsome woman, with large, grey eyes and regular features, weighing about 125 pounds. At one time a trader among the Comanches heard of a white girl who had been adopted by the Indians and went to the tribe, offering a ransom for her. He was told that all the money in the possession of the Great White Father could not buy her. Cynthia Ann was standing near by at the time of the negotiations, but the trader could not induce her to utter a word. He formed the conclusion that the Indians had told her it was his intention to carry her away and torture her if she spoke a word of English.

Recently Congress made an appropriation of $1000 for the erection of a monument to mark her resting place. The body is now at Post Oak Mission, four miles northwest of Cache, in the Wichita mountains, awaiting burial.

REPUBLIC FOR ENGLISH LADS.

Nobility and Clergy Indorse Plan to Found Village on George Junior Principles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] England is to have a George Junior republic modeled after the little commonwealth founded about fifteen years ago by William R. George at Freeville, near Ithaca, N. Y. The leading spirit in the movement is George Montague, nephew and heir of Lord Sandwich. Associated with Mr. Montague, who got his enthusiasm for the republic idea from his American wife, Alberta Sturges, of New York, are the Archbishop of York and a stepson of the bishop of London.

The first meeting with reference to the project has taken place at the Montague residence in London. It was advised by Thomas Mott Osborne of New York, president of the "Freeville State." The next meeting, which will be attended by thirty or forty persons of wealth and influence, will be held on the evening of December 13 to collect money and form committees.

COUNT BECOMES PRINCE.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Count Hermann Von Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg, in consequence of the death of his cousin, Prince Franz Von Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg, inherits the title and immense properties of the latter. The count's mother was Helene Isabelle Susanne Moulton, an American born in Paris. He is now German minister at Cairo and was formerly first secretary of the German embassy at Washington.

GAYNOR'S ASSAILANT INDICTED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—James J. Gallagher, who shot Mayor Gaynor [illegible] June, was indicted today by the grand jury in Hudson county, N. J., charged with assault with intent to kill the Mayor and William Edwards, street cleaning commissioner. Another charge placed against Gallagher was that of carrying concealed weapons.

TOLSTOI'S TROUBLES LAID AT DOOR OF FRIEND.

Son of Famous Russian Author Bitterly Comments on Malign Influence of Dead Man's Literary Agent, Which He Claims Broke Up Family Life and Home.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—Count Leo Tolstoi publishes a bitter denunciation of Count Tschertkoff, the intimate friend and literary agent of the late Count Tolstoi. The son declares that Tschertkoff was the worst enemy his father had in all educated Russia and the civilized world, and that he was directly guilty of the tragedy of Yasnaya Poliana.

"The malign influence of Tschertkoff," writes Count Leo, "caused the premature death of my father, his superhuman sufferings and the separation from his family.

"But for his literary agent," the son adds, "my father would have lived for many years peacefully at Yasnaya Poliana with the family who loved him and whom he loved so devotedly. The arrival of Tschertkoff was the beginning of the end."

CONFESSES THEFT.

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Nov. 29.—August Ropke entered a plea of guilty today to five counts of the indictment charging him with embezzlement of the funds of the Fidelity Trust Company. The total of his defalcations was $1,490,000. The amount was reduced by recoveries to $1,000,000. Ropke was given a sentence of from ten to eighteen years in the penitentiary, this penalty covering all of his offenses. Ropke was secretary of the company's banking department.

The money that is needed for this remedial work will be furnished the loan shop by those responsible for its organization.

WRANGLING.

CHINESE OBJECT TO AMERICAN CONTROL OF CURRENCY REFORM.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PEKING, Nov. 29.—Serious doubt that a rejected loan of $50,000,000 to China by an American financial syndicate will be concluded, is expressed in Peking. Difficulties have arisen, among them unwillingness of China to accept a foreign financial advisor. Without such control it is said the promoters are unwilling to supply the loan.

The present is recognized as a crucial period in the history of China. If borrowed millions are squandered any calamity will be possible—even a revolution, and the partition of the empire.

The Chinese have never been more sensitive to foreign usurpation of authority than now and they look on the proposition to give the foreign financial group control of the currency reform, to which the loan was to be devoted, as a further menace to their integrity, of which the new Senate and the parliamentary party throughout the country is especially jealous.

The opposition of the Chinese people, however, is not the only barrier. European banking groups which have been invited to participate with the Americans are not expected to agree to an American advisor to the Chinese government. Furthermore, while the preliminary agreement stipulated that the Americans were to retain control of the bond issue, the French, Germans and British are expected to demand an equal participation, requiring also that they become signatories to the final compact. If eventually successful, the loan is not likely to take the form of an American enterprise.

An imperial edict issued on October 29 authorized a 5 per cent. loan of $50,000,000 from a group of American financiers who were to take a bond issue at 95 to cover the loan.

The loaning syndicate was made up of J. P. Morgan & Company, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, the National City Bank and the First National Bank, all of New York City.

On November 10 an agreement was signed in London by which English, German and French bankers were made participants in the loan. The banking houses concerned were the Morgan houses, the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company, the Bank of Indo-China and the Deutsche East Asiatic Bank.

LOVE FINDS WAY.

TO JOIN LOVER, PLUCKY GIRL RISKS NECK ON KNOTTED ROPE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It became known today that Miss Fifi May Blake climbed out of a four-story window and came down hand over hand on a knotted rope when she eloped from her father's home, No. 337 West Eighty-fifth street, Saturday night with Howard T. Walker. To one who looks up from the street to the dizzy height of the brown stone front of Mr. Blake's home, just off Riverside Drive, such a feat seems an impossibility, but Daniel M. Polsley, the best man, who aided in the escape, gives his word for it.

Mr. Polsley was able to sit up today in his Stuyvesant Park studio. He has been ill with a severe cold he caught in his all-night vigil before the Blake home. He went to Stamford with the young couple for the wedding, which took place about 5 o'clock in the morning, and did not get medical aid until he returned to New York.

The former Miss Blake is 21 and Walker 24 years of age. Mr. Walker's father, Mr. Polsley says, is a capitalist of Canada, and young Walker is well supplied with money.

Miss Blake is the only daughter of a wealthy retired business man. Mr. Blake wanted his daughter to wait three years, especially as the prospective bridegroom intends going into business in New York.

It was the intention of the Blake family to sail for Europe this week, taking Miss Fifi along, so on Saturday the young couple started to do or die. They had planned to meet at the Fulton-street subway station, but Miss Blake's parents would not let her out of the house. A message was smuggled in to Miss Blake, telling her Polsley and Walker were on the job outside. About 10 o'clock Miss Fifi got a clothes line and tied knots in it. Then she tied one end of it to her bed, raised the window, there was a flurry of white fingers and she came down safely

TALE OF CRIME.

WOMAN TELLS TRAGIC STORY.

Describes Crime Leading to Burning of Mexican.

Ranchman's Wife Shot Down in Cold Blood.

Motive Will Probably Ever Remain Mystery.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the reason for the murder of Mrs. Lem Henderson by Antonio Rodriguez will never be known is proved in a letter written to a friend in Mexico City by Mrs. F. Stieber, the Postmistress of Rock Spring, Tex., near which town the crime was committed. The communication gives some details of the outrage not previously published and intimates that any ordinary group of civilized men, whether grangers of Texas or students of Mexico City, stirred to frenzy by the thought of a wantonly murdered mother prone upon her doorstep, her year-old baby crawling in her blood, might have been wrought to such a passion as to take similar revenge. Mrs. Stieber's letter is in part as follows:

"This murderer, reported to be a Mexican, by the name of Rodriguez, was unknown in this vcinity. He had been working for a man by the name of Henderson, forty-five miles from this place. From that employer he stole a hat and then on the way to Rock Springs he stole a horse and a gun from other parties.

SHOOTS WOMAN TWICE.

"He cut across country about sixty miles to the Lem Henderson ranch, which is eighteen miles northeast of Rock Springs. Mr. Henderson, his 10-year-old son and a Mexican hand were riding to another well to look after cattle and met the murderer going toward their ranch, but thought nothing of it, as Mexicans are often passing that way.

"Rodriguez rode up to a Mexican camp, stopped and looked in and then rode on 300 yards to the gate, which is 150 yards from the Henderson house. At the gate he tied his horse and then walked to the rear of the house, where Mrs. Henderson was sewing on the back porch.

"The Mexican said something to Mrs. Henderson and then shot her through the heart. She ran a few steps toward her year-old baby and the assassin shot her again with a 30-30 gun through the base of the skull.

MOTIVE A MYSTERY.

"The only eye witness beside the infant was Mrs. Henderson's little daughter, 7 years of age. No one knows why he committed the crime, as he was unknown to Mr. Henderson and a stranger. He looked and walked like an Indian and the latest reports are that he was an American citizen.

"The horse which the murderer stole from parties for whom he had worked was found in the small corral, he having taken instead one of the Henderson horses to flee from the ranch. All the men in this vicinity were on the hunt. They trailed him twenty-five miles through the pastures, where he had cut fences on his way to the Henderson ranch, and he went straight back, trying to get across the Rio Grande, we supposed.

MURDERER BURNED.

"The fugitive stopped at a camp for breakfast and was there captured by the owner who, assisted by a Mexican herder, held him until an automobile party went out to see if he was the man wanted. He acknowledged murdering Mrs. Henderson, but refused to give any reason. When captured he had Mr. Henderson's horse.

"The people were so outraged that they burned the murderer while we were at the cemetery, before Mrs. Henderson's remains were consigned to the grave. We saw the smoke and some one said they were burning him. Mrs. Henderson was buried with the honors of the Eastern Star order.

BURNING JUSTIFIED.

"We are not heathen here. We have churches and schools and are up-to-date in many ways. But we resent wrongs such as that unknown fiend committed. Though the women were horrified at the thought of the burning, men are different. If we women had had our way we would have let the law take its course. Yet the affair was horrible and even the consul, who has been here investigating, does not condemn us.

"When the men thought of that little baby wallowing in its mother's life blood it turned them into frenzy and they were ready to do most anything without counting the cost or stopping to think. We hope that matter will soon be ended to the satisfaction of both governments."

REBELS RECRUIT AT SAN DIEGO.

POLICE OF SOUTHERN CITY ROUND THEM UP.

Quiet and Orderly Crowds Congregate and Hold Secret Conferences and the Names of Madero and Reyes Are Frequently Heard.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—Secret conference between Lieut.-Gov. Jose La Roque of Tia Juana, Lower California, and Senor Lozano, Mexican Consul in Los Angeles have been held in San Diego within the past day or two and this in connection with the circulation of a Mexican revolutionary organ in San Diego and Tia Juana and the presence of scores of strange and apparently wealthy Mexicans in various hotels is believed to indicate trouble for the Mexican officials in Lower California.

So far there has been no hint in Ensenada or La Paz or any of the villages of Lower California of trouble but the border line is being closely watched and firearms of any description are barred. Coincident with this fact is that the San Diego police have rounded up more than a score of Mexicans lately, alleged suspicious characters, and when searched, every one of them was armed.

The statements made in Los Angeles to the effect that revolutionary recruits were being brought to Mexican ports through San Diego, is borne out by the noticeably increased number of sons of the land of "Manana" noticed about town, particularly in the water front districts. About the saloons in that locality they have been congregating of late in unusual numbers. The class which now hangs about these resorts is different, being for the most part quiet and orderly. Frequently in their conversation the names of Madero and Reyes are heard.

Several traveling men who have recently been in San Diego after making trips down the west coast of Mexico, state that at the ports they have visited, notably Ensenada and La Paz, there does not seem to be any revolutionary spirit. At Mazatlan and Guaymas, however, things are uncertain. Troops are mobilized at those places as well as at Culiacan, capital of Sinaola, and Hermosillo, capital of Senora, a short distance above Guaymas.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs, Senor Enrique Creel, in a telegram to Mexican Ambassador de la Barra today, says:

Ex-Congressman Tells Committee That American Merchant Is Handicapped — Europeans Spend Money Freely to Foster Legislation Against Marine.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Testimony that steamship companies owned abroad absolutely control American shipping and have spent money freely to foster legislation against an American merchant marine, was offered today before the Congressional Committee holding sessions here to investigate charges that a steamship lobby was maintained at Washington.

William H. Douglas, who formerly represented a New York district in Congress, was the witness who made these statements.

"As conditions are now," Mr. Douglas testified, "the American merchant is handicapped. The foreign steamship owners make a rate at Hamburg, London and Paris that controls the export shipment of an article to this country. Even if the American should charter a steamer for his own freight, he would not be able to obtain additional freight to make up a cargo."

Similar conditions govern trade between the United States and South America, Mr. Douglas said, as all the lines plying between the two countries are owned abroad; and foreign steamship companies, he asserted, had spent money freely to influence sentiment against American shipping.

"While you were a member of Congress, did you ever know of money being spent there by agents to influence legislation, through the giving of dinners or anything else?"

"I think there was."

Mr. Douglas added that, although foreign companies had used whatever influence they possessed in shipping legislation and had paid men to represent them in Washington, he believed that, strictly speaking, they had not violated any law.

DORANCE ATWATER MEETS END IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Achieved Fame by Keeping Secret Record of Prisoners Dying at Andersonville During Days of Sixty-four—Services Only Recently Recognized by Government.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MERIDEN (Conn.) Nov. 29.—A message from San Francisco to Francis Atwater, a newspaper publisher of this city, today brought word of the death of his brother, Dorance Atwater, widely known as the man who made the secret records of the death of Federal prisoners in the Confederate military prison at Andersonville.

Mr. Atwater, born in this State, at the age of sixteen listed for the war with the First Squadron Connecticut Cavalry, and later served with Harris' Light Cavalry of New York. He was taken prisoner in February, 1864, and esnt to Andersonville prison, where he was detailed as clerk to make record for the prison of the deaths among the Federal prisoners. Suspecting that the list as compiled by him was not being sent to the government, Mr. Atwater made a duplicate of the list given the prison authorities, keeping it from their knowledge. His list contained some 13,000 names.

When in 1865 he was sent to the parole camp at Annapolis, he carried this list with him, secreted in the lining of his coat.

The question of the ownership of the list caused considerable litigation. But recently recognition of his service was given Mr. Atwater by the government.

He leaves a widow, who before her marriage to him, was a princess in the island of Tahiti, one of the Society Island group.

Jonathan Dwight.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Jonathan Dwight, retired engineer and railroad builder, is dead at his home, in his 80th year. He was a second cousin of President Timothy Dwight of Yale, but was born in Boston and graduated from Harvard in 1852. H rowed in the Harvard boat in the first Harvard-Yale boat race in 1852 on Lake Winnepecaukee, Harvard winning. After leaving Harvard, Mr. Dwight went to West-Point and studied civil engineering. Leaving West Point he went West for a while and helped to build railroads. He had a great part in building one of the first railroads across the Mississippi, the Hannibal and St. Joe. In 1872 he settled at Madison, N. J., as a consulting engineer and was for a long time one of the chief engineers of the New York. He had charge of the laying of the foundation of the Statue of Liberty.

FOLLOWS SANTA FE TRAIL.

SEA TO SEA AUTO HIGHWAY BLAZED BY WESTGARD'S CAR.

Plucky Wife of Touring Club President Suffers Hardships of the Transcontinental Run of the Premier from New York to Los Angeles—Welcome Into City One of Warmest Ever Extended to Tourer.

AL. WESTGARD, representative of the department of Public Roads at Washington, and President of the Touring Club of America, reached here yesterday in the four-cylinder Premier, which was used to blaze the proposed automobile highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Over 4186 miles of road, part of the way in a direct line to Los Angeles, Westgard followed a route which he proved is the most desirable from the metropolis of the East to the metropolis of the West.

Mrs. Westgard, wife of the man who first planned the great highway from ocean to ocean, was plucky enough to make the drive in the Premier. Lost for days in the high hills, almost perishing in a deep snowdrift, and suffering hardships, which few women are forced to undergo, Mrs. Westgard came through and is in perfect health at present, though tired from the effects of the long journey. Over the roughest roads on earth, across mountains of volcanic rock, and through a desert of dreary sand this enthusiastic woman journeyed and never left the car.

Though a railroad train would have proved far easier at times, Mrs. Westgard wanted to enjoy the scenery of the far distant West. She emphasizes the statement of her husband that the roads followed are most enjoyable. The high cliffs, the mallapi rock, the deep canons and the long stretches of wilderness are to prove a route which tourists will enjoy far better than the wonderlands of Europe according to the wife of the Touring Club president.

GREAT HIGHWAY.

R. F. McNamara another member of the party drove and H. C. Dunn a newspaper man took pictures. The route was carefully mapped and a report of the trip with the condition of the roads is to be presented to the officials at Washington.

From New York the Premier was driven to Rochester and from there the route followed is some day to be the great automobile turnpike, the dream of Westgard who is a booster for good roads. After leaving Chicago the Premier made Kansas City then followed the Santa Fe trail in an almost direct line to Los Angeles.

This is the route which Westgard has chosen for the boulevard. After leaving New York, Rochester and Buffalo were visited and the line was crossed into Ohio. The next large city was Cleveland and then Columbus, O., was made. From there the car was sent to Indianapolis and then to Chicago.

The hub of the Middle West is on the great highway which Westgard has mapped out. From the Windy City the Premier was driven to Davenport Iowa, and then to Omaha, Neb., and on to Kansas City. This route is well known and is carefully marked on the map. It has been followed a number of times by automobiles. The beaten path was left at Kansas and the Santa Fe trail was entered.

OLD SANTA FE.

One of the places touched on the Santa Fe trail was La Junta, Colo. The Premier climbed to Trinidad and then to Raton, N. M., and on to Santa Fe. There was a stop at Albuquerque and the stunt of the trip was begun from there. In a direct line through the wilderness Westgard blazed the trail. He did what automobiles have seldom done before. He went into the highlands for nine days and for that length of time was removed from all communication with railroads, telegraps lines, and with repair shops.

These four people, in a stock four-cylinder car, climbed ugly grades crossed mountains of mallapi rock, drove through deep gulches where practically no roads exist and emerged into civilization without having had engine trouble and with only two punctures.

Where an automobile had never been seen before the Premier was driven. The natives saw the car and wondered as the machine pulled itself into the remote villages. It was a treat for those who live far from the centers of population. The car was admired by the farmers and residents of the high hills who marveled that a machine could be driven so far from any city of importance.

When Nason's ranch, in the White Mountains country, was reached, the Premier had no gasoline. There are gasoline pumps there and the gas is hauled from miles away in wagons. Westgard and his party secured gasoline there and at old Fort Apache, where the gas supply was exhausted again, the government station officials supplied the much-needed gas and oil for the trip through the Arizona country to Phoenix.

FAR, FAR AWAY.

This remarkable feat took the car through a country which is to form a part of the straight line route from Albuquerque to Phoenix. This is the district which Westgard says is the most spectacular of any in America. He followed the old trail which the camping wagons and prairie schooners traversed so long ago. He says the route can be rebuilt at small expense and he is satisfied that it is feasible to make this the route to be followed in the near future by scores of automobiles. The mere fact that a highway can be built through all the countries through which the road passes from New York to Los Angeles, makes motorists in this city and throughout the country enthusiastic.

Governors of each State entered and traversed by the Premier, were among those who welcomed the proposition. Westgard outlined his plan and the officials in each county were asked for their opinions on the proposition. Plenty of money will be needed and a government appropriation is possible. The counties are to benefit most by the boulevard from sea to sea.

The welcome into Los Angeles county and then into the city was one of the warmest ever given to automobile tourers. The members of the Board of Supervisors and city officials went out to meet Westgard at the city's gates. The Premier was escorted through the city streets by an automobile parade.

Lewis Schwaebe, the Premier agent in this city, went out to greet the automobile tourers and took with him a number of Premier rooters who were proud to greet the man who is hammering in the pegs for the El Camino Real of the nation. While they are in this city Mr. and Mrs. Westgard are to be the guests of Mr. Schwaebe. The car is to be kept here and will be exhibited at the coming automobile show at Fiesta Park.

RAILROADS' SIDE.

RAILROAD PRESIDENT URGES JUSTICE OF RATE INCREASE.

Denies That Effort Is Being Made to Intimidate Country—No Hardship to Consumer Can Possibly Follow Slight Rise—Cites Freight Charges on Shoes and Hats as Example.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Railroads of this country are asking only fair treatment in the matter of the proposed increase in class rates, and they are doing so in an orderly and business-like way. They are making no threats. They are making no demands. They have presented evidence which to them seems to support their contentions, and that will be followed by arguments showing the justice of their proposition."

That was the reply made today by William C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, when asked about the published reports of the last day or two to the effect that there was no warrant for the increased rates proposed, and that the railroads and allied interests were seeking to intimidate the country by talk of panics and hard times, in an effort to force an approval of the new schedules.

RATES LONG UNCHANGED.

For twenty-five years, railroad men say, the classification rates have remained unchanged, while the value of almost every article shipped under them has increased. Because of that increase in values, the railroads have found it necessary to increase wages, and, as a result of these changed conditions they say they are seeking for advances in certain rates, which are so small, compared with the value of the article shipped, as to be almost impossible of computation if the retailer desired to add it to the cost of articles sold.

That phase of the railroad's side of the question was made clear by Mr. Brown today by a few examples, picked at random from the proposed tariffs, of the effect of the application of those rates.

SHOES AS AN EXAMPLE.

"Let us take men's split brogans," said the railroad president. "The wholesale price of these shoes is $1.25 a pair, and the retail price $1.75 a pair. The present rate for 1000 miles from New York to Chicago, or to any point taking the Chicago rate, is 2 2-5 cents a pair. The proposed increase in rates is 5 mills a pair, making the new rate 2 9-10 cents a pair.

"Assuming that the increase in wages to railroad men made it possible to sell four pairs of shoes which otherwise could not have been sold, the profit on those four pairs would pay the increase in rate on 376 pairs of shoes.

"The wholesale price of men's vici kid, Goodyear welt shoes is $2 a pair and the retail price $3 a pair. The present rate is 1½ cents a pair for 1000 miles and the proposed increase 3-10 of 1 cent a pair, making the new rate 1 4-5 cents a pair. If the increase in wages made it possible to sell one additional pair of shoes, the difference between the wholesale and the retail price of that one pair would pay the increased freight rate on 326 pairs of these shoes.

"Take a fair quality of men's stiff hats. The wholesale price 83½ cents each, and the retail price $2. The present rate is 1 1-12 cents, the proposed increase is 1 85-100 mills, making the new rate 1 4-15 cents. The profit on the sale of one additional hat would therefore pay the increased rate on 610 hats."

"THERE'S A REASON"

AWAY WITH PIMPLES

Poslam Makes Quick Work of Eruptions and All Surface Skin Troubles.

By taking a small part of the skin affected with pimples, rash, blotches, etc., or which is unduly inflamed, itching or chafing, and applying thereto only a small quantity of poslam, an immediate demonstration may be had of the remarkable properties of this new healing agent, and enough poslam for the purpose will be mailed free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City. Spots so treated are cleared and healed in 24 hours.

Poslam puts a stop to itching as soon as applied, and its readiness in healing these small surfaces is but an indication of its rapid action in the cure of all eczemas, acne, herpes, tetter, piles, barbers' and all other forms of itch, scaly scalp; in short, every surface skin affection. ("Poslam is fully much more than you claim," writes Mr. Harrison H. Allen, the author, New Gretna, N. J.)

Poslam is sold in two sizes (trial, 50 cents; regular jars, $2) by all druggists, particularly The Owl Drug Co.

their leaders to be men who represent them all. They are tired of the hide and seek of legislation as it has generally been conducted. We shall not bring clear action out of confusion until we assist at the simplification that will inevitably come when some one man undertakes in each state to keep the people informed as to every step of their business, particularly the business of legislation and to challenge all who are engaged in it to submit to the frank and clarifying processes of debate.

"Our problem is how to make our states efficient instruments in the regulation of economic conditions. It is the problem of railway regulation and of the regulation of the many other vast corporations. This is in no sense a private matter. Our corporations are not dealing with individuals so much as with communities. If those who conduct them would look at their business from that point of view and conduct themselves in the temper and spirit of public servants, there would be no need of regulation.

"So long as they do not, so long as they transact their business in the spirit of those who manage private affairs, for private gains and not for public service, regulation will be necessary.

"Here then in more particular terms, are the large items of our tasks, as we must view them in counsel together. There is, first, the task of regulation; for that we seek common principles, common ideas and aims, at the same time that we recognize that these common principles must be put into effect in our several states in somewhat different ways in order to serve local needs. We need co-operation, but can wear no straight jacket.

"The task of right regulation, in the case of common carriers, is one in which you must co-operate with one another and with the federal authorities."

Politicians Honor News Girl Who Christened Senator Platt "The Easy Boss."

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Flowers from many well-known politicians and prominent business men today grace the bier of "Winsome Winnie" Horn, a newsgirl who for nearly twenty years had sold papers at a stand near Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue. She died yesterday. Her regular patrons in the old days included the members of the "Amen Corner" in the old Fifth Avenue Hotel, notably Senator Platt, Gov. Odell and Senator Mark Hanna.

It was "Winsome Winnie" who gave to Senator Platt the nickname, "The Easy Boss." She was a favorite also with numerous Tammany chieftains.

HOLDS COURT ON TRAIN.

New York Surrogate Transacts Business While Speeding Across Eastern State.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

MONTICELLO (N. Y.) Nov. 29.—Passengers on a train between Port Jervis and Binghamton were treated yesterday to an odd scene when W. L. Thornton, judge and surrogate of Sullivan county, held surrogate's court between those two points, as the train was speeding on its way.

Judge Thornton had made arrangements to hear the protested will case of the late George W. Gould of Long Eddy, and when he was called suddenly to Binghamton, he decided to hold court on board the train. Accordingly, the Gould heirs and their attorneys joined him at Port Jervis and by the time the train had left the station, the party was in the midst of the proceedings which continued to within a short distance of Binghamton.

Judge Thornton promised to give a decision within two weeks. The value of the estate is $200,000.

YOUTHFUL ELOPERS PURSUED.

Girl of Fifteen and Boy Just Out of Teens Racing for License and Wedding Ring.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

REDDING, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Last night Olive Hamilton, the 15-year-old daughter of John Hamilton, eloped from the family home at Oak Run, twenty-five miles east of Redding. Her disappearance was not known until her mother called her to breakfast. Getting no response, she went to her daughter's room and found it was vacant with evidence of a hurried departure on every hand.

The parents could not divine what had become of Olive until at 10 o'clock the mystery was cleared by a telephone message from Millville, ten miles away, telling them that Olive and Charles Gimblin of Whitmore had driven through town early in the day saying they were going to get a license and be married. Gimblin is only twenty-one, and had not been paying marked attention to the girl.

A description of each was telephoned to Sheriff Montgomery who repeated it to officers down the valley with instructions to arrest Gimblin for abduction and to hold the girl until the parents arrive.

NOBLEMAN WORKS ON DOCKS.

Son of German Baroness Found in Longshoreman's Garb in Tacoma, Wash.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A romance of two countries was revealed today when Baroness von Hertz and her son, who was working at Aberdeen as a longshoreman under the name of Teddy Parsons, were reunited after separation of twenty years.

The Baroness left Stettin, Germany, for America two decades ago, shortly after the death of her husband, Count von Hertz. Her son, then a child of four years, was left with her sister's husband, Theodore Passen. The Baronees took up medical research in this country, and in her absence the son left Germany for United States.

A long search for him was fruitless until friends of the longshoreman here saw an advertisement in a California paper, which led to the reuniting of mother and son. The Baroness and her son left today for Spokane, where the former has property.

LAWBREAKERS NIPPED.

San Francisco Cigar Dealers Accused of Selling Tobacco and "Makin's" to Boys.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—On complaint of Probation Officer Willard P. Hatch, Police Judge Weller issued warrants today for the arrest of eighteen cigar dealers on a charge of selling cigarettes and tobacco to boys under the age of 16 years. Hatch has been gathering evidence for over a year, and claims to have direct evidence against the dealers for whom warrants were issued today.

Thirty warants were issued, several of the dealers being charged with three or more specific offenses. Hatch states that boys ranging in age from 6 to 16 years have been buying cigarettes and tobacco with the utmost freedom from dealers in this city.

WRONG MAN ARRESTED.

CHARLES WAGNER FREED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

OLYMPIA (Wash.) Nov. 29—Charles J. Wagner of Spokane, Wash., whose valise was stolen in North Yakima, Wash., and taken to Los Angeles by the thief, who afterward was caught robbing a store in the latter city and then escaped, leaving behind him Wagner's valise, left for his home last night fully exhonorated of the burglary charge which the Los Angeles authorities had preferred against him.

Wagner was arrested in Spokane and his extradition was sought by the Los Angeles authorities. He resisted and a hearing was held in Olympia.

"He is not the man," said a Los Angeles detective as soon as he saw Wagner.

COLUSA STAYS WET.

ONE OASIS IN COUNTY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUSA (Cal.) Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After an exciting campaign lasting several weeks, Colusa decided at the polls today that the city shall remain "wet." There were 283 votes polled. Of these 229 were for saloons and 154 against.

This is the first campaign waged here against saloons and the strength of the antis was somewhat surprising. Saloon men sent autos for miles into the country to bring absent voters to the polls. A large part of Colusa county is "dry" as the result of recent elections and Colusa was the main battle ground between the two factions.

INAUGURAL BALL CALLED OFF.

Sacramento Citizens Accept Governor-Elect Johnson's Letter as Final Word.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Plans for the usual inaugural ball given in January to the new Governor and officials of the incoming administration, were abandoned tonight, when at a meeting of the inaugural committee headed by Mayor Beard, it was voted to call off all preparations.

A letter from Governor-elect Johnson, in which he asked that no formal recognition of the ushering in of the new administration be made, was the cause of the action. This is the first time the fete which marks the inauguration of each new Governor, and which is the chief social event of the State, has been abandoned without reason.

Four years ago, owing to illness of Governor Gillett's father, no inaugural ball was held, a reception being given later in the year.

Johnson in requesting the abandonment of the ball, said his is to be a working administration, and he wants no ceremony.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WEAK?

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Nov. 29.—"Has Christian Endeavor seen its day?" This was the question asked today of the Presbyterian Sunday-school missionaries attending the Sabbath-school Institute by Rev. Willis L. Geiston of Philadelphia. The question resulted in much heated debate. It was the concensus of opinion, however, that the society had lost much of its initial strength.

HARD LUCK.

LOCATES MINE; THEN LOSES IT.

RENO PROSPECTOR FINDS REAL EL DORADO.

Gold Quartz Assaying $80,000 to Ton Excites Whole Section and Hundreds Ready to Stampede When Discoverer Gets His Bearings Again.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gold running $80,000 to the ton has been discovered within 150 miles of Reno, but the prospector who made the "strike" is unable to relocate his claim, having failed on two attempts to show a party of capitalists the spot. All Reno is wildly excited over the fabulous richness of the strike, and hundreds of men are in preparation to start for the "camp" as soon as it is re-discovered.

The locator of the deposit, a reputable, recognized man of this city, is in a frantic condition owing to his inability to find the spot where he picked up the ore. He refuses to allow his identity to be known. However, he has succeeded in interesting Col. Winfield Scott Proskey in the strike and the capitalist has already financed two automobile trips to the district where it is known that the deposit is located.

Discovered accidentally while the prospector was passing through the country, the claim was not staked or monumented, the locator relying on landmarks to guide him to the spot again. He brought a sack full of the ore to Reno and it assayed $21,000, $40,000 and $80,000 to the ton.

The formation is known as claverite, of the tellurium family. This is the same formation that is found in Cripple Creek, where the greatest gold-producing mines are located, and is the first discovered in this State.

BANDITS MISS HIGH GRADE.

MASKED MEN IN RICH MINE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WINNEMUCCA (Nev.) Nov. 29.—Three masked men who broke into the tunnel of a rich gold mine near here today, overlooked $8000 worth of high grade ore. The robbers broke down four heavy doors at the entrance to the tunnel. Meeting six miners, they made them face the wall. While one of the intruders stood guard the other two searched for treasure. In their haste they did not notice the rich ore that had already been packed in sacks and was standing in the stope.

The identity of the robbers is said to be known, and arrests are expected. The same mine was robbed four months ago of ore worth $3000.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Requisition Issued.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Gov. Gillett issued a requisition upon the Governor of Oregon today for the return of "Curley" Pratt, under arrest at Medford, Or., and wanted in Chico for assault upon Jessie Ballien, committed on August 18. Pratt was indicted by the Butte county grand jury October 31.

"Slaver" Gets Five Years.

Burke Case Called.

SANTA ROSA (Cal.) Nov. 29—The case of Dr. Willard P. Burke accused of having dynamited a tent on the grounds of his sanitarium occupied by Miss Lou Etta Smith and her infant son, was called today before Superior Judge Emmet Seawell. The proceedings, however, were brief, being limited to the drawing of the names of eighty talesmen, from which will be chosen the jury to try the defendant. An adjournment was taken until next Tuesday.

Eagle Caught at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29—A gigantic specimen of the American National bird, captured by the officers of the steam schooner Olympic when the vessel was over twenty miles from the Oregon shore on her way to this port, was presented to the San Francisco park commission yesterday. The eagle measured seven feet from tip to tip of the wings.

TRUST WITNESS SCARED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Aileen Christopher, the government's most important witness against the so-called paving brick trust and its members, recently indicted, today hesitated for two hours to go before the Federal grand jury and give further testimony, for fear her 5-year-old daughter, Aileen, would be kidnaped.

In the end Mrs. Christopher and her husband, Daniel J. Christopher, formerly a city brick inspector, talked over their differences in the District Attorney's office, while a private detective employed by Mrs. Christopher picked up the child in his arms and quickly left the Federal buildings.

Mrs. Christopher will be before the grand jury tomorrow.

CUT EXPENSES, SAYS MR. TAFT.

President Orders Still More Paring of Estimates.

Rock Bottom Figures Not Low Enough to Suit.

Rivers and Harbors Bill Is Rounding Into Shape.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President Taft informed his cabinet officers today that after scrutinizing the final draft of the estimates of the various government departments for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1911, that there must be a further and deeper cut in them; that they would not do in their present form.

In response to the urgent demands of the President, the heads of departments already had held their estimates down to what they considered rock bottom figures. The President, however, pointed out today a number of places where he declared the pruning knife could be used to advantage. Representative Alexander of New York, chairman of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and Gen. Bixby, chief of engineers of the Army, were among those in the conference.

Mr. Alexander said later that the Rivers and Harbors bill to be reported to Congress would carry approximately $30,000,000 in appropriations and authorizations in accord with the report made public by the chief of engineers.

Chairman Alexander's conference with the President resulted in a general understanding as to the character of a Rivers and Harbors bill that will meet the approval of the President; and at its first meeting tomorrow, the Rivers and Harbors Committee will have before it the estimates of the War Department and the general plan to which the President is favorable.

This is the first bill to be prepared under the plan for an annual Rivers and Harbor bill.

Members of the committee have not had an opportunity to examine the estimates carefully, but it is expected the bill will be much smaller than any of those of recent years.

Estimates of appropriations needed for continuing contracts amount to about $7,000,000, while the War Department has recommended further appropriations of $22,000,000.

UNCLE TAKES A HAND.

Special Assistant to Attorney-General Appears in Suit Here Against the Southern Pacific.

Uncle Sam took a hand yesterday in the suits against the Southern Pacific involving land worth fabulous sums, and plainly showed that the Federal government desires them to come to trial in order that all the merits of the controversy may be ascertained.

W. D. Townsend, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, spoke before Judge Ross of the United States Circuit Court during the hearing of arguments on demurrers to the complaints.

On the surface it appeared as if Townsend were giving aid to the plaintiffs, as he argued against the demurrers, but he was actuated solely by his desire to see that the government's interests did not suffer.

He declared that the most important question involved is as to whether the patents of the United States to the Southern Pacific conveyed the title to the mineral lands. He said that if they did, the property in question is no longer part of the public domain.

Guy B. Shoup and D. V. Cowden argued on behalf of the railroad company, and sought to explain that the company has acted in good faith in all of its transactions with the government and that its title is not subject to attack on the ground that it has been fraudulently obtained.

The arguments closed yesterday afternoon and the proposition will be submitted on briefs. Each side will have twenty days in which to prepare it's points and citations in support of its contentions.

COAST SALMON DO WELL EAST.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LAKE HOLDS PACIFIC FISH.

Anglers Land Good-Sized "Chinnooks" Grown from Eggs Shipped from California Hatchery in 1904. Fish Commission Makes Report Showing Work Accomplished.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—After nearly forty years of endeavor to establish the Chinook salmon of the Pacific coast in waters of the United States where it is not indigenous, conclusive evidence of success in one instance has come to hand, according to United States Fish Commissioner George M. Bowers in his annual report to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

"Within the last year it has been ascertained," says Mr. Bowers, "that the species has become established in Lake Sunapee, N. H., where numerous specimens from three to five pounds in weight have been taken by anglers. This is undoubtedly the result of a plant made in 1904 by the New Hampshire Fish Commission, the eggs having been supplied from the bureau's hatchery at Bird, California. Encouraged by the outcome of this experiment, the bureau made a plant of 40,000 fingerling Chinook in Lake Champlain in the spring of 1910.

"During the year the bureau distributed 3,223,392,572 fish and fish eggs, making a record which exceeded its record year of 1909 by 4 per cent. Of this total 443,177,000 eggs and 7,425 fish were delivered to various State fish commissions and 600,000 eggs of salmon trout were shipped to Argentina, Japan and France.

The commissioner reports that the commercial fisheries of the United States represent an investment of about $95,000,000, and the value of the products derived from fisheries proper is about $6,000,000. With the exception of the mackerel and some other fisheries that for a number of years have not been so extensive as formerly, all of the more important branches of the industry are in a prosperous condition."

CUPID'S MISS.

FIRST-SIGHT LOVE, MARRIAGE, ROMANCE, AND NOW DIVORCE?

Young Barbee Hook and His Beautiful New Mexico Bride of Half a Year, Separated, and Former's Attorneys Drawing Up Papers to Make It Final, According to Close Friends.

LEGAL papers are in course of preparation whereby Barbee S. Hook, wealthy young bon vivant and clubman, will seek an absolute divorce from his young and beautiful bride of six months, according to some of his close friends.

The facts back of the approaching divorce sensation leaked out yesterday. Young Hook is presumably in San Francisco, and Mrs. Hook is staying with her mother in San Diego, where the Hooks have a ranch.

An intensely interesting romance is behind the trouble surrounding the youthful couple. Throughout it all the shadow of a handsome young lieutenant in the United States navy hovers in the background. In fact, he is understood to have been paying assiduous court to the present Mrs. Hook before she was married, while she was Miss Rebecca Pearce of Albuquerque.

GREAT WEDDING.

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hook last May in New Mexico was one of the society affairs of the season. Hook had long been known as a man about town, and some had given up hope that he would ever "settle down." He paid a visit to Albuquerque and met Miss Pearce, who was about 18 years old and one of the most beautiful young women in that region. It was a case of love at first sight as far as Hook was concerned, but rumor has whispered that it was not quite so instantaneous on the part of the bride.

Parental influence is freely spoken of by friends of the young couple as having been instrumental in hastening the marriage, which came a short time after Hook met Miss Pearce.

The dashing naval officer involved in the story had been a rival for the hand of Miss Pearce. For several months after the wedding he kept out of sight, but later reappeared at Hotel del Coronado, where the Hooks were staying. He was welcomed as a friend, and Mrs. Hook and he saw a great deal of each other.

A LETTER.

It is stated that when Mrs. Hook was recently confronted with a letter, there was a scene. Since that time—about three weeks ago—the Hooks have been separated and a divorce has been under discussion.

The Hooks have frequently traveled East and visited in St. Louis, where Mrs. W. S. Hook, the young man's mother, has a home and large business interests. They have been extensively entertained during the past summer.

Barbee S. Hook, conspicuous as a speeder, has figured in a number of sensational episodes. One of these was several years ago, when he ran down and killed a young woman with his automobile while driving at a terrific rate from Pasadena to the city, on a joy ride with two girls. He was arrested and brought to trial, but the case was finally compromised, his mother going to his rescue with a large amount of money to save him. A year ago he ran down a boy in this city, but did not fatally injure him.

Three years ago he got into the limelight when a check for $50,000, signed by him in favor of a young actress, was found on the floor of the Mission Indian grill of the Hotel Alexandria.

There are other and numerous incidents in which Hook figured, and his marriage was thought by some to have been the turning point in his rather reckless career.

Several weeks ago, when the storm clouds were about to gather, Mrs. Pearce, mother of young Mrs. Hook, arrived in San Diego, and she and her daughter have been living quietly there at No. 2246 Fourth street.

NOT AT HOME.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. John F. Pearce and daughter, Mrs. Barbee S. Hook, reside at No. 2246 Fourth street, but are not at home tonight. Occupants of the adjoining flat say they have been absent since Sunday, but are expected back at any time. One of Hook's friends says they have gone to Los Angeles. Hook, according to a man who is very close to him, is, or has been, at the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco, suffering from blood-poisoning.

WHERE'S HOOK?

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Barbee S. Hook of Los Angeles has not been around the St. Francis Hotel this evening, although he passes most of his time there as a rule. This afternoon, according to one of the bell boys, he said he was going to try and get a lower berth on the Lark tonight, as he was obliged to be in Los Angeles tomorrow. On the other hand, the head porter says he purchased a berth on the 8:20 p. m. train for Portland, and that it was called for by a man who said it was to be used by Hook. One of his friends said that he knew Hook was due to go to Portland soon to look after some of his mother's interests there. Hook does not live at the hotel, but in some apartment house near by. His friends say they do not know where the place is. They say that he has had trouble with his wife.

Mrs. Barbee S. Hook, formerly Miss Rebecca Pearce of Albuquerque, who is separated from her husband and is expected soon to be a defendant in a divorce proceeding.

Barbee S. Hook,

whose friends say he is about to sue his bride of six months for a divorce.

DRAMATIC CLUB FORMED.

The Hermosa Dramatic Club was organized last evening under the auspices of Hermosa Lodge, No. 32, Fraternal Brotherhood. The organization was an aftermath of the presentation of a comedy, "A Regiment of Two," at Alhambra Hall, Monday evening. The organization was accomplished at a reception given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bailey at their residence, at No. 131 South Beaudry avenue. Mrs. Leta M. Santee was chosen president and director and G. W. Bailey was named for secretary and treasurer of the body.

AUTO THIEF TAKES ANOTHER.

While Miss Ella Rhoads of No. 2434 West Eleventh street, who has just returned from a tour of the world, was the guest of the Gamut Club last night, her electric auto was stolen from the curb. A report of the theft was made to the police, with a description of the machine.

SAN FRANCISCO WINS.

COLFAX (Iowa) Nov. 29.—After a spirited contest among the members of the directory board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in session here for two days, San Francisco was chosen the next meeting place of the biennial session, in June, 1912.

MYSTERIOUS.

PATROL BOXES ARE PARALYZED.

PATROLMAN SHOCKED NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

Electricians Search Vainly for Heavily Charged Wire Which Is in Connection With Police Line. Locate Trouble Indefinitely in Northeastern Part of the City.

All police patrol telephone boxes in the northeastern part of the Central Station district were put out of commission last night by the dropping of a high power Pacific Electric wire across one of the police wires at some point which could not be located, although many electricians looked for the trouble all night.

The first intimation came early in the evening when Patrolman John North of the Chinatown squad, one of the most efficient members of the force, tried to "ring in" from the box on the south side of the Plaza.

As he touched his key to the box, North was hurled fully fifteen feet into the street, turning flipflaps as he went. How he escaped serious injury or death is inexplicable, as the current which shocked him must have been measured in the thousands of volts.

Soon after this incident the Plaza box burst out in a pyrotechnic display that put to shame any New Year celebration ever seen in old Chinatown.

About twenty "trouble shooters" or electricians making a specialty of locating trouble, were sent out from the City Electrician's office, and the private companies rushed out their own men, but the little army of experts was baffled. The trouble could only be located as being, in a general direction, in the northeastern portion of the district. Private telephones and electric lights did not seem to be affected.

GOES FOR PASSERELLA.

Detective Leaves for Salt Lake to Bring Back Italian Accused of Playing Ingrate.

Americo Passerella, a young Italian who is accused of having played the ingrate to the Good Samaritan of his kinsman, Vincento Bove of No. 513 North Figueroa street, will return to Los Angeles. Bove is introducing an act in which he is appearing as the worm turning against Passerella. Detective Frank Carroll left yesterday for Salt Lake to bring back Passerella on a charge of grand larceny, Gov. Gillett having issued the requisition on the Governor of Utah.

Bove has prospered in this country, especially since he made his home in Los Angeles some time ago. Full of enthusiasm over his new home, Bove undertook to bring as many of his relatives over from Italy as he could afford. He began by sending Passerella his passage money from the old country to the Italy of the United States.

Passerella enjoyed himself hugely here—for a while. Then he was seized with the wander lust. He longed to see some of the country that lay back of the big mountain ranges he had passed on his way to California. Bove awoke one morning, some days since, to find Passarella gone and only 10 cents where $150 had reposed in the Bove family trunk.

The milk of human kindness turned to clabber and Bove obtained a warrant for Passarella's arrest. The young man was located and arrested in Salt Lake City. He will return to Los Angeles in two or three days, but he will find a yawning jail door instead of the open arms of a loving kinsman awaiting him this time.

Hawkins was arranging with the desk sergeant for release on bail, when over the telephone came the message: "Oh hurry to 850 Sedgwick street, officer. There are three men here dying. They were overcome by gas." Hawkins insisted on the use of his machine. Municipal Judge Blake, hearing the story, dismissed Hawkins. The men overcome by gas recovered.

CHICAGO BARS "SALOME."

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Following official criticism from the Chicago police department, the production of "Salome," in which Mary Garden had twice appeared here, was withdrawn from the Grand Opera programme Friday night. The Chief of Police informed the management that offensive features, particularly the "head" scene, should be toned down. Miss Garden strenuously objected to eliminating any of her lines of poses, and accordingly the production for that evening was withdrawn. Other artists refused to substitute their productions for the withdrawn opera and in consequence the stage will be dark Friday night.

...try to conduct the orchestra for their tour. In order to meet the requirements of the musicians union it was necessary for Mr. Stier to take the primary steps to become an American citizens and as he likes the country it is quite probable that he will remain here, except for brief visits to London when his orchestra has important works to present.

The company travels in a private train of seven cars and makes this "hotel on wheels" its home most of the time. Its members find their greatest pleasures in taking photgraphs of the scenes that greet them each day and have developed into practical photographers. Their collection of pictures running high into the thousands.

The Orpheus Club, before a superb audience in the Auditorium last night, again proved its right to be classed with the very first singing organizations of the entire country.

Such force, precision, shading ability and pre-eminent melodiousness, as well as an unusual facity of interpretation both light and serious, are possessions of few choruses anywhere.

In Joseph P. Dupuy the Orpheus Club has a rare leader, one who combines, as do few men, the full inspiration of youth with his mature years of experience.

Last night's programme included Harker's "I Love Thee," and Neidlinger's " O! Mother of Mine," the club; "Meister Oluf," and "Le Cor," A. Fiegier, by Francis B. Chapman, bass; Rudolf Friml, pianist, in Smetana's "By the Seashore," and three compositions of his own—Op. 27, "Melodie," Op. 32, "Revell du Printemps," and Three Dances; Dudley Buck's "Bugle Song," and "The Bold Fisherman," the club; Arthur J. Stinton, tenor, and the club in Neidlinger's "The Old Millwheel;" Mr. Friml, in a paraphrase of "The Blue Danube;" and the club in Protheroe's "The Land o' the Leal," and Schilling's "Clouds," and "Sunshine."

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is coming to the Hamburger's Majestic next week, following the Faversham production of "The World and His Wife." Mrs. Wiggs promises to become as distinctive a character in American theatricals as Rip Van Winkle and Sis Hopkins.

La Belle Meeker, shapely and skillful physical culture girl, who with her work on the flying rings is one of the features of this week's bill at the Los Angeles Theater, was the young woman who played the role of Mlle. DeLeon, in Lew Field's production of "The Midnight Sons," during its long run in New York.

NO FIGHTING FOR OAKLAND.

Alameda County Attorney Puts on the Screws.

"Prize Fight" Is Contest Where Knock-out Occurs.

Similar Action May Result in San Francisco.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prize fighting received a knock-out blow in Oakland and all Alameda county today when the district attorney issued a notice that no more prize fights would be allowed. According to him prize fighting is a contest in which one of the fighters is knocked out. The grand jury will back up the district attorney and will indict not only the fighters and promoters and seconds but any of the spectators who can be secured.

In San Francisco the pulling off of the Moran-Nelson fight has caused much indignation among church people and reformers, who have appealed to District Attorney Fickert to use his power to stop any future fights. Fickert took the ground before the big fight scheduled for last Fourth of July that he had no authority to interfere with boxing matches so long as the supervisors granted permits.

MORAN STARTS EAST.
MUSIC HALLS IN SIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Owen Moran, accompanied by Manager Charlie Harvey and Jeff Perry, a San Francisco boy who is his sparring partner, left tonight for the East. The little Englishman, who is considered to have the best right to a bout with Ad Wolgast, will go direct to New York, where he will probably open a week's engagement in Miner's Eighth avenue house.

His movements after that are somewhat indefinite, although according to present plans, he will take as many theatrical engagements as possible. Charlie Harvey favors a tour of the English music halls. If Harvey's advice is followed Moran will reject all other offers for ring work and wait for Wolgast, providing the Cadillac champion is not too slow.

The proposition to wait until May is far fetched. Wolgast evidently wants all the glory that goes with the championship without the trouble of defending his title. Moran only weighed 128 when he met Nelson.

Nelson still claims he has a right to precedence in a fight with Wolgast. He will go to his New Mexico ranch for a few weeks.

Pug's Final Fight.

LIMA (O.) Nov. 29.—Curly Gerhart, Detroit's light weight pugilist died at noon today following a collapse after ten rounds with John McHenry here last night. The police and coroner are investigating.

Match for Dalton.

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jimmie Foley, the fast Canadian lightweight, and Kid Dalton, a Los Angeles boy, will meet in a twenty round go at Maricopa on December 8. Foley recently fought a draw with Kid Scaler of Spokane and clearly outpointed Scaler, who was lucky to get a draw. Boxing contests are held at Maricopa and Taft twice a month and draw big houses.

JOCKEYS IN CLOVER.
TO START BIG STABLE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Milton Henry, the American jockey, has just returned to New York after seven years spent on the French turf in the employ of Baron Rothschild and M. de Bramand.

Henry has accumulated a fortune in stock operations on the Paris bourse through his racing connection with the Rothschilds and he returns to America for a short visit preliminary to starting a big racing establishment in France. He expects to form a partnership with Nash Turner, another American jockey, who has developed into a trainer-owner, and who is due to return to this city the first week in December.

The pair will visit Kentucky and Tennessee together for the purpose of purchasing a number of brood mares and stallions, which they expect to get at exceptionally low prices, owing to the unsettled condition of racing in the United States. Preference will be given to horses of French and English ancestry. Turner has a large estate near Chantilly, where the two former American jockeys intend to establish a breeding farm and will train their own horses for the French tracks.

Henry described France as the "greatest racing country in the world."

HORSE BUYERS BUSY.
FAIR PRICES REALIZED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Nov. 29.—With scores of her women present to inspect the offerings from most of the big breeders of Kentucky, the East and the South, the annual fall auction of thoroughbreds was begun here today.

Some of the best young horses in the country are to be sold, as the sales will mark the passing of several racing stables, whose owners have decided to retire rather than risk loss from further unfavorable legislation.

Buyers are here from Chile and Canada and announce that they will purchase animals which will be used on stock farms in those countries. The best sales were:

Gun Rod, chestnut mare (10,) by Mirthful-Royal Gun, to V. W. Moore, Lexington, Ky., for $700.

Interique, brown mare (8,) by Kingston-Pink Domino, to V. W. Moore, $750.

LEMBERG HEADS LIST.
BIGGEST MONEY WINNER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Lemberg, which won this year's English Derby, heads the list of winners for the racing season which closed last week.

Lemberg carried off $119,000—a rather slender showing when compared with the record sum made by Bayardo when he cleared $767,000 as a two-year-old.

Second place on the list for the present season goes to Winkipop, with but $75,000.

The largest winner among the owners is Lemberg's proprietor, Mr. Fairie, who won $177,000 for the season. Lord Derby is second, with $117,000, and Harry Payne Whitney, the American, third, with $70,000.

STRIKE IN THE DARK.

Rear-End Collision Injures Several Passengers Owing to the Power Being Shut Off.

Fully a dozen persons were slightly injured by flying glass in a tail-end collision between street cars on the private right of way of the Boyle Heights line near Virgil avenue last night.

The power was shut off from the electrical stations about 6:45 o'clock, when car No. 231, in charge of Motorman Bade, down grade, was on the way to Bimini baths. At the bottom of the grade, car No. 274 had been brought to a standstill, with all lights out, owing to the shutting off of the power.

Bade could not see the car ahead until he was almost upon it, owing to the deep shadows of the place, and the crash sent broken glass flying thick amidst the passengers. Fortunately, all escaped with only slight cuts and shock.

SERIOUS CHARGE CHARGED.

Messenger Boys Arrested for Alleged Attack on Laborer Who Was Beaten and Robbed.

Joe Rodesco and Leon Shateck, messenger boys, were arrested by Detectives Murray and McCann and locked up in the City Jail on suspicion of highway robbery.

The crime in which the boys are alleged to have been implicated is the robbery of John Carr, an aqueduct laborer, who was held up on East Third street at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning and robbed of $110.

Carr had been in town only a few hours and, as the result of a blow, his jaw was broken. His trousers had been cut and almost ripped from him by the robbers in their haste to get at his money. He told the officers that he showed a roll of bills when offering to make a bet with a chance acquaintance in a restaurant, and that soon after he stepped out to the street, he was surrounded by seven or eight messenger boys.

GET BUSY.

NEUNER NAMED CHAIRMAN OF AVIATION COMMITTEE.

MARTIN C. NEUNER was chosen chairman of the aviation committee of citizens at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce hall.

There was no action taken to decide whether an aviation meet should be held—it was just taken for granted, and Chairman Neuner was empowered to select an executive committee to assist him in conducting the meet.

Buel H. Green, secretary of the Aero Club of California, was elected to fill the same position for the Aviation Committee under salary. Correspondence now in his possession as an official of the Aero Club, was turned over to the Aviation Committee by the club to be used as it sees fit.

Representatives for the Wright Brothers, Hubert Latham, Glenn Curtiss, and Radley gave the committee assurances that they would do all they could to make a meet a success.

Roy Knabenshue, chief spokesman for the aviators, said that he came to the Coast to secure contracts and that the Wrights expected certain guarantees as they did not care to take chances at this time.

The committee referred all business arrangements to the executive committee when it would be formed. Knabenshue admitted that the Wrights attached clauses in their contracts providing for licenses but that the fees are nominal.

An effort was made to present a resolution recommending that no license be recognized, but the resolution was referred to the Aero Club and at a meeting of the directors last night it was voted to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the Aviation Committee.

Another meeting has been called for Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Chairman Neuner will present a definite plan for organization and for promulgating the meet.

Nettleton Shoes

Men who wear Nettleton Shoes know their wonderful style and quality. They are pre-eminently GOOD Shoes, Footwear for Men who want the best. They have Quality and they LOOK it. We've sold them for years—and men who have worn Nettletons over long periods of time come back for them again and again. This is absolute evidence of their quality. We are ready with the Fall and Winter Nettletons. We illustrate two.

The Nettleton people have called this Six-Dollar Blucher the "Sensation" last. It has the high arch, the military heel, and the heavy single sole that pleases so many men. Material is Black Velour Calf or Tan Russia Calf. An ideal shoe for high-class business wear.

The Seven-Dollar Shoe is the "Peerless," a straight last shoe in Black Vici, or in patent Kid. This shoe is especially recommended to heavy men who are much on their feet, and want a moderate weight shoe that will "stand-up" perfectly. Its lines are good—yet it is SO COMFORTABLE!

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Biennial for Us.

Clubwomen throughout the State will rejoice in the news which was received yesterday by Mrs. R. J. Waters, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. The good news comes in a telegram from Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, first vice-president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs stating that the Biennial for 1912 has been secured, for San Francisco.

Mrs. Cowles left Friday for Colfax, Iowa, to attend the first executive board meeting since the last biennial which was held in Cincinnati, and it is due to her efforts principally that the California city was selected. Salt Lake and Chicago, were in the race also for the Biennial, but San Francisco has captured the honor.

Friday Morning.

At an executive board meeting of the Friday Morning Club held yesterday, a committee composed of Mrs. Berthold Baruch and Mrs. Osgood, parliamentarian of the organization was named to confer with a committee from the Ebell to look into the recent action of the District Federation of Women's Clubs in increasing the per capita tax of the various clubs from 3 to 5 cents. These committees will meet Thursday morning and the matter will be threshed out. It is declared to be almost certain that the proceeding of raising the per capita tax was irregular. It is contended that a notice should have been given before the convention, to each club of the federation, that such a matter would be brought up for action.

District Federation Board.

The executive board of the Los Angeles District Federation met at luncheon at Christopher's yesterday, Mrs. William Baurhyte presiding, and eighteen members of the board in attendance. Among the matters which were brought to the attention of the board was a protest, presented by Mrs. L. A. Gould, chairman of the legislative committee, against the proposed amendment to the Burnett Tenement House law. The protest was indorsed by the board. The Badger Club also received the indorsement of the board, to present a request to the Police Commission to keep newsboys, under the age of 10 years, off the streets after 8 o'clock in the evening. The resolution was presented by Mrs. L. C. Torrance of the Badger Club.

NOON MEETINGS DRAW.

Devotional Gatherings at Theater on Broadway Attended by Large Numbers of Men.

The noonday meetings at Clune's Broadway Theater have started on a popular run, under the auspices of the Brotherhoods of the various churches of the city.

On Monday the first one was addressed by Dr. J. W. Brougher, who spoke to 500 men, and yesterday Dr. C. E. Locke had an audience of 700 men. Today Bishop Johnson of the Episcopal church, and the vested choir of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral will probably test the capacity of the theater. The bishop's theme will be, "The Essential Thing in Christian Living."

Good music accompanies each service, and the moving pictures that precede the religious meeting are an attraction. All men are admitted free, and are invited to take advantage of the opportunity for an hour's devotion at noon, every day this week.

JIU-JITSU WRESTLING.

Programme of Sports Arranged for Next Tuesday Evening at Naud Junction.

There is to be another jiu-jitsu entertainment at McCarey's pavilion next Tuesday evening and according to the announcements an interesting programme has been provided. The main event will be a jiu-jitsu bout between Prof. Fukuta and C. F. Newmann, the latter being heralded as the champion of Peru and a good one at the game. Fukuta has been able to down every one he has met so far and will probably find Newmann easy picking.

Wa Kanoura and Fred Johnson are billed to wrestle catch-as-catch-can and if Wa is a wrestler of note in Japan, he will have a chance to show it with Johnson, who has always given a good account of himself in this city. Nakajima and Ito will wrestle jiu-jitsu and there are to be fencing and sword contests.

PASADENA.

EQUINE PLANS FORGE AHEAD.

DRIVING CLUB PREPARES FOR LIVELY SEASON.

Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company Offers Under Certain Conditions to Furnish Water to Residents of the "Dry Tract". To Please Winter Visitors.

(Office of The Times, 26 S. Raymond avenue.)

PASADENA, Nov. 30—The Pasadena Driving Club is now established and ready for big things. At a meeting of the directors held last night it was decided to enter upon a course of expansion and to try to make the new Tournament Park race track the best harness horse track in California. The matter of furnishing sufficient stalls for the horses of patrons and members of the club was the principal topic of discussion. Col. W. J. Hogan, president, came to the rescue and agreed to build fifty stalls at once in the name of the club. The contract will be let within a few days for the stalls. The club has also obligated itself to make a sufficient appropriation to keep the track in first class condition.

Several other matters of importance were taken up at the meeting. A number of prominent horsemen were present and stated that they are ready to bring their horses to Tournament Park just as soon as the new stables are ready.

It was decided to hold the next matinee of the Driving Club Christmas afternoon and to hold matinees at least every other Saturday afternoon during the season. The directors were more than well pleased at the reports which were received of the prospects for a successful season.

OFFERS WATER TO DRY TRACT

At an executive meeting of the City Council yesterday morning Mayor Earley read a letter from the officers of the Lake Vineyard Land & Water Company offering to furnish the people of the "Dry Tract" with water next season under certain considerations. The first consideration is that the people will put up $15,000 to pay for the necessary pipe and reservoir work. The other consideration is that the people will agree to buy the water at the city rates.

This is virtually the same proposition as was talked about three months ago, when the people of that district were shut off from their water supply by the North Pasadena Land & Water Company from which water had been secured for several years.

The "Dry Tracters" have not held a meeting yet to figure out whether they can stand the pressure of paying the price for building a water system. The offer of the Lale Vineyard Company contemplates that the people shall pay for all the necessary work and material furnished and then allow the ownership of the system to remain with the company. This is the same basis on which practically every other person in the city has been supplied with water but the recent agitation of the water question has been against the old rule.

Since the people of that district were cut off from water by the North Pasadena Land & Water Company they have been getting their supply from the city sprinkling carts.

COUNCIL DOINGS.

The resignation of Councilman H. G. Cattell was accepted at yesterday morning's meeting of the Council and a resolution of regrets adopted. Mr. Cattell was recently elected a member of the State Assembly and feels that he cannot well hold two public positions. His successor has not been named.

E. T. Hess presented the Council with a recommendation that more attention be paid to the winter visitors to the end that every one gets his money's worth and leaves the city with the best impression possible. His suggestions are that the city prepare a list of all the interesting features about town and points of interest about here, and that these be posted in all the prominent places including the public automobiles and carriages, so that the stranger can have a chance to find out what is really worth while; that the public automobile and carriage drivers be compelled to stipulate the price which they wil charge for hauling the people to all the mentioned places and make it public by a sign; that the Pacific Electric Company be asked to issue a special sightseeing ticket to visitors on which they can visit all points of interest for 25 cents. The letter was read and passed to the Board of Trade without comment.

A delegation from the Shakespeare Club waited on the Council and requested that a special appropriation be made to be held in maintaining the rest room now established in the Kendall building. This waiting or rest room is the only one in the city and started some time ago by the Shakespeare Club and the Washington Heights Club and has proven a source of great convenience to both visitors and women in the city but the maintenance has been a burden on these two clubs and the members of the clubs believe it is a matter of sufficient importance that the city treasury can well afford to assist in the maintenance.

RETURNS HOME.

Miss Leonora Day, who was arrested a few days ago on a warant sworn out by Mrs. Barrington of Arcadia street, charging Miss Day with having stolen several pieces of dress goods and trimmings, was taken before Justice Klamroth yesterday morning. She was represented by Attorney Van Pelt of Los Angeles, and changed her plea from not guilty to guilty, and received a jail sentence of six months, which was suspended, providing the prisoner leaves Southern California within twenty-four hours.

Miss Day is a pretty blonde. She appeared in the Justice Court handsomely dressed. She stated that she did not remember having taken anything which did not belong to her. She has been incarcerated in the County Jail two weeks during which time she has been carefully guarded to prevent self injury. She has been carefully examined by a physician who stated that the young woman is not mentally well balanced and recommended that she be placed in a sanatorium.

Miss Day was born and educated at Stamford, Ct. Her people were at one time quite wealthy, but afterward suffered reverses and she was compelled to go out and earn her living. She attended a nurses' school in New York but did not graduate. A little over a year ago she came to California. For some time she was a nurse under Dr. Newcomb and was out on one of his cases when she took the dress goods.

In company with Charles Potts of Los Angeles, who stated that he is an old friend of the young lady's family, Miss Day left the courtroom for Riverside and last night took a train for Chicago, saying that she intended to return to New York.

The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Burdette on "Orientation" which he said means "placing yourself in the right direction at certain times." The address was an interesting one and thoroughly appreciated by the members. In a clear and concise manner Dr. Burdette gave a graphic description of the various customs of China and Japan.

EXASPERATING DELAYS HAVE END AT LAST.

The "General Hubbard," Built at Long Beach for the Hammond Lumber Company, Will Glide Into the Deep Saturday With Usual Champagne Christening.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 29.—After many exasperating delays, President Craig of the plant announced this morning that the big steel steamship "General Hubbard," built for the Hammond Lumber Company will be launched next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The launching will be a semi-private affair, only those having invitations being allowed within the grounds of the ship building plant. The launching can be viewed from outside points, however, as the channel is only a few hundred feet wide, and launches can run close to the ways. A Los Angeles girl will christen the steamer, but Mr. Craig refuses as yet to make her name public.

The boat after launching will receive a few finishing touches and will then be ready to start for the deep sea under her own power.

SMUGGLERS SENTENCED.

Light Penalties Inflicted Because of Mitigating Circumstances in Cases of Vaqueros.

Jesus Pena and Santiago Villa, tools of, the coolie smuggling ring which has been unearthed by the United States officers, yesterday entered pleas of guilty in the United States District Court to charges of smuggling and having conspired to smuggle Chinese into the United States in violation of the immigration laws.

Upon the recommendations of Assistant United States Attorney Stewart that they should be dealt with leniently on account of mitigating circumstances, Judge Wellborn tempered their punishment to six months' imprisonment in the San Diego County Jail.

The two Mexicans were caught as they were returning to Mexico to get $150 for having brought five coolies to Riverside. They had a receipt for the delivery of their charges when they were taken in custody at San Diego.

It developed that they were vaqueros who had been hired by a half-breed to guide the Chinese across the mountains, which the Mexicans well knew. The half-breed took no chances on being caught and stopped at the border.

"These men have fully confessed," Stewart told the judge. "They have also been of great assistance to us in getting to the bottom of a big ring of smugglers. I am satisfied that they were mere instruments in the hands of men much more deeply involved in the conspiracy."

The prisoners will probably be kept in the County Jail here until after other members of the ring have been tried as they will be important witnesses.

The government now holds as prisoners Chinese who have been active in violating the immigration laws and it is said that other arrests will probably be made soon.

Cutting off his hand with a razor after it had been crushed in a corn sheller yesterday, J. Bruce Vaughan of Eureka Mills, Charlotte county, Va., bandaged the stump and calmly awaited the arrival of a surgeon to put the finishing touches to the operation.

LET YOUR STOMACH HAVE ITS OWN WAY

Do Not Try to Drive and Force It to Work When It is Not Able or You Will Suffer All the More.

You cannot treat your stomach as some men treat a balky horse; force, drive or even starve it into doing work at which it rebels. The stomach is a patient and faithful servant and will stand much abuse and ill-treatment before it "balks," but when it does you had better go slow with it and not attempt to make it work. Some people have the mistaken idea that they can make their stomachs work by starving themselves. They might cure the stomach that way, but it would take so long that they would have no use for a stomach when they got through. The sensible way out of the difficulty is to let the stomach rest if it wants to and employ a substitute to do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work of your stomach for you and digest your food just as your stomach used to when it was well. You can prove this by putting your food in a glass jar with one of the tablets and sufficient water and you will see the food digest in just the same time as the digestive foods of the stomach would do it. That will satisfy your mind. Now, to satisfy both your mind and body take one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating—eat all and what you want—and you will feel in your mind that your food is being digested because you will feel no disturbance or weight in your stomach; in fact, you will forget all about having a stomach, just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act in a natural way because they contain only the natural elements of the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach. It makes no difference what condition the stomach is in, they go right ahead of their own accord and do their work. They know their business and surrounding conditions do not influence them in the least. They thus relieve the weak stomach of all its burdens and give it its much-needed rest and permit it to become strong and healthy.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine as of them. In fact, physicians are prescribing them all over the land, and if your own doctor is real honest with you, he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

SURPRISED THEM.

Sherman Batchelor has been appointed city clerk, to fill out the unexpired term of Harry Allison, recently elected county recorder. The appointment was supposed to have gone to Royal Mack, but through a hitch in the City Council differences arose, and Batchelor slipped in as a compromise, to the surprise of politicians generally, though for a week or more his name was freely mentioned as a good betting proposition.

REPORT RECEIVED.

The City council has received the report of the Charter Revision Committee, which will not be made the basis of propositions to be submitted to the electors next April. A general reconstruction of the city charter is proposed. The fire department has also some special provisions which it is desired to adopt, the element of which is increased pay and increased taxation to maintain a paid department.

LADY LEWIS HERE.

W. H. Wakefield has demanded a jury trial as defendant in an action brought by his divorced wife to compel him to pay alimony according to an agreement the couple signed several years ago. Wakefield sets up the novel defense that the agreement is void as it is against public policy. The main point of attack on the agreement is made at a clause by which he agrees to pay the divorced woman money monthly so long as she remains unmarried. Wakefield is a well-known Barstow man. His wife lives in Los Angeles.

CITY TO GET OPTION.

Ontario Trustees Decide to Secure Right to Purchase for Land for Water Purposes.

ONTARIO, Nov. 29.—In order to secure more water-bearing land upon which to sink wells the City Trustees last night decided to get an option on a one and one-half acre tract at Thirteenth street and Campus avenue. The price asked is $1200. Engineer Trask advised the trustees to purchase, saying that should the tract prove to be non-water bearing it would nevertheless prove a valuable site for one of the large new storage reservoirs which are to be built.

The Ontario Land and Improvement Company has sold a forty acre tract of vacant land at Mountain avenue and Twenty-third street to Thomas W. Nesbit for $7000. The purchaser plans to clear the land and plant it to orange and lemon trees.

Freemire was elected president at a former meeting. The election of George T. Barr as secretary to take the place of C. F. Moore, who has filled the office the past year, is the only change. Mr. Moore was forced to retire in order to attend properly to his orange grove property.

DEPUTY'S WARRANTS PILE UP IN AUDITOR'S OFFICE.

Scrap Over Orange County Salary Act Ties Up Real Money. Wouldn't Take It When He Could, Now He Can't Because Its Illegal, Says Lawyer.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Warrants for $75 a month which have been accumulating in County Auditor Lester's office for twenty months seem likely to stay there until the end of time. The warrants are drawn in favor of Dep. Dist. Atty. S. S. Finley, who has consistently refused to take them out while Dist. Atty. S. M. Davis was fighting the Orange County Salary act, which provided salaries for a number of new courthouse deputies, Finley included.

All the other deputies have been drawing their salary warrants right along. Last week the Appelate Court finally decided that the payment of the deputies was legal, and the fight put up by the District Attorney against the salary act was thereby ended. It looks as though Finley could step into the auditor's office and take out the warrants for back pay, aggregating $1500. Such, however, proved not to be the case.

Today attorney Victor Montgomery, who, with other attorneys, appeared for County Treasurer J. C. Joplin, defendant in the last salary act case, advised the treasurer that payment of Finley's warrants would be illegal. Lester then refused to give the warrants to Finley. Montgomery stated that Finley has been drawing a salary right along from Davis, and that a part of the $1500 would be paid to Davis to reimburse him. Montgomery holds that that would be a felony, since no principal in an office can accept any part of the salary allowed by law to a deputy.

Davis may bring suit and clear up the point, or Finley may return from his pocket the salary Davis has paid him, after which Finley could lay legal claim to the entire $1500.

CHANNEL RIGHT OF WAY.

The Newbert Protection District, formed for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a definite channel for the Santa Ana river in the lowlands, where it generally runs wild, has brought a condemnation suit against two ranchers with whom the district could not come to terms for a right of way for the channel. The defendants are Henry Belt, from whom the district wants 14.10 acres, and Machael Atgen, from whom the district wants 7.15 acres. The complaint in the action was filed today.

TWO PEOPLE END LIVES.

Santa Barbara Police Seek to Gain Information About George Brown Thinking to Uncover Mystery.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 29.—The police are inclined to believe that there is a mystery attached to the suicide of George Brown, whose body was found on the beach yesterday with a bullet hole through the head. Before carrying out the deed, the man destroyed every letter and other writing that would identify him, his name on his suit case even being erased. When he arrived in Santa Barbara a month ago he registered at a local rooming house by the name of Brown, giving Denver as his home. This is believed to be untrue and the police are trying to locate someone who can tell of his former life.

Harkness was employed as carpenter's helper on the new Fillmore high school during its building. He was allowed to sleep in the building nights and while he was there a great deal of property disappeared, including tools and school supplies which had been received for the laboratory and other departments. CALLS FOR SYMPATHY.

ILL LUCK BINDS BARK'S MASTER.

JAIL HOLDS CAPTAIN OF THE ALDEN BESSE.

Charged With Having Permitted Stowaways to Escape He Is Surrendered by His Bondsmen, Who Hope Thereby to Benefit His Condition.

Capt. J. W. McAllister, former master of the bark Alden Besse, which was recently sold at auction, who has been at liberty under bail while awaiting trial on a charge of having permitted two stowaways to escape, was surrendered by his bondsmen, yesterday.

His sureties had no fear that he would attempt to evade the law, but gave him up in the hope that he might be able to make an arrangement which would be more beneficial to him.

The bark was purchased by C. J. Lehman. He has fitted it up, loaded it with a cargo and prepared it to sail on its old route to the Hawaiian Islands, expecting to leave this port Saturday.

Lehman naturally turned to the captain when he desired a master for his ship. He was incidentally one of the mariner's bondsmen. He consulted with the Federal officials, and found that the moment McAllister left this jurisdiction the bond would become forfeited.

Believing that the United States authorities would release him on his own recognizance so that he might sail, he and Fred Hughes, the other bondsman, surrendered him to Marshal Youngworth. Everybody seemed willing to consent to the plan except Inspector Ridgeway of the immigration service. He would not entertain any such scheme.

All of the mitigating circumstances in the case were placed before him, but without effect. His decision was that the law should be allowed to take its course, choosing to rely on the strict letter of the statutes.

McAllister has had enough "hard luck" in the last few months to supply a whole army with its proportionate share of misfortune.

When he sailed from Honolulu, two Japs secreted themselves in the vessel. He gave them up as soon as he reached the port of Los Angeles and was ordered to detain them. The bark was attached and the United States Marshal put a keeper in command.

All of the ship's stores were attached. In a short time McAllister was in an unfortunate predicament. He ran out of money but was not relieved of the duty of providing food for the Japs. He locked them in a cabin at night. They kicked off the bars and escaped. He was taken in custody and held for trial in the United States District Court.

It is likely that he will not get a trial for several months. The members of his family are in Honolulu, but he cannot see them under the conditions of his bond.

He has been a seafaring man all his life and has no ability to earn a living while on land. The only chance for him to make enough money for his own keeping and to support his family was through the opportunity to sail.

This privilege has been taken away from him by Ridgeway's refusal to release him on his own recognizance. It is said that the evidence against him is such that he will probably be acquitted when he comes up before a jury for trial.

The captain was almost on the verge of tears when he was led to jail last night. The path from the command of a ship to a cell is a bitter one for him to travel.

SHORT BLISS.

WIFE AS A HOG IN HIS VISION?

Odd Cruelty Complaint Gets Her a Divorce.

What He Sees in Seance Too Much for Judge.

Healer and Spiritualist Not Happy Couple.

Mrs. Esther Dye Smith, a magnetic healer, residing at No. 1127 West Eighteenth street, was plaintiff in a divorce action against John H. Smith, an ex-Spiritualist preacher in Judge Conrey's court yesterday. She alleged extreme cruelty, and got her decree. They were married only a half year ago.

Smith came back with a cross-complaint, not seeking to prevent the divorce especially, but aspiring to have the court order a reconveyance of two pieces of property that he had deeded to his wife four days after the wedding, May 12. These properties are located on East Adams and Twenty-seventh streets, and are worth about $7500.

The parties had been acquainted for years before the union. Dye, a former husband of Mrs. Smith, was also a Spiritualist worker, and well known in those circles here. When he died, Smith became acquainted with the widow at the Walker Theater meetings, and after a short courtship they were united in the parlor of Mrs. Dye on Eighteenth street.

NEW KIND OF CRUELTY.

Soon there was trouble. The wife testified that Smith tried to choke her. He declared, she testified, that he had visions while in a seance, one vision showing Mrs. Smith in the role of a large white hog. This was one of the allegations supporting the charges of extreme cruelty.

On another occasion he undertook to starve himself, and for more than a week refused to eat at her table. Finally she became weary of that sort of treatment, and Smith was told to leave the premises. This he did on July 1, last. The actual wedded bliss of the couple lasted but four days, for, according to the testimony, after Smith had given his wife the deeds to the two pieces of property the unpleasantness began. The wife testified that Smith threatened to commit suicide and he told her that if he did his spirit would return to haunt her.

Smith denied all of the charges, and asserted that he was compelled to do all of the work about the house, washing dishes, scrubbing, making his own bed, often getting his own meals, and that he spent weeks cutting the grass and clearing off the weeds at the home on Eighteenth street.

HIS PORKER VISION.

Judge Conrey asked him about the white-hog incident, and Smith said: "I was at a spiritualistic seance and it seemed that everything was dark. Pretty soon I could see a big net descending from heaven, and in it was a big white hog. I did not say my wife was a hog, your Honor; the animal was immaculately clean, but still it was a hog. I might explain"—but he got no farther.

"I don't care to hear any more along that line," said the court.

Then the judge insisted that Smith explain how he intended to return and plague his wife, and Smith followed: "You would not understand it if I were to explain." "Well, we will make an attempt anyhow," said Judge Conrey. But the explanation was so far outside the rules of evidence that Smith was shut off.

In his cross-complaint Smith was knocked completely over the ropes, the court holding that an action for divorce could not be joined with a suit for the recovery of property. It will be necessary for Smith to begin another action, if he wants that, for the wife has the divorce and both places.

NATURALLY.

TRIALS BY JURY UNION DEMAND.

FEARS COURT WILL DIG TOO CLOSE TO FACT.

Laborite Attorney Changes His Mind About Trusting Picketing Cases to Decision of Police Judge, After Learning Latter's Views on Legal Aspect of the Matter.

In the opinion of attaches of the Police Courts, the unionites will stick to jury trials in all picket cases, for the attempt of a laborite attorney yesterday morning to determine the attitude of police judges toward picketing cases did not turn out as he expected.

One of the San Francisco attorneys engaged Police Judge Rose in conversation in connection with the picketing cases. "I wonder how these cases would come out if juries were dispensed with and future trials were before the court," inquired he.

"As I look at it," said Police Judge Rose, "there are some defendants I would convict in a few seconds, and there are some I would acquit. It wouldn't take me long to decide."

The reply was unexpected by the attorney and he also learned that one point on which the unionites have built hopes of acquittal does not possess merit in the eyes of the court.

"Heretofore you have contended that the prosecution must show that the pickets actually approached workingmen as they were entering or leaving the shops and urged them to quit their jobs, but that does not have to be shown," Judge Rose declared.

"If a case were tried by this court and it was shown that a union man took his stand in front of an open shop and silently observed the men who went in and came out and was later supplanted by another who did the same, I would say immediately that the men were guilty of picketing."

"But the men are not interfering with the others and are not threatening nor urging the other men to quit their work," urged the unionite attorney.

"That is neither here nor there," answered Judge Rose. "The ordinance specifies that there shall be no 'picketing.' Standing in front of a shop or other building in which persons are employed for the purpose of observing who goes in and who comes out, is 'picketing.'

"The loitering clause I am not so sure of because it cannot be made clear in all cases that the loitering is interfering with the rights of workmen to go to and from their labors as they please, but stationing men where they can observe the doings of other workmen is contrary to the ordinance."

BUYS "MOUNTAIN VIEW."

Local Capitalist to Occupy Beautiful Country Estate Near Covina With His Family.

"Mountain View," the beautiful country estate of A. W. Rhodes, local millionaire financier, yesterday passed into the possession of Conrad C. Kohlmeier, capitalist and old-time resident of Los Angeles. The property, which is twenty-one miles east of this city, about half a mile beyond Covina, is one of the "show places" of the State, comprising sixty-six acres of the finest orange and lemon orchards in the section. The consideration is reported at $120,000.

The buyer will move on the estate at once with his family, occupying a handsome three-story, sixteen-room house of considerable architectural pretention, set in the center of the holding. This dwelling is finished throughout in oak and mahogany. The site is a commanding elevation with an unsurpassed vista of mountains, hills, valleys and the ocean. The grounds are beautifully laid out in parks, walks, drives and formal gardens. The former owner spent years in collecting hundreds of varieties of rare shrubs and flowers which today thrive on the place.

The holding is also unusually well equipped as an income producing property, all the facilities for handling the produce of the groves having been developed to the highest degree by Mr Rhodes. There is a mammoth reservoir and a private packing-house, together with large green-houses and nurseries. The house itself is equipped as modernly as any in the city.

The seller in the transaction was represented by Bryan & Bradford, while Meyer & Johnson represented the buyer.

IRON IN SOUL.

FARE IN JAIL CHANGES EVANS.

HIGH SPIRITS OF EX-TELLER DROOP RAPIDLY.

President's Warrant Has Been Forwarded to Mexican Department of State at Mexico City. Sheriff Hammel or Deputy Aguirre Will Go for Prisoner.

"I hope the friends who helped me spend my money in the days when I was flush, will not forget me now that I sadly need attorneys."

The foregoing expression of a little pang of remorse was the first, according to local attaches of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, that Wilson B. Evans, defaulting teller of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank uttered, when $10,000 of the bank's cash was taken from him shortly after his arrest at Acapulco, Mex., several weeks ago.

According to latest advices from Mexico, Evans is a changed man from the one who sauntered into the arms of a Mexican secret service agent on the deck of the power-schooner Kate, in Acapulco Bay. Then, his spirits were exceedingly high, and when an effort was made to identify him as the missing teller, he made an excellent attempt to laugh them off.

A steady diet of stewed horse meat, dry tortillas, and a mush of ill-smelling corn and wheat meal, however, has tended to create a want for things more palatable, akin to madness. With each passing day, the hollows in his cheeks have become more perceptible—the luster of good living has left his eyes, and instead, a famished wild glint has taken its place. The damp, ill-smelling cell has also added considerably to his discomfort, and on several occasions it was thought that he would be taken down with fever.

When Evans and his two mates on the Kate were taken into custody, they had only $20 between them. This amount was soon used up, in providing a few necessary things to eat. Evans realized a little, according to the Pinkerton agent at Acapulco, from the sale of some of his personal belongings, but this soon dwindled away. For the past few weeks Evans has had no money to increase the rough jail fare. Monday $100 was sent to him by a coterie of local friends, and this, it is hoped, will aid him to keep from starving, until his arrival in Los Angeles.

Deputy District Attorney Keyes announced yesterday that the President's warrant had been received, and forwarded to the Mexican Department of State at Mexico City. That is the last official requisite for Evans' return to Los Angeles. Under Sheriff Brain was unable to state yesterday when an attache will be sent south to bring Evans back, owing to lack of information from the Mexican government on the subject. If this notification is not received until after Sheriff Hammel returns from his honeymoon, he will make the trip. In the event, however, that the papers arrive before that date, Deputy Aguirre will be assigned to the task.

BUYS INDUSTRIAL LOT.

Property at Second and Alameda Streets Purchased for Erection of Business Building.

One of the most important deals of the year in industrial real estate was consummated yesterday when the northwest corner of Second and Alameda streets was transferred by Frank Simpson of the Frank Simpson Fruit Company to the American Building Company. The purchase price is reported at $70,000, or at the rate of about $2.15 a square foot.

The lot has a frontage of 172 feet on Second street by 243 feet on Alameda and is on the main line of the Southern Pacific. The purchasers propose to erect on the site in the immediate future a five-story and basement building containing approximately 170,000 square feet of floor space and costing close to $135,000. The site is ideal for industrial purposes, combining as it does the advantages of excellent retail frontage and trackage facilities.

Both parties to the transaction were represented by Glenn N. Deuel of the Wright & Callender Company.

GOES NORTH WITH BURGLAR.

Deputy Sheriff Woods left for the North last night in charge of C. L. Stanley, colored, who was sentenced to San Quentin for two years, for burglary, by Superior Judge Willis. Deputy Woods was accompanied by Mrs. Woods, matron at the County Jail, who will bring back Mrs. Clemshire for trial on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. Mrs. Clemshire was arrested Monday in Oakland.

UNIQUE STORY'S RESULT QUICK.

Fishermen's Club Will Send a Man to Japan.

He Is a Japanese Minister, Engaged at Once.

How He Met Moody as He Now Tells It.

Rev. H. S. Kimura, a native of Japan, happened in at a meeting of the Bible Institute, Third and Main streets, last night, and after he had told his unique story in a most unique fashion, went out as the authorized representative of the Fishermen's Club in Japan, and they are pledged to pay him $40 a month, in gold.

Kimura came to Los Angeles well recommended, by Dr. Eli McClish, among others. Dr. McClish, while president of the University of the Pacific, had him for a student. While Kimura was working at San Jose he was converted to Christianity, and was there at the time D. L. Moody made his last trip to this Coast, about thirteen years ago.

Rev. H. S. Kimura,

Japanese preacher who will be supported in Japan by the Fishermen's Club

He attempted to talk to Moody, and was put off with a casual remark, but on the day the great evangelist left for San Francisco, Kimura boarded the train with him, and managed to get a seat right in front of Moody, and he tells the story in this way:

"'Where you go?' say Moody. 'I go to hear Moody,' I say. 'How much money you got?' he say; I say, '25 cents. Somebody tell me I go to Moody's school, I learn to be great preacher.' 'How you go to my school with 25 cents?' say Moody. I say, 'Philippians iv:19, good enough for me,' and Moody he laugh.

"In San Francisco I go to work for Japanese school, and then after while I say must go to the country and work to save money so can go to Moody's school at Chicago. The man he say, 'You work two months more, and I pay your way to Chicago.' When I go away, each Japanese boy in the school give me $1, man pay my fare and a lady hand me a handkerchief which I put in my pocket. After while when I go home look at the handkerchief, and find five times money enough to pay my fare to Chicago and back. Philippians iv:19, good enough for me.

"First time I go in Moody's school, I stand up and say, 'I Japanese boy, my hair black like night, my eye black like American eagle, my heart white like snow, through Jesus Christ!

"The next day man call me in his office and say, 'You Kimura? You talk last night? Here I give you scholarship.' I say, 'who pay for scholarship?' He say, 'You go on; never mind who pay.' Philippians iv:19 good enough for me."

This is but a portion of Kimura's unique story, and if you turn to your Bible, you will find Philippians iv:19 to read as follows: "My God shall supply all your needs, according to His riches in glory, by Christ Jesus."

Kimura afterward returned to his home in Japan, after preaching for some years among his own people in this country, and two years ago he became pastor of the Congregational Church at Kyoto, which speedily grew from forty members to almost 300, and the quarters occupied became too small. He has now come to America to raise money to build a large church, and leaves for the East this morning to raise funds among his friends in St. Louis and other places. He secured half the desired sum, or $6500, in Japan, and hopes to raise the other half in this country, which he probably will. Upon his return from the East he will stop in Los Angeles, and there may be an opportunity to hear him preach at that time, before departing for Japan.

Kimura is well educated and eloquent, beside being dead in earnest, which makes his message doubly attractive. In telling his story, he purposely puts it in the disjointed language of a Japanese-American. He has a wife and two really handsome little children, and it is as happy a family as one could find anywhere.

CRASH HURTS PASTOR.

Two Injured in Automobile Accident While Inspecting Proposed Mission Sites.

Rev. C. M. Carter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and W. B. Percival of the Percival Iron Works, were thrown from an automobile yesterday afternoon and seriously injured. The accident occurred at Fifty-first street and South Park avenue. Rev. Mr. Carter was removed to his home, No. 1225 Ingraham street, and Percival was taken to his residence, No. 530 South Boyle avenue. Both are bruised and may develop internal injuries, but no bones are broken.

Rev. Mr. Carter and Percival, with other members of the First Baptist Church, were making a tour of the city inspecting the proposed locations of several Baptist missions, which that church is planning to build. The machine was being driven on South Park avenue south, when a San Pedro-street car of the Los Angeles Railway drew up behind them. It is believed the motorman of the street car thought the automobile was about to turn off the track, for when the car was close behind the automobile the latter turned slightly and the street car proceeded, crashing against the automobile when the machine did not leave the track.

Rev. Carter and Mr. Percival, who were seated together in the rear, were thrown out and struck the pavement heavily. Two other occupants of the automobile were not thrown out or injured.

Rev. Dr. Carter has been pastor of the First Baptist Church but a few months, coming here from the East. Shortly after taking up the work of his pastorate here he proposed to establish small missions in different parts of the city, as outlined in the extension movement of the church. It was in connection with this work that the party was inspecting the lots available.

Mr. Percival was formerly a physician, but gave up the practice of medicine to go into the iron business.

MORE RECOIL?

RECALL CLOUD ON HORIZON.

GARBAGE STATION TO CREATE NEW POLITICAL ODORS.

Residents of De Soto Heights Plan Invocation of the Choice Charter Fad Because the Council Will Not Abolish Transfer Station. Call on the City Attorney.

A recall election cloud, no larger than a man's hand now, has apeared on the horizon of the Good Government administration. It is located over De Soto heights, whose improvement association is militant under its influence. And with it comes the odor of garbage.

According to admissions of W. C. Powelson, a grocer at No. 1962 North Soto street, a movement has been inaugurated by those who object to the new garbage loading station at the Covina junction of the Pacific Electric lines, which has for its end the elimination of the nine impeccable Good Government Councilmen. The Council ignored the protest of residents of the neighborhood.

Powelson was the man who headed the recent remonstrance presented to the Council and he says the people of the entire district about the new garbage station are ready to bleed for their rights.

"We are building up a splendid residence section and our home-building was based on the security from such things as a garbage dump. The city has an incinerator and we believe that is where the garbage should be taken. I know that a recall is being talked of but it is not likely the persons starting it will disclose themselves until ready for work."

Others in the neighborhood winked and said the recall would apear with all its rampart ferocity at the psychological moment. The fact that such a proceeding is in contemplation was discovered when a committee called on C. H. Tribit, law clerk in the City Attorney's office, and asked information as to what is necessary for a recall.

Tribit dealt out the cold-blooded law, but it did not seem to dismay them. The task of recalling a whole Council of nine Good Government members in a city of 319,198 souls, with about 70,000 voters, is great. Also expensive. But the De Soto heights committee seemed encouraged after Tribit had cited the legal requirements.

To invoke the recall the promoters, whoever they are, must procure about 9500 signatures of bona fide voters in the city. It will not be necessary to give the garbage station as the reason. In fact no reason need be stated. It is simply a plain petition asking that they be removed from office. An election would cost the city about $15,000.

The small cloud may be a nucleus for a political cyclone as there are many elements all over the city who are ready to unite in a general recalling of everybody and everything that stands under the domination of the Lissner—Good Government organization. As the recall was the step by which the Lissner machine got its first hold on public office it is not assumed that the Councilmen will disclaim on it. It is one of the particular Lissnerite fads and is part of the little Napoleon's programme for the whole State when his Legislature meets.

In the meantime nine orders for cyclone cellars may be flashed across the country Kansas-ward by the particular objects of the vengence of the De Soto heights people.

Reasons may be as thick as blackberries before long, the promoters say—good and sufficient ones, too.

SEEKS BOND REDUCTION.

Attorney Thompson, Charged With Having Received Money Stolen from Mails Tired of Jail.

Attorney Fred H. Thompson, who is held by the Federal authorities on charges of having received money stolen from the mails, is tiring of the confines of the County Jail.

His attorneys yesterday made application to Judge Wellborn of the United States District Court to have his bail reduced from $15,000 to $10,000. The magistrate will listen to the grounds upon which the reduction is sought Saturday.

It is likely that the United States Attorneys will resist the application, as they insisted that the bail should be fixed at $15,000 when Thompson was taken in custody.

GROWING FAST.

DEALS IN GAS SPREAD SOUTH.

Natural Fluid to Be Served in Bakersfield.

High-Tension Lines to Run to San Bernardino.

Big Bond Issue Authorized for Development.

Two transactions of importance toward furnishing natural gas in Southern California have been concluded. The Bakersfield Gas and Electric Company, subsidiary to the $25,000,000 San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, has signed a contract with the California Natural Gas Company to supply such gas in Bakersfield.

Financial interests controlling the $40,000,000 Pacific Light and Power Corporation have formed the Southern California Gas Company, capital $10,000,000, and have voted bonds for the purpose of furnishing gas throughout this part of the State.

In the first transaction the Bakersfield company will control a gas well in the Midway field, owned by the California Natural Gas Company, alone capable, it is believed of supplying the needs of Bakersfield for years to come.

The gas mains from this well are already within eight miles of those of the Bakersfield Gas and Electric Company, and as pipe already has been unloaded in Bakersfield for the connection, the natural gas probably will be in use for domestic and commercial purposes in the northern city within three weeks.

For some months Los Angeles capitalists interested in the San Joaquin Valley and the oil fields have been looking upon Bakersfield as a coming manufacturing and distributing point and as a result the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation recently purchased the gas, electric and traction lines of that city.

A high tension line for the supplying of current in the oil districts is under construction to Bakersfield at present from the Fresno system, and an auxiliary plant of 750 kilowatt capacity has just been completed in Bakersfield and has been turned over to the operating company.

BAKERSFIELD IN ADVANCE.

"Bakersfield has a great future before it," said A. C. Balch, yesterday "as it is the logical manufacturing and distributing point for the oil fields and the southern part of the San Joaquin Valley and as a result we are prepared to aid in this development in every way possible.

"The contract for the supplying of the gas already has been signed and we are assured of an ample supply for the needs of Bakersfield. The Bakersfield system now is being given a complete overhauling to enable the natural gas to be used, and, as the connections will be made within three weeks, the natural gas will be in use before the first of the year.

"This will do much to build up Bakersfield as a manufacturing town for there will be nothing left undone to make the city service attractive to those who desire to erect plants in the vicinity of the oil fields."

W. G. Kerchoff is president and A. C. Balch is general manager of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation.

GAS IN THE SOUTHLAND.

The newly organized Southern California Gas Company takes over the plants and property of the Domestic Gas Company and will carry out the work which was planned by that organization.

The permanent officers of the new company have not been elected, but the incorporating directors are A. C. Johnston, Charles Forman, A. N. Kemp, E. R. Davis and H. Baumgartner.

The first work that will be carried on by the new company will be the completion of the service south of Slauson avenue in this city at an estimated cost of $160,000.

Two trainloads of pipe already are on the way to the city for this work and the whole southern end of the city is to be gridironed with gas mains fed by a high pressure six-inch line from the Santa Fe-avenue plant. The work will be complete by Christmas.

As soon as this work is out of the way and the finishing touches are put on the high pressure system to Glendale, the company will take up the building of the high pressure line to San Bernardino, Riverside and Redlands.

A ten-inch high pressure line will be run to Pomona, with branches serving the towns lying along the main line of the Pacific Electric. At Pomona a second pumping station may be installed to handle the gas from Pomona through Claremont, Upland and Ontario to San Bernardino.

SAN BERNARDINO PLANS.

At San Bernardino, the present plant will be used simply as an auxiliary, and a distributing system will be installed to handle the country south and east of that city.

When this sixty-mile line is complete it will form the longest high pressure gas system in the country.

"The Domestic Gas Company," Mr. Balch said yesterday, "was well organized and equipped for carrying on the work, but Southern California is growing so rapidly that it is necessary to provide funds for future growth. To this end the new incorporation was formed and a large bonded indebtedness was authorized. The authorization does not mean however that the money will be spent at once. We are preparing to care for the growth of Southern California.

"On light, heat and transportation depends the future of this section and we are straining every nerve to keep up our end of the service."

WEDDING; THEN JAIL.

Dan Avery, who was taken from his bride of a few hours, to go to jail, was arraigned before Justice Baird yesterday on a charge of mistreatment. Avery is acused by Ella Stearns of having wronged her, under promise of marriage. Ascertaining that he did not intend to carry out his alleged promises, she swore to a complaint charging him with a felony. While the officers were searching for him Monday, he was being wedded. Less than half a dozen hours after the ceremony, he was taken in custody.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Councilman Washburn shows that the statement of the City Auditor concerning aqueduct finances made a great error; also shows present need of refinancing.

Because another's handwriting was well copied though his name was incorrectly spelled, Joseph Schmidt will probably be tried for forgery instead of passing a fictitious check.

By the will of Anna Josephine Breed, filed for probate yesterday, part of what is known as "Chinatown," in this city, was willed to a daughter, Lillian May Moore of San Francisco.

An interesting case involving the disposition of $10,000 worth of property in Long Beach, is on trial before Judge Wilbur. W. H. and G. Pugh allege that John A. G. Nelson promised to give it to them.

An important issue involving the rights of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway Company to use Main street, is involved in a damage action being heard in Judge Moss' court.

AT THE CITY HALL.

SHOWS AQUEDUCT NEEDS MONEY.

WASHBURN REBATES MAYOR AND AUDITOR FOR ERRORS.

Says Those Officials Who Should Be Careful in Advising the Council Are Furnishing Wrong Statements of Finances — What the Accountant's Books Show.

Errors of his colleagues in the Good Government administration were pointed out by Councilman Washburn yesterday when he rose to a question of personal privilege in the Council.

He is chairman of the Finance Committee and is supposed to have intimate knowledge of the city's treasury. He mild mannered and patient but his indictment of the Mayor and the City Auditor and the "solid five" of the Council yesterday, uttered in tones of suppressed indignation, disclosed their tendencies toward hypocrisy and ignorance for political effect.

Once before Washburn exposed the Mayor's error of $350,000 in a statement about the aqueduct finances. Yesterday Washburn disclosed an error of $458,856 in the statement of City Auditor Myers about the same finances. The statement was intended to vindicate the Mayor and the "solid five" in their attitude toward the refinancing of the aqueduct so that work may be accelerated now and the contract for the steel siphons let, requiring $2,300,000 in all. The auditor attempted to show through the administration press that the aqueduct has over $2,000,000 "in sight, for the aqueduct and that it can build the power system out of the sinking fund and still have the money on hand to meet maturing aqueduct debt.

These are the aqueduct finance figures furnished Washburn by E. V. Harding, chief accountant of the aqueduct bureau:

Cash on hand December 1 above liabilities (approximate)	$360,000
Due from water department	126,000
Due from individuals and companies	50,000
From sinking fund	400,000
	968,000
Expenses December and January	650,000
Available for February	$16,000

This statement shows in detail what The Times showed in round figures last Sunday—that the aqueduct finances are approaching a dangerous point and that the refinancing was desirable for all the ends the aqueduct will serve.

The auditor reported the cash on hand in the aqueduct funds November 23rd as $862,856. He made no allowance for obligations charged to this fund in the aqueduct department. Deducting these Accountant Harding finds that the actual cash balance on November 23rd was actually $462,957. The auditor made a mistake of only $458,856 in this statement.

The real fact of the situation is that the Mayor and the Good Government office holders, eager to "make a killing" in a political way, rushed in without facts to justify their defamation of the integrity of the men who attempted to readjust the aqueduct finances. Washburn's statement pilloried them mercilessly. In it he said:

"In July when the last bonds were sold the Board of Public Works were obliged to greatly curtail aqueduct construction on account of insufficient funds. They stated at that time and have maintained since that this reduction caused great expense and serious delay. It was understood then and until the recent negotiations culminated that this state of affairs should be remedied at the earliest possible moment.

"When the matter was up in the Council two weeks ago Gen. Chaffee and Mr. Mulholland appeared and stated that upon present curtailed operations there would be on hand February 1st next, after using all of the Sinking Fund and the amount due from the Water Department, enough to continue operations about one month, and also that money furnished according to the schedule named in the present contract would extend the time for the completion of the Aqueduct from five to six months.

"Mr. Lippincott at a subsequent conference between the Mayor, Council, Board of Public Works and Aqueduct Board made a detailed statement, showing a clear loss of over half a million by the delay.

"In this matter all sorts of inaccurate and misleading statements have been made. The Mayor sent a communication which was $350,000 out of the way. The Auditor in publishing an interview overstated the available cash balance on November 23rd by $458,856 and by this means showed abundant funds on hand.

"In other statements he asserts that some two or three million dollars will be lost by investing the Sinking Fund in one class of bonds issued by the city instead of another although they bear the same rate of interest. I must confess that this is a new system of finance with which I am not familiar.

"It was asserted that efforts were made to 'jam the measure through the Council.' The bond syndicate have been branded as thieves. The Chamber of Commerce and the Realty Board when they presented respectful resolutions were charged with 'juggling' figures and trying to coerce this body. The banks of the city, who by their timely and public spirited assistance last summer probably saved a complete suspension of aqueduct construction were sneeringly referred to. The Board of Public Works and Aqueduct Board were accused of being two faced in the matter.

"I have all along been unable to understand why such intemperate language has been indulged in in this matter. I have no fault to find with my associates in this Council for honestly disagreeing with me. I have no reason for believing that my judgment is better than theirs. It may be that it was not a wise contract to make. Possibly a better one will come out of it all.

"I am coming to believe, however, that some members of this Council have been misled by wholly inaccurate figures furnished by officials whose duty it is to give us information. If this is the case a great and unwarranted responsibility has thereby been taken by these officials and one that merits the severest condemnation."

CITY PLANNING.

MAYOR NAMES COMMISSION.

The Mayor yesterday appointed the City Planning Commission authorized some weeks ago by a resolution introduced in the Council by Councilman Gregory. The purpose of the commission is to advise with reference to the planning of wide streets as arteries of traffic from one part of the city to the other, boulevards to make all portions of the city accessible and to develop and enlarge on the City Beautiful plans prepared by Mulford Robinson four years ago.

The members of the commission are: Chairman, Rev. Dana W. Bartlett of the Housing Commission; F. W. Blanchard of the Municipal Art Commission; C. F. Edson, of the Municipal Music Commission; Mrs. Bryant; Miss H. M. Wills, secretary of the Friday Morning Club; Councilman M. S. Gregory, Mrs. D. K. Dickinson of the Ebell Club; C. H. Randall of the Park Board; J. W. Radford of the Playground Commission; W. H. Humphreys of the Board of Public Works; T. B. Comstock of the Board of Public Utilities staff; A. P. Fleming of the Harbor Commission; E. O. Edgerton, secretary of the Municipal League; Purd B. Wright, City Librarian, and Garner Curran, president of the Federated Improvement Associations.

EDENDALE'S DAY.

STREET CAR CONTROVERSY.

All Edendale is expected at the Council Chamber tomorrow afternoon. The population of this hilly district is invited to aid the Committee on Streets and Boulevards in an attempt to solve the traction problem concerning the Edendale line, which has been pending in diverse forms before the Council for two years without settlement of any portion.

At yesterday's session City Attorney Shenk submitted a long opinion holding that the people had rights over the company by which the latter should deed its right of way along Alessando street to the public, should construct certain bridges, open certain streets across its tracks and procure a franchise to cross Montana, Effie and Baxter streets, and other streets, and that equity justified the same people in expecting transfers from the Edendale line to others.

Chairman Gregory, of the Streets Committee, is the special champion of Edendale, and it was at his suggestion that action was postponed until tomorrow afternoon when he expects the Pacific Electric Company to make its final proposition on the matter.

The City Attorney recommended that ten days' notice be sent to the Pacific Electric officials to procure a franchise for the streets where it has none, or submit to an interruption of its service by the city. But this will not be done until after Edendale has shared the committee's labor. The committee will meet at 1:30 o'clock and the Council will hear its report at 2 o'clock, when the main body is scheduled to meet to pass on the monthly payrolls.

AUTO JAIL SENTENCE.

WILL STAY IN LANE.

The mandatory jail sentence for autoists who exceed thirty miles an hour in the streets of Los Angeles is likely to remain a feature of the traffic ordinance. When the amendments were reported to the Council by the Legislation Committee yesterday, this provision was attacked by Roy P. Hillman, president, and Charles L. Batcheller, attorney, for the Automobile Club of southern California, and Sergt. Butler of the traffic squad, and by half a dozen Councilmen, including "Uncle Jerry" Andrews, chairman of the committee that reported it favorably.

Hillman and Batcheller declared the sentence of ten days in jail for exceeding thirty miles was the mainspring of the law and that the club they represented believed in it and wanted it maintained and enforced.

Sergt. Butler said he had not proposed the amendment and believed it retrogressive.

Councilmen also repudiated it until finally "Uncle Jerry" asked that it be sent back to his committee for another report.

The amendment proposed to substitute a fine for imprisonment. Authorship of the amendment was denied by everybody, and discussion ended with everybody against it. Otherwise, the new traffic regulations seemed unanimously approved.

TO AID ENGINEER?

REALTY BOARD'S REQUEST.

Members of the Council who heard W. M. Garland present the request of the Realty Board for official recognition of a volunteer corps of engineers to extricate the City Engineer's office from its overload of work are wondering if he dealt in fine sarcasm when he alluded to the engineer's office.

Telling the Council the needs of tract subdividers in the matter of expeditious street improvements and the inability of the engineer's office to advance work, Garland said he believed the engineer's force was doing as well as it could considering the great amount of work in a city growing unprecedentedly as Los Angeles is.

After the Council adjourned members of the Council who remembered this were interested in knowing that the engineer now has 239 employees in his department, and that it costs about $350,000 a year to run the office.

The Realty Board finds that the engineer is a year behind with his work and proposes to supply enough engineers without cost to the city, to push the street improvements in subdivisions. The appeal was received favorably by the Council, which does not seem to sympathize with the assertions of the engineering department that it must have more assistance to perform its work.

What the Realty Board asks is that persons wanting immediate improvements may employ an engineer to take up the work at once without passing through the usual course of stagnation in the engineer's office. This request was embodied in the following resolution, which was referred to the Supply Committee for investigation:

"Whereas, there is much delay in the completion of various kinds of work in the City Engineering Department, resulting in great hindrance and obstruction to the improvement of the streets of the city,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the City Engineer is hereby authorized and instructed to accept the services of engineers outside the department employed by those who pay for the work and approved by the City Engineer, said work performed by said outside engineers to be subject to the approval of the City Engineer and to be done without expense to the city."

It is probable before the committee makes its report it will inquire what the Engineering Department is accomplishing with all its men and its money.

Harbor and Power Bonds.

Councilman Washburn, chairman of the Finance Committee, announced yesterday that he had been advised by the City Attorney that it is expected to have a decision on the suit to test the power bonds before January 1, and that on that date the Council might expect preparations to advertise the bonds for sale. The issue is $3,500,000. It is also likely the harbor bonds will be ready for action at the same time. This issue is $2,600,000.

New Milk Inspectors.

The Board of Public Health yesterday appointed J. J. Flanagan and E. H. McGee as additional milk inspectors.

SO VERY YOUNG.

MISS KISSIE NEEDS CARE.

GIRL'S PROPERTY IS WORTH EIGHTEEN THOUSAND.

Six-Year-Old Tot Is Related to Jockey Ransch, Who Won Sporting Renown Through His Large Winnings on Paris Race Track Some Years Ago.

A petition was filed in the Probate Court yesterday, by George L. Davis, asking that he be appointed guardian of Miss Kissie Young Ransch, 6 years old, who has come into possession of property valued at about $18,000.

Most of the property consists of the furniture of the Hotel Marlborough, valued at $14,000.

The child is the niece of Mrs. E. M. Scholl, mother of the jockey, Jay Ransch, who has gained distinction because of his large winnings on the turf in Paris. Mrs. Scholl shortly before her death married Davis, a hotel clerk, who now asks to be made guardian of the child.

By the will left by the mother, Ransch was left merely a nominal sum, the little girl getting the bulk of the estate.

There were reports that a contest would be instituted, but the matter was never brought into court. The estate willed the child is held for her benefit by Davis as trustee.

BABCOCK QUITS.

WILL GO TO PRISON.

O. F. Babcock, a young business man of this city, who was convicted in Judge Willis' court of assault with intent to rape, quit the fight for his freedom yesterday when his petition for a writ of probable cause was withdrawn. The Court of Appeals decided against Babcock, and he will at once begin serving his term of ten years in San Quentin.

Notice was also given the court that there would be no appeal to a higher court in the case of W. H. Jay, convicted of swindling G. W. Robbins out of $500 in a sale of stock of the Baxter Mining and Milling Company. An application was made for the release of Jay on probation. The matter will be disposed of December 5.

Arthur Wurlitzer, who pleaded guilty of making a criminal assault was released on three years' probation.

Earl W. Johnson, charged with embezzlement, and who pleaded guilty to the information, and was released on probation, was allowed to go on his own recognizance on the allegation that he had violated the terms of his release. Johnson was before the Lunacy Court several days ago, and made his escape from the courtroom, going directly to his home.

NELSON AND HIS MONEY.

VARIOUS CLAIMANTS FOR IT.

An interesting case involving parties in Long Beach began before Judge Wilbur, yesterday. It has to do with the disposition of the $16,000 estate left by John A. G. Nelson, who died in that city November 26, 1909. He was a recluse and one of the familiar characters of the beach town.

The plaintiffs in the action are William H. Pugh and wife, against Eva E. Bell, G. W. Bell, her husband, and other heirs-at-law of the testator. The prayer of the complaint is that the court order all of the property left by Nelson, after the payment of the debts, to be given to the Pughs, by virtue of an alleged agreement entered into with Nelson, seven years before his death.

The Pughs formerly lived at Galesburg, Ill., where the head of the family was connected with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway. In February, 1902, Pugh made a trip to Long Beach, and spent some days with Nelson, his brother-in-law.

On that occasion Nelson complained to Pugh that he was living alone; that he was tired of "baching" it, and desired some one to have a care of him in his declining years. Pugh alleges that Nelson made the offer to him that if he and his wife would come to Long Beach, and look after him during the remainder of his life, he would leave them all of his property. The Pughs removed to Long Beach, caring for Nelson as long as he lived, it is asserted.

When Nelson died search was made for a will that would carry out the provisions of the agreement, but none was found. The action was brought to enforce the alleged contract.

On the part of the defendants, the existence of the contract as set out by the Pughs is denied. It is also alleged that Pugh and his wife left Nelson alone fifteen months before he died, and that after G. W. Bell was appointed administrator of the estate that Pugh rendered a bill for $986, supposedly for caring for Nelson, that was allowed.

SILBERSTEIN EXONERATED.

FROM CHARGE OF SLANDER.

In Judge Monroe's court yesterday the action brought by Alexander Brick against Jacob Silberstein, of the firm of Silberstein & Son, charging slander on the part of the defendant, and asking for damages in $50,000, was quickly disposed of. The action was dismissed, and Mr. Silberstein vindicated completely, after a brief hearing.

Brick, a brother-in-law of the Silbersteins, has had business troubles with his relatives for some time. Recently an action was brought for an accounting of a partnership heretofore existing in the woolen goods business between the Silbersteins and Brick, in which serious charges were made along financial lines against Brick. The case was set for a hearing November 22, but because the Silbersteins could not have the report of the experts ready, the case was dismissed without prejudice, and will be re-filed to-day, it is stated.

EIGHTEEN YEARS.

SINCE SHE LEFT HIM.

An unusual case of divorce was disposed of by Judge Conrey yesterday. When the court granted an interlocutory decree, he remarked that while the circumstances pointed to a case of desertion, there was absolutely nothing in the evidence to show why the wife had left her husband and two children, eighteen years ago.

The plaintiff in the action was Benjamin Blake, manager of the Amalgamated Oil Refinery in this city, against Juliet I. Blake, who for some years has made her home in San Francisco. They were married in Marysville, in 1878, and in 1892 Mrs. Blake left her family never to return.

The plaintiff testified that there was some trouble between his wife and himself early in 1892 on account of the presence of his wife's brother in the household, but that he had not seriously objected to the young man making his home with his family. He stated he knew of no other possible reason for her actions.

A daughter said she was but a child when her mother left home, and beyond the fact that she had gone away and left her father with two small children on his hands, and that her mother had repeatedly told her she would never return to her old home, she knew nothing about the case.

"A very curious case," said Judge Conrey. "There is nothing to do however but grant the decree under the testimony."

"CHINATOWN" DISPOSED OF.

BY THE WILL OF MRS BREED.

The will of Anna Josephine Breed, who died in San Francisco, October 21, was offered for probate yesterday. It disposes of property valued at $152,000. Newman Essick, of this city, offered the will for probate, and he is the executor under the instrument, to serve without bond.

One of the features of the will is the item bequeathing to a daughter, Lillian May Moore, of San Francisco, "that part of Los Angeles, known as Chinatown," at Alameda and Marchessault streets, and valued at $75,000. In addition to the real estate mentioned, there is $57,000 in stocks and bonds.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

SUIT OF LAUNDRY COMPANY. An action was brought yesterday by the Empire Steam Laundry against Ira T. Fellows, to restrain the defendant from canvassing or soliciting orders from the customers of the plaintiff.

QUESTION OF FRANCHISE. In an action, being heard by Judge Rose, brought by Sallie Boyle, whose husband, Edward E. Boyle, died as the result of injuries received while attempting to cross the track of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway Company, an interesting question is at stake. The allegation of the plaintiff is that the line occupies Main street without a franchise, and occupies that thoroughfare without legal sanction, and that it is therefore an interloper to that extent. Mrs. Boyle is asking $50,000 damages.

MINOR MATTERS. Judge Hutton, presiding for Judge Bordwell yesterday, granted the petition of Asa A. Strubb to change his name to Asa A. Dowling. He allowed the Highland Park Ebell Club to dispose of certain property.

JUDGMENT AGAINST FERRIS. Judge Bordwell yesterday ordered judgment for Charles S. Burnell, assignee of the Traders' Bank of Los Angeles, against Dick Ferris, for $2100, on a note given by Ferris to the bank May 13, 1909. Judgment for costs and attorney fees accompanied the order.

DAMAGE ACTION. Judge McCormick and a jury are hearing the evidence in the case brought by William D. Harris against the Pioneer Building Company, the damages being fixed at $31,675. On November 14, 1909, while walking along in front of the Bradbury building at Third and Broadway, Harris was struck by a fence that had been erected by the defendants while repairs were being made on the building, and severely injured.

CHARGED WITH MURDER. The trial of Domingo Sandoval, who is charged with the murder of Toribio Urena, at Duarte, September 16, is in progress before Judge Willis and a jury. The killing grew out of a dispute, and it is the contention of the accused that he shot his assailant in self-defense.

PROBATION DENIED. In Judge Davis's court, Charles W. Sherrod, who pleaded guilty to an information alleging burglary, was denied probation and sent to San Quentin for two years. E. J. Phillips, who pleaded guilty to making an assault with a deadly weapon, was released on two years' probation.

ALL ABOUT A TRADE. Judge Hervey is hearing the suit brought by H. S. Beaver against Max and Mary Handschleiger. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants entered into an agreement to exchange for ten acres of land in Orange county, a house and lot in Walnut Grove. He also sets out they failed to fulfill the arrangement. The defendants claim that Beaver represented to them that the property in Orange county was good for the culture of English walnuts, and they found this to be untrue, they say. They ask that the contract be declared void.

INCORPORATIONS. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by Ventura California Oil Company, capital stock, $2,000,000; incorporators, D. L. Peters, F. E. Schaad, S. W. Odell, E. B. Rhoades, H. A. Odell, R. R. Tanner and H. W. Taft, subscribed, $7; Papage Mining Company, capital stock, $200,000, incorporators, F. F. Stetson, W. H. Beman, J. N. Rushton, A. M. Vanwhy, Dexter Samson, Dr. J. W. Trueworthy and E. M. Bind, subscribed, $70; Bungalow Apartment Company, capital stock, $100,000, incorporators, Thomas A. O'Donnell, James E. O'Donnell and Ellis T. Yarnell, subscribed, $1000; City Railway Company of Los Angeles, capital stock, $5,000,000, incorporators, Howard Huntington, George C. Ward, C. A. Henderson, J. E. Brown, W. E. Dunn, S. M. Haskins and Albert Crutcher, subscribed, $5,000,000.

Copied Handwriting Well But Misspelled Name He Signed to Check—Charge Will Probably Be Changed from "Passing a Fictitious Check" to One of Forgery.

Joseph Schmidt was held for trial in the Superior Court by Police Judge Rose yesterday but the charge of passing a fictitious check will probably be changed to one of forgery.

After considerable argument with Deputy District Attorney Hill, Police Judge Rose declared he could not agree with him that the complaint should charge simply fictitious check-passing when, in his opinion, the defendant had failed to commit forgery simply through his own ignorance.

Schmidt's case is peculiar in that though gifted with considerable ability

KEEPS PEGGING AWAY.
THIS WELL ON THE JOB.

While there is so much talk of Midway gushers, it is a relief to turn to a well doing good service that has never been in the gusher class. There is a flowing well on the Twenty-Five Oil Company's lease, on section 25, township 32, range 23, which was brought in on June 15 at the rate of 600 barrels a day, and is now making 400 barrels a day, never having been off the job for a single day.

The Twenty-Five Oil Company pays a dividend of $10,000 a month and keeps two strings of tools running. Besides paying good dividends the company is laying aside an emergency fund.

STANDARD IN MARKET.
BUYING ON CONTRACTS.

It is said that the Standard Oil Company of California is again in the market to make contracts for oil, instead of confining its business to buying on daily runs. This is only true of the lighter oils of the Westside fields of Kern county. It is reported that an offer of 45 cents a barrel was made for 22 gravity oil, which is better than recent offers made by the Santa Fe.

Operators producing these lighter oils are optimistic over the outlook, believing that they will receive better prices for their product before very long.

Consumption in the Fields.

In the San Joaquin Valley oil fields in October the consumption of oil amounted to 252,000 barrels. Kern River, with 1561 wells pumping and forty-four drilling, burned 150,000 barrels of the fuel. McKittrick consumed 20,000 barrels, Midway 32,000 barrels, Sunset 30,000 barrels, and in Coalinga 13,000 barrels. In this district both gas and electricity are used, cutting down the consumption of oil.

Longest String in State.

Wilcox & Fleshacker, on section 12, township 20, range 15, Coalinga field, have landed the 12½-inch casing at 2254 feet, which is the longest string of casing of that size in the State. The 10-inch string is now being set in and Superintendent Wilcox intends to carry it to 3500 feet. He will shut off the lower water with the 8¼-inch and go into the oil sand with the 6¼ heavy casing.

A FOOL PHASE.

Given a college professor with a sensational tongue and too much leisure, and the result is a brilliant insanity on the woman question. Whenever a college man with more ambition than originality desires to shine before the public, he breaks into print with some new discovery regarding woman.

Now, we confess the subject is prolific. We admit that a man may know only one woman and may still make new discoveries about the woman question every day of his life. We concede that woman is a subject never to be exhausted, and that she is as eternally interesting as she is indispensable. Nevertheless, we have small relish for the asinine remarks of the notoriety-seeking college man who makes woman the everlasting subject of a silly attack when he is completely out of intellectual soap.

Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, the strength expert of Harvard, is the latest university man to be guilty of an outbreak in this direction. Dr. Sargent has been amazed, although not struck dumb, by the discovery that the woman of today is more masculine than the woman of yesteryear, and that men are less so. He broadly declares that women have larger intellects and also larger feet than formerly, while they have smaller hips, rounder waists, broader shoulders and thicker necks. He bases his calculations on observations made during the last twenty years.

It is a dangerous thing for a man who has been studying woman for only twenty years to have anything whatever to say on the subject. Still more dangerous is it to make invidious comparisons of woman as she is found in the modern drawing-room or anywhere else, with her lovely grandmother or great-grandmother. Dr. Sargent says that woman has changed, and that modern economic conditions have brought this change about. He calls it "The coming forward of woman," because he thinks man, in the refining of himself, is becoming effeminate. If it should happen that a certain physical development or even physical change would better fit women for any work they may have to do in the world, it can be no great cause for alarm. And if it should happen that, as the world grows older, woman develops more of the reasoning and man more of the intuitive faculties, this would only be a cause for congratulation, since the symmetry of the race would thereby be enhanced. No amount of refinement on the part of man, and no amount of development on the part of woman can ever alter the fact that children must always be the issue of man and woman together. This fact alone will keep woman feminine and man masculine to the last degree of nature, and this fact also guarantees that the silly twaddle about a sex war is, indeed, the veriest dribble.

THE GAME OF CHESS.

It is to be hoped that the promised chess tournament between the clubs of Los Angeles and San Diego will stimulate an interest in this ancient and intellectual game among the good people of Southern California. In this busy, bustling age men do not find so much time as of old for quiet indoor recreation, wherefor the game of chess is not so generally played now as it was in the days of our forefathers.

Yet what a marvel of ingenuity must have been exercised by the inventor of this mimic warfare, played on a board of sixty-four squares with thirty-two pieces of inanimate wood or ivory. The possible combinations are unlimited; out of millions of games no two have ever been played exactly alike. No other trial of skill has ever approached this one for variety or continual freshness of interest. It calls for the finest exercise of brain and temper; it requires the rare power of concentration in its fullest meaning; the pleasure of forcing a checkmate is an intellectual stimulant.

The battle of the chess-men is eminently typical of the battle of life; the efficient chess-player has learned a lot as to marshaling his attack and arranging his defenses in the real battlefield of human endeavor. Every man on the chess board has an ethical significance.

The king is the man himself, the ego, the individual entity, apparently of such importance, the central figure round which the other forces play; yet, in reality, the most helpless combatant on the board. The knight, with his vicious little side-leaps, represents the sharp, superficial wit; the first to come to the rescue of the king and the quickest to attack the opposing forces. At the corner of his long, slim, diagonal line, behold the bishop! patiently biding his time; ready at the opportune moment to glide swiftly into the citadel of the opposing king and hopelessly disorganize his defense. Behind the battle-line stands the sturdy, solid castle—not much in evidence when the conflict starts—but growing steadily in importance as the game proceeds. He is the sound, common sense and thoroughly specialized training which stays a man in later life and insures him his victories over the three-cornered knights and diagonal bishops. But as the real leader, both in attack and defense, the queen is the most powerful of all the fighters; deprived of her aid the king soon topples to defeat, uncrowned, helpless, cornered, checkmated! She stands for original talent, natural fitness, magnetism, genius, the most potential influences in earthly affairs.

And then, lastly, we come to the pawns, the little foot-soldiers, the humble workers; apparently of small value, individually, yet on the disposition of whom depends the success or failure of the game. The pawns then are the unostentatious, work-day virtues, armed with which good men quietly play their parts in the battle of life, and which at the last grand round-up may prove of greater value than queen or castle or bishop or knight.

Zoroaster, Confucius, or whoever, in the impenetrable mists of antiquity, originated the game of chess, was symbolizing by the movement of black and white figures over a mathematically complete square the eternal laws and principles that direct the motions and govern the attainments of every human life.

NO POLITICS IN THE TARIFF.

President Taft is credited—whether accurately or not is a matter of conjecture—with the statement that there shall be "no politics in the new tariff board." How can he keep politics out of it? Admitting that it is wise to revise the tariff by a scientific commission, upon a scientific basis, will that basis be the Democratic basis of a tariff for revenue only? If so, then duties must be levied on coffee and tea, which are now on the free list, and the duties on manufactured articles must be lowered, so as to stimulate importation of them, without regard to the interests of the American manufacturer or the American workers in factories and furnaces.

If, however, the basis of the scientific adjustment is to be a maintenance of the Republican doctrine of protection, then it would be the duty of a scientific commission to adjust customs imposts to the difference between the wages paid European operatives and the wages paid American operatives. One principle or the other must govern the deliberations and conclusions of the commission, and, accordingly as the majority of the members of the commission are Democrats or Republicans will there be a tariff, which, though changed in detail, will yet be a protective tariff, or a tariff which will disregard protection and seek revenue without regard to what may become of the American manufacturer or the American operative.

To keep politics out of the tariff is as impossible as to keep the tariff out of politics. The doctrine of protection, and the doctrine of a tariff for revenue only, are utterly irreconcilable with each other. One or the other must be discarded. One or the other must be adopted. The tariff cannot be kept out of politics. It is about the only thing left in our politics upon which parties now divide.

A RIVAL OF COTTON.

There is an industrial insurrection breeding which may topple the crown from the head of King Cotton, even as Eli Whitney's invention of the cotton gin dethroned King Wool. The cultivation of flax in the United States has, except for the gathering of the seed for the manufacture of linseed oil, almost ceased. The flax fiber is not preserved, as in Russia and Belgium, for the manufacture of linen, on account of the tedious and costly process of rotting or "retting" the flax stalks. These stalks are placed in a pond, or in a stream of water, until the woody substance around the thread in the center of the stalk is rotted and washed away. The threads are then passed through a machine, and the resulting product is spun into linen thread. From three to four months is required to "ret" the flax stalks, and the process must be watched, and the stalks moved from time to time by laborers employed for that purpose. A process has recently been patented by which the flax stalks can be "retted" in a few hours. It consists of steeping them in a bath of certain chemicals, which softens and disintegrates the woody fiber without injuring the thread. The pulpy mass is then passed through a machine and the thread is extracted all ready for the spindles. If the process shall accomplish what is claimed for it, it will make linen cheaper than cotton, for flax can be grown anywhere from Minnesota to Texas

ALL IN THE FAMILY.

THE NOTORIETY SEEKER.

Lord, we crave not bread, nor the things men call beautiful, nor yet the things that great souls seek. Lord, we beseech Thee—give us notoriety.

Let a catchy phrase, an apt saying, a "startling assertion," be heard today—any utterance that calls forth comment, either for or against itself, will serve—and immediately from far and wide it is echoed by those who seem eager to shafe in the notice it gets or the noise it arouses.

Anything under the heavens above or in the earth beneath will serve for a target for the notoriety seeker that he can make a loud enough noise about. Those who have never done anything noteworthy themselves are peculiarly prone to snatch up the most startling assertions, unproved and improvable, to hang weak, little pieces or weak, little speeches on—like hanging one's clothes on a neighbor's telephone wire. A familiar case in point is that of the otherwise obscure college professor, a moth-eaten, woman-hating fossil, who broke into notoriety by saying that to scratch the most highly civilized woman would reveal a savage. It was, of course, flagrant plagiarism of the well-known earlier phrase, "Scratch a gentleman and you find a savage." The only interest felt by normal-minded people, familiar with the plagiarist's "copy," was to wonder why he hadn't thought up something original while he was about it.

Having fulfilled its only possible mission, that of raising a mild laugh, as a palpable absurdity and to add a few cents to its "author's" pay check, the "startling assertion" should have been allowed to die a natural death. But, no:

"Big fleas have little fleas to bite 'em,
And little fleas have lesser fleas,
And so on, ad infinitum."

The foolish statement that the highest types of womanhood are untamed savages has been seized upon and made to do duty by one after another of the even smaller fry, who, by copying the yelp of the larger size fry, hope to raise a little wind of their own. Truly heaven of the notoriety seeker means a large noise.

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher.

You have endured so much of slander no wonder that it stirs your dander,
O sad-eyed mule of mine! No wonder that you're brooding, brooding, your scanty care of corn denuding, with yellow teeth that shine! Your tail, it isn't long and flowing, it's shingled, and has whiskers growing in tassel on the end; your neck is dished, and never arching, like that of war-horse, proudly marching, where strains of bugles blend. Your ears are long and out of drawing, and when you laugh your loud haw-hawing breaks distant window panes; and people jeer at and deride you; through all the ages they've denied you a decent share of brains. A thousand years ago, or over, some mule, fed up too high on clover, reached out and kicked a gent; and ever since the superstition hangs on double-dinged demnition, that mules have fell intent. And yet, O mule, you're true and trusty! I care not for the legends musty, or prejudices old:
you did not stack up high for beauty, but when the matter's one of duty, you're worth your weight in gold.
Alas! Full many a human duffer, like you, O mule, must live and suffer the world's contempt and jeers, because he is not built for dancing, for pirouetting and for prancing, and has ungainly ears.

BITS OF VERSE.

Uplifts.

Adversity is fortune's school,
Its lessons fill the air;
There's wisdom in the babbling brooks
And uplifts everywhere.

Disasters are but stepping-stones,
That span life's mystic streams,
Mere finger-posts to victory,
Or figments of our dreams.

The hand that bringeth sorrow,
Oftttimes a blessing brings,
The clouds that hover o'er us,
Are only angels wings.

If God is God and right is right,
Though fools and cowards blame,
Stand in the glowing beacon light,
That ever shines the same.

If God is God and right is right,
We cannot suffer long;
Discount the final victory,
And lift your soul in song.

—(Stillman F. Kneeland in Nautilus.

Morning Song.

The morning is my merry time,
When all the world leaps into chime,
And Labor laughs with Duty;
If Sorrow glowers, I smile her down;
I sing the wrinkles from her frown,
And gild her into beauty.

The morning may at times hold back
The halting sun, and dawn look black,
But that's because I'm laggard;
Yet when I play a man's high part,
I keep all seasons in my heart,
And morning ne'er looks haggard.

The hunt for wealth, the greed of power—
I give them but one passing hour;
They scarce are worth a bubble.
But in the riches of the mind,
I daily richer treasures find,
And board them with sweet trouble.

The mystic pile grows daily higher,
Touched, tip and slope, with skyward fire,
And owes no mite to plunder;
Till out above Time's cloud it stands,
My monument of spirit hands.
My morning's shining wonder.

—(Christopher Robert Stapleton in Youth's Companion.

Indian Summer.

Heart of my Heart, help me to make love grow
And blossom where my sun-scarred deserts meet
The gardens of your soul! give back the fleet
And futile years to me! Teach me to know
That through the trust and faith of you my slow
And web-entangled pulse shall learn to beat Again as once it did in May. But, sweet,
I lived my spring so many years ago!

I wonder if you understand what spring
And all therein has meant to me?
The May
Of life is spent and over now: Love's wing
Can never stir again the depths nor stray
The marching where my garden was.
Ah, cling
To me close, close, you sunset of my day!

—(Kelsey Percival Kitchel in Smart Set.

Open the Door.

Open the door, let in the air;
The winds are sweet, and the flowers are fair.
Joy is abroad in the world today;
If our door is wide, it may come this way.

Open the door!

Open the door, let in the sun;
He hath a smile for everyone;
He hath made of the raindrops gold and gems;
He may change our tears and diadems.

Open the door!

Open the door of the soul; let in Strong pure thoughts which shall banish sin.
They shall grow and bloom with a grace divine,
And their fruit shall be sweeter than that of the vine.

Open the door!

Open the door of the heart; let in Sympathy sweet for stranger and kin.
It will make the halls of the heart so fair
That angels may enter unaware.

Open the door!

BRAVE PRINCE CHUN, CHINA'S NEW RULER.

BY E. W. HEWSON.

China's modern policies, proposed Parliament, and other expected dynamical changes in government can be traced to Prince Chun, the regent, whose infant son Pu-Yi became the Son of Heaven and Lord of Ten Thousand Years on the deaths of their late majesties the Empress Dowager and Kwang-Hsu.

Before his sudden and unexpected accession to the regency Prince Chun, who is now approaching his thirty-third year, led a life of ease in Peking. He held a substantive office, a sinecure, which netted him 80,000 taels annually for the support of himself and family in a style befitting a Manchu prince. He had a palace of his own in the northwest quarter of the imperial city of Peking, with soldiers and servants numbered into the hundreds.

In the belief of the writer, who resided in Peking two years just prior to the deaths of their late majesties, Prince Chun never expected to receive the truly exalted honor of regent of the empire, nor expected his son to be declared Emperor. The imperial legacy left him astounded, not only himself but all Peking officialdom, as it was generally conceded that Prince Pu-jun would be the next Emperor or regent or the title would fall to his eldest son.

That the regency fell into good hands remains unquestioned by the liberal manner in which the young Manchu nobleman has unconsciously carried forward the work of the most rabid reformers in the kingdom. No Chinese or Manchu ruler in history has shown the temerity of Prince Chun to institute such drastic reforms so diametrically opposed to those of his predecessors.

Perhaps there was a method in his "madness"—fear of the turbulent state of the country and the reformers. Perhaps the Manchurian despotocracy thought best to hand out a few plums rather than lose the whole orchard. However that may be, Prince Chun deserves the world's commendation for putting into operation policies which unquestionably will make China the greatest power in the Far East, perhaps of the world.

What have become of the hundreds of rabid reactionaries that languished in the shadow of the Empress Dowager, and who negatived anything that smelled of reform? Old Prince Ching, the most virulent anti-reformist and anti-foreigner in China—where is he?

It has been said that Prince Ching, now old in years but young in guile, was the real ruler in China under the late rulers' regime. The old Empress reposed the greatest confidence in him, clothing him with the power to make all official appointments, from the meanest mandarin of the sixth class to taotis, viceroys and ministers abroad. None received his appointment, it is said until he came through with simoleons enough to justify the semi-imperial chop of the prince.

He also acted in the capacity of head porter to their late majesties, who would lend an ear to nothing, nor receive no one in audience, unless sanctioned by Ching. Here was another avenue of revenue of which the old prince was quick to take advantage. He is reputed to be the wealthiest person in all China.

If Ching has been consigned to the official junk pile along with the hundreds of others of his kind infesting the Chinese capital then China and Prince Chun have cause for general rejoicing.

The prince regent was visited by the writer shortly before the deaths of their late majesties. He bore a letter of introduction to the prince from Li Kwoh Chih, or Marquis Li, grandson of Li Hung Chang, who inherited nearly all of the old statesman's riches. The prince had sent word to the hotel that he would be pleased to receive the writer on a particular afternoon at 4 o'clock. Promptly at that hour the carriage arrived in front of the spacious entrance of the prince's compound of courts and houses. Manchu bannermen were lined up at the gateway, and hundreds of liveried servants remained at attention while the guests entered and left compound after compound on the way to the princely chamber. A smaller court revealed the prince standing at his doorway, his face wreathed in a broad, bland smile. He advanced toward the guests and offered each his hand.

The usual Oriental formalities done with, the guests were invited to a menu of the finest viands and sweetmeats produced in China, washed down with tea, scented with rose leaves—the most delicious tea in the world—and foreign champagne.

The prince could not speak English but had a rambling knowledge of German which he disliked to use, and which he learned while on a visit to Germany after the boxer troubles to publicly apologize for the murder in Peking of Baron von Kettler, the German minister. He preferred to speak Chinese, which was explained by an interpreter.

It is customary in China to ask after one's sons, for if there be sons in a family then the father and mother will be blest by an abundance of prosperity and great longevity, so the superstition runs. The guests inquired of the prince whether he had sons, and he replied with a modest smile that he had one—an infant son—who was then asleep in the next room. Little it was dreamed at the time that this commonplace talk dealt with Chinese emperors and prince regents.

The visit lasted upwards of an hour. When the guests started to leave they were accompanied to the first gateway by the young Manchu nobleman who, with his olive complexion, aquiline nose and brilliant eyes is one of the handsomest men in China. He bowed the visitors out without formality. Those who visited the prince that day voted him a "jolly good fellow."

Why Los Angeles Grows.

Los Angeles has grown from 102,479 in 1909 to 319,000 in 1910. There have been years in which the city led every other in the nation in new building except New York and Chicago, and its percentage of increase—if percentages are worth anything—is the highest in the country among cities of more than a hundred thousand people.

This forward movement of Los Angeles has been due in the first place to the energy and enterprise of her whole body of citizenship. Then she has been fortunate in having men of the best who could be trusted to head an advance movement. They have been men of great ability at the same time with rugged honesty. They have been animated by a civic spirit. These men have given time and means to the general welfare of their city because they were attached to it and their pride affection—for it is nothing else—work out in the way of which the census is only the index.

Los Angeles has sought for an adequate water supply, 240 miles away, and is about completing it at an expense of $38,000,000, or much more than the total debt of Buffalo for all purposes. Besides the city has spent a great deal of money in other directions, including the construction of a harbor, to which the government has contributed liberally, it is true, but it has made Los Angeles a great city, driving forward at a splendid pace, though leaving one with the time to wonder how so big a city could find the material in an unpeopled vicinity to grow to the extent that it has.

DELAY COSTS DEAR.

Many Property Owners Fail to Pay Taxes on Time; Penalty Now Attaches.

Tardiness cost many property owners 15 per cent more taxes yesterday than they would have had to pay if they had presented their tributes the day before.

The Collector is now turning his attention to recording the checks which were received through the mails. As there are thousands of checks not yet been entered on the books, there is no present way of ascertaining how large will be the delinquency list.

The total levy was nearly $8,000,000. The amount entered on the books yesterday totaled $2,975,984. It is believed that the payment during the period which has just closed will be nearly $4,000,000.

Contrary to precedents all records were broken Saturday, when $300,388.38 was received. Ordinarily the Saturday before the close of the regular payments is a light day. The collections compare favorably with those of previous years, indicating that the money market is in good condition.

VEHICLE ORDINANCE CHANGE.

Police Anticipate a New Clause to Provide for Prompt Removal in Case of Fire.

The police anticipate that a new clause will be inserted in the traffic ordinance requiring that any vehicle left standing in the business district more than thirty minutes must be in charge of a person capable of operating it. The reason for this requirement is that in case of fire the firemen would be greatly hinderod by having vehicles lined along the curbing. The police declare that it is not necessary that automobiles be equipped with transparent number tags, as has been stated, but the tail light of the machine must be so placed that it will throw its rays upon the number. Within a few weeks the police hope an ordinance will be enacted requiring automobiles to bear the number in front as well as in the rear.

SOCIETY.

IN a setting beautiful enough to grace a court function, Miss Florence Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Modini-Wood of No. 20 St. James Park, was introduced to society yesterday afternoon. Six thousand Cecil Brunner roses and as many sprays of maidenhair fern decorated the dining-room, while 1000 hothouse Richmond roses, with quantities of greenery, transformed the library into a beautiful bower of bloom. In the hall pink Killarney roses were arranged to represent a garden scene. Long branches of the climbing rose were fastened along the walls and pillars, and the stairway was inclosed with the same arrangement. The French room, where the guests were received, was ornamented with gold baskets filled with tulips and soft ferns, and the music room was radiant with long-stemmed American Beauties. What are said to have been the longest-stemmed Richmond roses ever grown in California were effectively arranged in the palm room, while the glass room was filled with the debutante's flowers sent by Miss Florence's many friends. These blossoms were sent in two large wagons which were filled to overflowing. My Maryland rosebuds were the only flowers used in the reception room.

In receiving, Mrs. Wood and her daughters were assisted by Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant, Mrs. Joseph Banning, Mrs. Fred H. Bixby, Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee, Mrs. Michael J. Connell, Mrs. J. Rose Clark, Mrs. Titian J. Coffey, Mrs. James Cockins, Mrs. E. P. Clark, Mrs. Charles E. Dick, Mrs. Henry Gwen Eversole, Mrs. John F. Francis, Mrs. Willis May Garland, Mrs. Howard E. Huntington, Mrs. Stephen C. Hubbell, Mrs. West Hughes, Mrs. Henry Howard, Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Mrs. W. P. Jeffries, Mrs. George King, Mrs. E. F. C. Klokke, Mrs. James M. Moore, Mrs. William W. Mines, Mrs. James G. Mossin, Mrs. Earl B. Millard, Mrs. John G. Mott, Mrs. Walter Newhall, Mrs. John H. Norton, Mrs. Charles Prager, Mrs. John H. Peck, Mrs. Joseph D. Radford, Mrs. Mary Le Grand Reed, Mrs. John Stearns, Mrs. Alfred Solano, Mrs. Cameron Erskine Thom, Mrs. I. N. Van Nuys, Mrs. G. Wiley Wells, Mrs. Boyle Workman, Mrs. Lelia Burton Wells, Miss Katherine Stearns, Miss Sally Bonner, Miss Kathleen Spence, Miss Elizabeth Hicks, Miss Amy Marie Norton, Miss Lucille Clark, Miss Emma Conroy, Miss Sally McFarland, Miss Edna Letts, Miss Gladys Letts, Miss Virginia Nourse, Miss Jane Rollins, Miss Katherine Banning, Miss Mildred Burnett, Miss Mollie Adelia Brown, Miss Juliet Borden and Miss May Rhoades.

Mrs. Wood was attired in a handsome creation of smoked gray etolle with tunic of gray net embroidered in silver and crystals. Miss Elizabeth was beautiful in an old rose chiffon trimmed with satin pearls and bands of satin. Miss Florence wore a pink satin gown hand embroidered with pearls. She carried a shower of orchids, and Miss Elizabeth carried pink roses. Mrs. W. H. Perry, who assisted her daughter, Mrs. Charles Modini-Wood in entertaining, was robed in hand-embroidered white satin and wore pearl and opal ornaments. Music was furnished by an orchestra, and the decorations were under the direction of Wright. In the evening the young girls who assisted in receiving remained for dinner, and the following young men joined the party: Paul Bucklin, Jack Bucklin, Neil Brown, Harry Blackmore, Dick Clapp, Henry Daly, Arden Day, Nat Head, Carrol Stilson, Tim Horan, George Kirkwood, Mr. Ijams, Jack Ledley, Philip Lindley, Maynard McFie, Chester Moore, Mr. McMannus, Neil Pendleton, Jack Somers, James Page, and George Reed.

The dining table was covered with a beautiful lace cloth and at each corner a huge bow of figured pink tulle and pink shaded candelabra carried out the beautiful idea. In the center rested a pink satin cornucopia filled with shower bouquets of Cecil Brunner roses and bows of tulle.

ECHO OF THRILL.

SUIT FOR DEATH AFTER SHUNT.

FREIGHT CONDUCTOR'S WIDOW ASKS DAMAGES.

Unusual Case Up in the United States Circuit Court—Life Lost in Smash-up Following Supposed Effort to Stop Runaway Car—Case of Injured Man Settled.

A series of suits for damages for personal injury against the railroads was begun in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Wellborn, yesterday.

The case of Periman F. Zimmerman against the Santa Fe was almost ready to go to the jury when the attorneys announced to the court that they had agreed on a compromise and that they would settle the litigation without the aid of the court today.

The jury was ordered to report back this morning to sit in the case of Christina A. Sandidge against the Santa Fe. The circumstances involved are of an extraordinary nature.

The complainant is the widow of William W. Sandidge, a Santa Fe freight conductor, who was killed in Arizona, May 3, 1909. The manner in which he was killed, according to the allegations of the complaint, was unusual.

The crew to which he belonged was switching at Kingman when a car laden with ore was shunted onto the main track, which was on a steep slope. On account of its weight the brakes failed to hold it. It started down the grade at high speed. Apparently thinking that the brakes had not been set, Sandidge climbed on the car as it passed him.

The runaway dashed down the steep grade at a mad pace, the conductor frantically attempting to check its speed. It dashed through McComb like an express train. The dispatcher in charge at that station gave orders that it should be turned to a branch known as the Chloride line. The switch was turned and the runaway was shifted from the path of the through trains.

It had run only a short distance when it leaped the tracks and Sandidge was fatally injured in the resulting wreck. The accident is alleged to have been caused by the negligence of the company in several respects.

Zimmerman was injured at Peach Springs, Cal., while working as a fireman. His train was switching and he leaned out of the cab facing backward, to catch the signals from the rear. The engine was proceeding at about twenty-five miles an hour, according to the complaint, when his head struck a standpipe.

He was unconscious when picked up and did not regain his senses for eight days. He alleges that his spine was seriously injured and that his left arm was so severely maimed that he has only partial use of it. He asked for $25,000 damages.

There are other trials of a similar nature to follow, when these are disposed of.

PRAYERS RELIEVE YOUTH.

Comes Out of Coma in Which He Had Lain for Forty-three Days After Accident.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For forty-three days thousands of prayers have been offered by people of all denominations that 6-year-old Victor Waldron of Yonkers might emerge from the coma that has held him during all of that period. On Sunday a friend of the father of the boy went to his bedside. As he did so the child's eyes opened and he smiled up at his visitor. And so his long sleep is ended.

Dr. Louis V. Waldron, the boy's father, and his mother, too, declare their boy's recovery is due to prayer. Victor was struck by an automobile belonging to George L. Reeves. From the day of the accident he has been unconscious.

...Treacherous Hot Water Bags.

I have been asked by readers for the address of some firm which mends hot water bags. So far as I can learn, it is next to impossible to mend them satisfactorily. Several tell me that they have tried it, but have been disappointed. When the hot water bag breaks into holes the safest way seems to be to use it for some of the newly devised purposes such as making plant mats, or to place beneath the table mats, rather than to try to have it mended only to spring a leak at some unfortunate time. There are several new makes of bags, some of which are guaranteed to last from two to five years. That seems long enough.

I have heard that some of the automobile vulcanizing establishments mend hot water bags, but I have found no one who has had such work satisfactorily done.

Fashion Smiles Upon

The plainest of waists for dressy occasions, but they must have some characteristic touch of embroidery or beadery—something distinguishing and different.

Satin mules with satin-covered French heels are shown. Usually the satin is embroidered at the toe. The mules are finished with a rosette of ribbon a little to one side.

Curls are to form an important part of one's coiffure this coming winter. The hair will be coiled flat on the crown of the head, the curls being disposed artistically in the center of the coil.

Early showings of fabrics for suits are mostly tweed and serge, in mixed colorings. Velvets will be extremely fashionable for winter wear, in dark colors, with a fine stripe of another hue.

Elaborate little boleros of embroidery transform a simple gown into ornateness. They look wonderfully smart, too, over a last season's dress and they are particularly pretty over dresses of soft net.

Broken black and white checks in loose open weave are chosen for some of the long coats, but are slightly conspicuous for general street wear though admirable for driving, motoring and traveling.

...of crochet. It had a very decided rib, quite unlike the usual crochet and as I admired it so much, she kindly agreed to give me the recipe for making it. I am sure some of my readers will want to make one for some baby for Christmas. Hers was in pink and white.

Quantity of material: two fold Columbia Saxony for body two hanks; three fold Saxony for yoke and edge one hank.

To make yoke: 101 chain first row, twenty-four single crochet (taking up back of stitch to form rib). Widen in twenty-fifth and twenty-eighth stitches, widen in forty-fifth and forty-eighth, then twenty-four single crochet at other front, always keep twenty-four stitches in front, forty-four in back between widenings. Widen every row. Make yoke twelve ribs long.

For the home keeper or the home lover it seems as though there were no gift better than a handsome piece of furniture. I saw in one of the Broadway furniture stores such an odd little table of mahogany. It was on the colonial shape with the center leg and on top there was an arrangement of leaves—upright—for holding books and magazines.

At the same place there was a cunningly convenient card-table with chairs arranged to fit beneath it and a full quota of drawers for holding cards, scores, etc. This was in fumed oak and would go well in any room.

A copper-bound cedar chest at the same place attracted my attention and I thought that any woman who has valuable articles to keep, would be glad to have such a chest as a gift.

OUR OWN FIRST NAME.

The Famous Folk Who Have Borne It.

Canterbury, chaplain to Anne Boleyn, adviser to Henry VIII., and one of the men who formed the English church, uphold the name in religion. Matthias Corvinus the Great, king of Hungary, and Matthias, emperor of Germany, represent the name among kings.

Matthew Perry and Matthew Flinders stand out as sailors who did real service for their respective countries. Matthias von Gallas, born in the Tyrol in 1584, was one of the generals who helped make the Thirty Years' War memorable.

Matthew of Paris, Matteo Bolardo, Matthew Prior and Matthew Arnold all made substantial contributions to the world's literature. Matteo de Givoanni was one of the fifteen century painters who made Vienna famous.

Of all these men, perhaps Matthias Corvinus comes nearest being an epoch maker. He was surnamed "The Great" in his own time. He was the younger son of John Hunyady, famous Hungarian general, and was born in 1443. When he was fifteen, he was made king, and for thirty-two years he ruled Hungary with a strong hand. He carried on extensive wars with the Holy Roman emperor, with the Turks, with the Poles and with the Bohemians. He conquered Bohemia, which he made his residence; he reorganized the army, and he filled the empty treasury.

But it is as a patron of learning and art that Matthias, the Great, excelled. He was himself an author of ability, and he made Vienna famed for its treasures. He gathered sculpture of a high class for his capital's adornment. He sent the most learned men of Hungary to Italy to copy priceless manuscripts. Finally, he gathered together a library of no less than fifty thousand volumes.

The other king of the name, the Emperor Matthias, was born in 1557, and was the younger son of Maximilian II. Like Matthias Corvinus, he ruled Hungary. He intrigued against his brother, Emperor Rudolf II., and replaced the latter as a ruler of Hungary, Moravia, Silesia, Lusatia and Bohemia. In 1608 the Austrian princes declared Matthias the head of their house, because of Rudolf's incapacity. And when the latter died, in 1612, Matthias became emperor of the Holy Roman empire.

The two great sailors of the name, Matthew Flinders and Matthew Perry, although they did not exactly open up new worlds, did increase the world's knowledge of itself. Perry concluded the treaty which made commerce between Japan and the United States—later, too, the rest of the western world—possible. Flinders, by his observations and exploration, made of Australia, then almost unknown, a valuable part of the British Empire.

Flinders was born in 1774. He studied geometry and navigation by himself, and when he was 16 he entered the Royal Navy as midshipman. He saw active service in European waters and in the West Indies, and then, in 1795, was attached to the Reliance, which sailed to Australia.

Flinders spent five years in careful observations of the Australian coast. He made maps and charts which still serve as the basis for information concerning Australia. He was the first to give a satisfactory explanation for the errors of the compass due to iron on ships. After five years he went back to England, but before long went back to Australia. His second trip was less successful. He had to cut it short because his boat was unseaworthy, and on his way home, at Mauritius, he fell in with bad luck, and was taken prisoner. For six years he lay there captive. But he put the time in good use. He worked at getting the information he had gathered into shape. Although his health was broken when he was finally released, and he died shortly after he reached England, he managed to complete his charts and maps and records before he died.

Matthew of Paris, or Matthew Paris as he is sometimes called, is the first of the great Matthews in the world of letters. He was born in England about the year 1200. He studied at the University of Paris, and this fact is supposed to account for his surname. He is noted for the two chronicles he wrote, and is one of the great historians of the middle ages.

Matthew knew many of the prominent men of his age, and from them gathered much of the information he recorded. He entered the Benedictine Monastery of St. Albans when he was a young man, and in time came to be its abbot. His reputation for learning spread throughout Europe, and kings and prelates sought his advice and counsel.

Haakon IV., king of Norway, invited him to reorganize one of Norway's religious institutions, and Pope Innocent IV., authorized him to report on its spiritual condition. He was a personal friend of the English king, Henry III. When King Henry, in March, 1267, made a visit of a week's duration to St. Albans, he admitted Matthew to the royal table during the whole week, and each day held private conversations with him. Henry was a man of learning himself, and from memory he told Matthew about England's history, which the abbot later included in his chronicle.

Matteo Bolardo, who was born in 1434, or thereabouts, was an Italian count. He received a good education, and then took up his residence at one after another of the pretty courts of the Italian dukes, who furthered his interests whenever they could. He received several political appointments and at the time of his death in 1494 was governor of Reggio.

His patrons encouraged his literary efforts, and in 1486 Matteo produced the work for which he is remembered—"Orlando Innamorato." This poem was unusually popular in its own day; it is a story of the romantic adventures of the mediaeval hero, Roland, or Orlando, in his quest for the love of an eastern princess. It was popular when it was written. It is of importance nowadays because it suggested the still more famous "Orlando Furioso" written by Arosto in the next century.

Matthew Prior, sometimes called the most distinguished of English society poets, was born in 1664 in England. His uncle was a wine-seller in London, and Matthew might have entered this trade had it not been for his quick wit. He was at school at Westminster when one day the Earl of Dorset, with a party of companions, stopped at a tavern nearby. The party fell into discussion concerning some passage in Horace, and Dorset sent for one of the schoolboys to decide the question. It happened that Prior was the first schoolboy the messenger met, and he wonderingly went to the tavern. The way he answered the questions Dorset put to him, and the ease with which he handled the puzzling Latin passage pleased the Earl, who said he wanted to send the boy to Cambridge.

So Prior went to Cambridge, and while he was still at the university he, with a schoolfellow, wrote a satire which found instant favor, called the "City Mouse and Country Mouse."

Prior entered public life, became active in the diplomatic service, and was gentleman of the King's bedchamber. He used to say that he had business enough on his hands, and was only a poet by accident. But he went on writing, and his wit and cleverness always made his poems popular.

The last of the famous Matthews of the world of letters was also an Englishman—Matthew Arnold, who was born in 1822. Matthew Arnold's father was Dr. Thomas Arnold, famous headmaster of Rugby, and his mother was a woman of intellect and strong character. Arnold once wrote, in his manhood, an appreciation of his boyhood home. "The more I see of the world," he wrote, "the more I feel thankful for the bringing up we had, so unworldly, so sound, so pure."

Arnold nowadays is known as a poet and critic. In his lifetime he worked actively in the cause of education. He considered "soberness, righteousness and wisdom" the end of all education, and he tried to put his philosophy into effect. He taught school successfully, and for thirty-five years served conscientiously as inspector of schools.

Matthew is a name of Hebrew derivation, and means the "gift of the Lord." It is Matthias, Matthew and Mat in English, Matthaeus, Matthis, Matthes and Matthis in German, Matthieu in French, Matteo and Maffeo in Italian, Matfei in Russian, Mateo in Spanish, Matyas in Hungarian, and Mathias in Danish.

TO BREAK IT.

DAUGHTERS TO OPPOSE WILL.

ESTATE OF MANY MILLIONS LEFT BY G. S. MYERS.

Natural Heirs Believe That Millionaire Was of Unsound Mind When Instrument Was Drawn and They Seek Through Courts to Have It Set Aside.

REDLANDS, Nov. 29.—Rumors of a skeleton in the closet, the rattling of which produces the names of former employees, a maid, a nurse and a private secretary, in the home of the late George S. Myers, millionaire tobacco manufacturer, follows the filing of the notice of contest of his will. The three daughters, Mrs. Herbert Coppell of New York; Mrs. John S. Cravens of Pasadena and Mrs. Graham Babcock of Colorado Springs, promise a long and bitter fight to set aside the will of their father by attempting to prove that he was of unsound mind when his will was drawn.

For many months before Myers died he let it be known that he was to give the Y. M. C. A. of Redlands $10,000 and possibly a building site, also that he was to give a nurse who had been particularly kind to him, a valuable ranch in Montana. There were many other such gifts and the fact, that his will does not mention them is taken to mean that he took care of these bequests before his death. Supposing this to be so, it is hinted that the three daughters believe that by breaking their father's will they will then be in a position to attack the validity of any bequests which he may have made, and thereby recover for themselves the Montana ranch and other property.

In the will Mrs. Jane L. Ford and Miss Hannah Lee of St. Charles county, Missouri, are made beneficiaries, being provided with $25 per month each as long as they shall live. If one dies before the other the survivor shall receive $50 per month as long as she lives. In the will there is said to be no mention of the handsome Myers home here in Redlands, valued at $50,000 and since the death of Myers last August the place has been occupied and apparently in entire charge of Miss Clara Rectinwald, a handsome young woman who had been the old man's constant companion for many years, having come here to Redlands with him over six years ago and assisted him in the management of the building of the palatial new home, its furnishing and its general management since. She was known to Redland people as Myers' "private secretary." She went everywhere with him in his private car, motored with him daily and was always hovering over him with the solicitude of a wife or daughter. When he died she went into deepest mourning, wearing the conventional widow's veil for a time and still wearing all black. Soon after his death she was joined by her mother and sister and together they are occupying the Myers home on the Heights. They may be seen daily driving about in an electric victoria. Miss Rectinwald refuses to be interviewed, saying, "I have nothing to say at this time."

George S. Myers was of the firm of Liggett & Myers, tobacco manufacturers of St. Louis and he left an estate valued at $25,000,000 to be divided among his three daughters, but the entire amount is left in such a way that the heirs can have none of the principal for seventy-five years and this is the point they claim to be trying to get around. Mrs. John S. Cravens, one daughter, is a society leader in Pasadena. The Cravens place was the one bought by Adolphus Busch, the millionaire brewer, and converted into the now famous Busch sunken gardens. Mrs. Graham Babcock made her home in Southern California for a number of years, Mr. Babcock having at one time been the manager of Hotel del Coronado. Mrs. Herbert Coppell is the wife of a New York broker.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

It Didn't Figure in This Peach Tree Case, But Question of Extra Harvesting Did.

Peach trees are the subject of contention in the suit of Jeammari Colon against G. Tosetti wherein the rulings of the Superior Court were sustained by the District Court of Appeal, yesterday.

Colon ordered the trees, Tosetti agreeing that they should be of the variety known as Early Alexander. It developed that half of them were Early Imperials.

The trial court rendered a verdict for the defendant on the ground that no damage was sustained by virtue of the fact that part of the trees were of variety different fro mthe one warranted.

The court's attention was directed to evidence to the effect that an extra expense of from $20 to $25 an acre for harvesting was caused by the two kinds becoming ripe at different periods. It then ordered that a new trial should be granted. The defendant appealed from this order, but the higher court found that it was a proper decision.

CHICAGO MAN INVESTS.

Buys Property on South Hope Street Improved With Buildings and Yielding Income.

A lot 180x190 feet on South Hope street, between Pico and Fifteenth, has been purchased by a retired Chicago business man who is awake to the investment possibilities of this city. The site is improved with approximately $20,000 worth of buildings and is paying about 6 2-3 per cent. on the purchase price of $52,500.

The deal was made strictly for investment purposes. The transaction was made through Glenn N. Deuel of the Wright & Callender Company.

HANGS HIMSELF WITH WIRE.

Despondency resulting from his inability to cure himself of the drug habit is believed to have caused James P. Harrington to take his life in a rooming-house at No. 123 North San Pedro street yesterday morning. Harrington's body was found suspended from the upper casing of the door by an electric light wire which he had cut from a drop light in his room. Harrington had been a sailor. He had been at the rooming-house for several days and during that time drank quite heavily. The remains were removed to the undertaking rooms of J. D. Button, and a certificate of suicide will be signed today by the Coroner.

SPEEDERS FINED.

Roger Stearns and J. Tehan paid fines of $5 each in Justice Summerfield's court, yesterday, for having broken the speed limit on the county roads Sunday. They allowed their cars to sprint while on the way to this city from the races and were overhauled by the motor officers. The magistrate allowed them to escape with slight punishment because it was the first time they had ever been taken into his court. He cautioned them to keep their eyes on their speedometers in future as the law fixes the minimum punishment for second offenses of this kind at fines of $25

TO EXTEND BOULEVARD.

Glendale People Gladdened by Announcement of Supervisor. Pridham That Work Is to Begin.

GLENDALE, Nov. 29.—Supervisor Pridham has informed the people of this section that extensive and important road improvement work will be commenced in the West Glendale and Burbank districts next Thursday morning. The work will be a continuation of the good-road work which has been in progress for several months along the San Fernando road. The stretch of work which will be started Thursday will connect with the north end of the work now being completed in West Glendale and will run north to a point north of the town of Burbank. This will give the people of Burbank an excellent road directly into the heart of Los Angeles.

Although there is an extensive strip of road to be improved the contract, which was let several days ago, calls for the work to be completed by the first of January. At the completion of this strip contracts will be let for the extending of the road to San Fernando.

The residents of the northern part of Glendale Valley and of Burbank are demonstrating the fact that they are in earnest in their endeavor to secure an electric line from Glendale to Burbank, an extension of the present Glendale-Los Angeles road. A meeting was held and a permanent organization was formed for the promotion of the Burbank electric road. At this meeting the following officers were elected: Chairman, D. S. Nickerson; secretary, Charles E. Salesbury; the other members of the promotion committee being Thomas Story and F. E. Halberg. The Finance Committee chosen consists of Messrs. Sheldon, Story, and Halberg. This committee has charge of all collections and expenditures. Condemnation proceedings have been instituted against several pieces of property where there was no prospect of securing right-of-way. No further time will be spent with those who are holding back, but proceedings will be commenced by the committee against all those who have not signed up by the end of this week.

Neil Chandler, who underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Los Angeles hospital last Friday, is reported as being very much improved.

TRAFFIC RECORD.

THREE ROADS CUT THE FARE.

Reduce Rate East of Chicago and War Probable.

Effect Will Stimulate Tourist Travel to West.

Engineers Meet to Solve Grade Crossing Problem.

There is an indication of a possible passenger rate war involving transcontinental railroad lines. Yesterday, according to a telegram received here, the Erie, Wabash and Grand Trunk railroads announced a reduction of $10 in the regular passenger rate between New York and Chicago. The other eastern lines having terminals at Chicago and New York are represented in a conference as to the advisability of meeting the cut. If a decision is reached to meet the rate or even to cut it lower, it is probable that a general rate war will follow.

The result will be largely to increase the winter travel to the Pacific Coast points. There is already an unusually large booking of eastern tourists for Southern California. The effect of a passenger rate war would naturally be an increase in the army of tourists that will travel to the Pacific Coast this winter.

No reason is assigned for the action of the Erie, Wabash and Grand Trunk railroads in reducing the fare.

Solving Crossing Problem.

The meeting of engineers of the various steam and electric railways of the city with the City Engineer in regard to a solution of the grade crossing problem is not expected to come to any definite solution of the difficulty until after the first of the year.

Much will depend upon the ultimate traffic and construction arrangements which the Southern Pacific plans to put in effect following the taking over of the Pacific Electric.

With the announcement that a part of the old Southern Pacific lines is to be electrized, it is possible that this work will be carried to such an extent that the question of grade crossings will be settled through Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric construction, without the necessity of city action.

All that the engineers can do at present is to adjourn from time to time to await Southern Pacific action. The City Engineer is in the East investigating methods in use in other cities for the protection of grade crossings.

Fast Train to New Orleans.

Increasing traffic has made it necessary to place another fast through passenger train between San Francisco and New Orleans by way of Los Angeles on the Southern Pacific. This will give the Southern Pacific a double daily train service between the Pacific Coast and the Gulf of Mexico. Recently the run of the regular train then in operation between San Francisco and El Paso was extended from El Paso to New Orleans. When the new train goes into service about the middle of December, a considerable reduction in the running time is to be made. Both of the through trains will have new modern equipment, including steel cars, electric lighting and other features of the up-to-date passenger train.

Traffic Notes.

A. J. Earling, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, who was in Los Angeles yesterday, changed his name in response to an unusual situation something like forty years ago. His original name was Oelwein, and he was employed on the section of the railroad of which he is now president. Merrill, the superintendent, liked Oelwein and promoted him to foreman, but by an error the name was recorded as Earling. Merrill wouldn't change it, so Earling had his name changed by act of the Legislature.

J. W. McKinley has been appointed general attorney for the Pacific Electric, effective January 1. He will succeed W. E. Dunn, who will go with the Huntington interests. Because of his close knowledge of Pacific Electric affairs, Dunn will continue in an advisory capacity.

The Governor of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company arrived in San Pedro yesterday from the north with 435 passengers.

The Salt Lake Railroad is making a number of big improvements at Las Vegas, N. M., where the big shops of the company are located. Forty cement block cottages are to be added to the forty already built. A residence for the master mechanic is to be erected. A new storehouse, of reinforced concrete and concrete blocks, 200 by 50 feet and two stories high, will be completed February 1. The plan for cottages for workmen contemplate forty more in addition to those now being built, making a total of 120.

The Western Pacific Railroad has made new connection with the Rio Grande line at Salt Lake which permits the passenger trains of the Western Pacific a daylight run through scenic Colorado.

L. B. Washington has been appointed district passenger agent of the St. Louis & San Francisco at Jacksonville, Fla. W. L. Evans has been appointed to a similar position at Denver.

W. H. Taylor, general agent, passenger department of the Southern Railway, P. K. Gordon, general agent, passenger department of the Sunset route, San Francisco, and Eugene Clapp, general agent, freight department, were in the city yesterday.

H. A. Jones, freight traffic manager of the Southern Pacific at San Francisco, was here yesterday.

E. E. Calvin, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific, concluded a two-day inspection of the Pacific Electric lines in and about Pasadena yesterday. He was accompanied by other officials of the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric companies.

Joseph N. Harrison, Pacific Coast passenger agent of the Sunset route at San Francisco, was in the city yesterday.

YANNER IN HARD LUCK.

Bottled Up on His Place, and Fined by Court by Breaking Down Neighbor's Fences.

VENTURA, Nov. 29.—Louis Yanner, a bookkeeper of the Simi, was fined $100 this morning in the Superior Court by Judge Clarke for contempt of court in disobeying the terms of an injunction which was issued against him a few weeks ago.

In a suit brought by a neighbor named Smith, in which it was sought to restrain Yanner from tearing down the Smith fences and crossing the Smith land, the restraining order was granted. Yanner went home and broke down his neighbor's fence again and again and crossed his land. His excuse was that there was no Superior Court seal on the document served on him and that he was not present at the original trial because he received no official notice.

Yanner seems to be completely bottled up, and his only way of egress is across Smith's land.

The following grand jury was drawn in the Superior Court this morning: N. W. Blanchard, Sr., Santa Paula, foreman; A. C. Vickers, Del Norte; Clarence E. Hawley, Saticoy; J. P. Rasmussen and C. F. Brigham, Ventura; A. Coultas, Oxnard; D. S. Blackburn, N. B. Smith and M. H. Gabbert, Ventura; U. F. Del Valle, Camulos; Marion Cannon, Ventura; Hugh Warring, Piru; O. A. Wadleigh, Ventura; J. O. What Some Qualified Judges Think of the New Standard Encyclopedia

The "New Standard" is a model reference work. Without superfluous words or unnecessary space, it presents a vast amount of information. It is worthy of a place in any library. It seems to be admirably adapted for general home use, for busy men and women, as well as for school children and college students.
WM. JENNINGS BRYAN.

After a careful examination of the "New Standard Encyclopedia," I am pleased to state that could I own but one encyclopedia, I should prefer this to any other. It surely is a great time saver and that is what a man as busy as I am values most in books of reference.
HON. CHAMP CLARK.

For convenient reference, I find no encyclopedia better than your "New Standard." The clear statement of facts has induced me to recommend the work in many quarters.
MAURICE FRANCIS EGAN.
American Minister to Denmark.

These commendations from prominent men have been seconded by hundreds of letters from satisfied subscribers in every walk of life. THE NEW STANDARD ENCYCLOPEDIA has been sold along the entire Pacific Coast through reading clubs in connection with leading journals of the great cities. With its merits the public is pretty generally familiar.

12 Large Volumes—55,000 Articles—3,000 Illustrations

THE NEW STANDARD is a practical encyclopedia, and has been compiled by practical men. The articles on the great industries and commercial forces of the United States have been prepared not by theorists, but by men thoroughly familiar with the actual working details of each. You may find just the information that you need—quickly, conveniently, and in the most comprehensive and concise form. It has been recommended by leading educators east and west; and, by reason of its brief articles and clear style, will be found specially adapted to the use of young folks. Teach your children to look up things in a reliable reference work. They can get more knowledge out of a good encyclopedia than from any other set of books ever published. You, too, need an encyclopedia every day of your life. It is the most necessary set of books that you can possibly own.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

in copying handwriting, he lacks the qualifications to support it. A ruse which he employed to help him out of his difficulty will probably be responsible for a trial on the charge of forgery.

Schmidt is charged with passing a check for $25 on a Main street clothing house, indorsed "Emil Folbi." So far as the police were able to learn there is no such person; the case consequently became one of the "fictitious" class.

Detective Ingram was assigned to secure the evidence and his investigation changed the aspect of it. He discovered a card in Schmidt's possession which bore the name of "F. Voipi, Europa Cafe." Reference to the check disclosed the words "Europa Cafe" written after the name of "Emil Folbi."

The card was printed in Old English characters and it is believed that Schmidt, when unable to clearly read the letters decided to identify the signer by writing the name of the cafe after the signature.

As the name of the place is known in the vicinity where the check was passed, Schmidt had no trouble in disposing of the check. When it was sent to the bank, however, it was a different matter, for "Emil Folbi" had no account.

PERU MINES.

GAME DIDN'T WORK.

J. W. Everhart pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy in Police Court yesterday morning and will be sentenced this morning. He was first charged with attempt to defraud, but the police were unable to secure competent witnesses.

Everhart admitted trying to induce miners to deposit $10 with him as evidence of "good faith" when they had accepted from him a bogus position in mines in Peru. He also admitted that he had no connection with any Peru mines. No money had been given him and at the time the investigation was started by the detectives no one had been defrauded.

When asked to explain, the defendant told Police Judge Chambers that he had been drinking and did not realize what he was doing.

MANY AUTOISTS FINED.

ORDINANCE VIOLATED.

Fifty-two automobilists appeared in Police Court yesterday morning to answer to charges of violating the traffic ordinance. All were fined, swelling the funds of the court $130.

In Police Judge Williams's court at the University Police Station, fifty men were charged with cutting corners too sharply and they were fined $2 each.

The arrest of this large number was the result of the orders given the police to enforce rigidly each clause of the traffic ordinance, as accidents are occurring with ever-increasing frequency. fines were made small, but the court voiced a reminder that, should defendants be brought into court again, leniency would not be extended.

Police Judge Chambers fined J. E. Scott and C. Hyde $25 each for driving their automobiles more than twenty-five miles an hour.

Suit Case Empty.

Harry Suddith was sentenced to 180 days in the City Jail by Police Judge Chambers yesterday. He was charged with stealing a suit case from a Main street rooming house last week. He was followed by police officers who suspected he had something valuable in the suit case. He was arrested after a pursuit of several blocks, but when the suit case was opened at the police station it was found to be empty. Suddith was as much surprised as the officers.

APPARATUS ARRIVING.

Electrical Testing Equipment for Polytechnic High School Unpacked Yesterday.

Plans are in the brew for the greater scientific development of the Polytechnic High School.

A year or more ago, the Board of Education made provision for the partial equipment of the new art building, which was opened at the beginning of the present term, and yesterday about $2000 worth of the apparatus arrived. It is but a portion of the total equipment that has been ordered for the electrical department, and consists entirely of testing apparatus. Later it is the purpose of Prof. H. LeV. Twining, who is in charge of the department to endeavor to equip a complete central electric station and a sub-station in the school, so that the most thorough and practical instruction may be given, and a student prepared for actual work in the field, without further attendance upon any technical school.

Though the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School leads any other high school in the United States in its equipment, and is not surpassed by any college or university west of the Mississippi River, if electrical instruction is confined to the last two years of the student's life in the institution, and Prof. Twining is striving for the introduction of a full four years' course.

Students graduated in the first class from the electrical course, are now holding responsible positions with the different electric corporations of this city, and some are progressive manufacturers of electrical apparatus. No better commendation could be given the school than to point to these instances, where boys have gone directly from the school into responsible practical business and have "made good."

Prof. Twining said yesterday that the next need of the school is a new building, or the enlargement of the present one by building other stories on top of it, as the entire department is crowded beyond its capacity to do the best work, and there is insufficient room for the requisite amount of apparatus to be installed.

FULLERTON.

FULERTON, Nov. 29.—Notwithstanding that the $60,000 high school building was burned a week ago the school reopened this morning with the usual attendance. Four large tents, 18x32 feet, fitted up with stoves and floors, have been installed for the upper classes and the other pupils are comfortably located in the new building erected for a polytechnic school. The trustees are firmly convinced of the fact that the building was burned by an enemy. At costly building will be erected at the earliest date possible.

Mountains of red and brown ochre, from which paint is made and used by building companies. Thousands of tons of ochre in this valuable property, located in Yuma County, Arizona, four miles southwest from Bouse, Arizona.

The above picture shows the largest mountain of Umber on the Pacific Coast, owned and quarried by the REGAL METAL AND OIL COMPANY. This grade of Umber is being used for all kinds of paints and coloring. All the first-class umbers for the past years have been shipped into the Western country from the East. A great deal has been imported from France and other foreign countries. The Regal Metal and Oil Company is the only company on the Pacific Coast that can produce umber for shipment into the market in large quantities that will stand the necessary tests.

This is the cleanest and safest investment that can be offered to the public, and one that every day of your life you can easily see the products being used regularly in which you have purchased shares. As you know, every family in all towns and cities in the United States use flour in their homes in making bread; also, every home in all towns and cities in the United States use some grade of Umber to paint their houses with, or anything that paint it used for. The product is exclusive and demands unlimited. Disinterested experts have carefully assayed and examined our bodies of umber and have all agreed that there is no better on the Pacific Coast.

The Company offer a small amount of Treasury Stock at 25 cents a share, par value $1.00. We do this in order to furnish the necessary equipment to enable the Company to increase their present output. We have no hesitation in making the statement that the Company will be paying dividends in three months from date, and the stock will be selling at 50 cents in six months and at the end of the year at par. At the present time all the shares of the Company are in the hands of the Directors. We will be glad to have you write or call at our office, 218 Delta Building, and investigate this proposition thoroughly.

of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1906. Many fields in that as well as other districts yielded from 25 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion.

Large Profits are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The fate of putting fruit into storage in anything but the best of condition is beginning to dawn on a number of the commission merchants at the present time. In former years it has always been customary to carefully pick over stock for storage. This year, in the rush of business and the apparently excellent condition of grapes, a number of the dealers slipped them right in as they came from the vineyards, never giving them a second thought, until a few days ago. This is the present time when the grapes are being brought out. They realize what a mistake was made in not carefully sorting the fruit to so far as a great many boxes of grapes are a total loss, on account of the fact that several bunches of grapes in each box when they were put away, have caused all the damage and as a result it requires three to four boxes of storage grapes to fill up one ordinary box upon its arrival. Since the big losses are bringing only $1.25 at the local, and since the Red Emperor and Flaming Tokay were never lower than 40 cents per box, the weight of the [illegible] is easily discernible.

There were no changes in the quotations on staple commodities. The demand for eggs was very good and rates quite brought a slight [illegible] over the established quotations. Receipts of the local grade were only 47 cases, probably about stored freely.

The fruit market for the week is quoted as a weak to lower basis and this had a depressing influence on the local market at the opening of the week. There is little possibility of an absolute change. Arrivals of local butter were 21,132 pounds.

Receipts of cheese were 7,200 pounds. The demand was very good and rates quite firm. There was a big jobbing sale at 17c cents. Northern Fresh, Oregon Twins and Young Americas were the other best sellers of the week.

Potato receipts were 2430 sacks. The demand for spot stock was excellent. A car of choice Burbanks netted $1.80 and a few fancy spuds of the same kind lobbed at $1.85. A car of Lompoc spuds to arrive within a few days brought $1.60, indicating the strengthening of the market all along the Pacific slope.

Onion arrivals were light, 61 sacks and the market was very firm. There were no changes in the price. Bean receipts were 288 sacks. The call for beans was fair. Sweet potato arrivals were 315 sacks. The call for sweets was fair. Lower California.

Apple arrivals were 3600 boxes or just five cars. There were some good sales of Oregon [illegible]ings and Winesaps. Utah Johnnies are also selling very well.

About twenty deep sea turtles weighing from 25 to 60 pounds were received from the San Diego fishermen who caught them on the west coast of Lower California. They were pretty scarce, there being few of the large ones small varities received in the early morning shipments and the catch of the day previous was all small, so that the market presented quite a [illegible] appearance.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE.

Market Is Dull, Due to Light Trading, But Prices With a Few Exceptions Are Firm.

The market on the Exchange for Tuesday was rather dull; prices except in one or two instances, remained firm but trading was light.

Associated strengthened up a little, showing a gain practically of a point and a quarter. California Midway was down and trading was not particularly heavy. Consolidated Midway sold very low at the opening but closed somewhat stronger. Union was a fairly good trader at yesterday's prices, as was also United Petroleum. United Oil was strong at the prevailing prices of the last two or three days.

Johnnie M. & M. in the mining list was in demand, showing considerable strength. The bond list and bank stocks were quiet. Industrials were only active so far as Home Preferred was concerned, considerable demand being had for these shares.

The balance of the list showed no change.

SAN FRANCISCO STOCKS.

Market for the Goldfield Issues Is Weak. Cons. Losing Ten Points. News of Companies.

[Special service to The Times, by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 111 West Third street, Los Angeles.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The market was weak. Cons. lost 10 points, Florence was 2½ weaker to the asked price, Jumbo Ex. and Fraction were each off 1. Atlanta lost 1, Red Hills 1, the balance of the Goldfields unchanged. Belmont lost 10, Montana 1. West End 2. MacNamara 2, Mizpah was offered at 30. Rescue closed 10@15. Off 4½ Nevada Hills was up 9½; Round Mountain, Pittsburg, Silver Peak were unchanged; small block of Rawhide Coalition changed at 4. The Buffalo-Pregs were quiet. There were no changes in the Comstock leaders worthy of comment. The Montana dividend of 6 cents a share is payable December 20 to stockholders of record December 15. This will make the total dividend distribution $194,000. Since the last dividend was declared in June the earnings of the mine have been used to build a 40-stamp mill, together with other necessary equipment, which cost about $250,000, all of which came out of the mine. There is now in the treasury of the company $250,000 exclusive of November earnings. The Belmont Company has declared its second quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share. Belmont stockholders are now expecting an extra Christmas dividend of at least 10 cents a share, and the declaration of the regular dividend of 15 cents was considered disappointment and probably accounts for the drop in the price of the stock.

The output of the Tonopah mines last week amounted to 772 tons, valued at $16,765, a falling off of 1,000 tons and $20,000 in value as compared with the week previous. The tonnage was contributed as follows: Tonopah Mining, 260; Belmont, 250; Montana, 160; MacNamara, 70; West End, 30; Tonopah Extension, 20; Midway, 50. The Tonopah Mining Company for the week ending November 12 shows gross output valued at $62,000. The net profits of the company are running from $185,000 to $190,000 per quarter.

It is reported from Goldfield that G. G. Rice has fallen down on the payments on his option on Jumbo Ex. stock, which he secured in July from T. G. Lockhart: He made three payments of $12,500 each, for which he received a total of about 36,000 of stock at 25 cents a share on his contract to purchase 150,000 shares. Contract called for total payment of $75,000. At the time the deal was made, the market was about 25 cents, but the price was boosted to 32, and it is back now to 25.

The old stockholders in the Daisy Company are much put out that their stock has no value. The new company which has taken over the property paid $500 to the sheriff, plus costs, and in this fashion redeemed the property. The new company is organized for 1,000,000 shares, of which 250,000 are in the treasury. The outstanding indebtedness, amounting to an additional $15,000, which was advanced by some of the officials of the old Daisy company, has been paid by allotting these men 100,000 of the new stock. In the reorganization 720,000 shares of the new stock were to be exchanged for the old stock on a basis of one share of new for two of old, on payment of assessment of 1 cent a share. A sufficient fund will be provided for extensive development.

ANNEX TAXABLE PROPERTY.

Porterville Will Extend Her Limits Before the Board Election for Reasons That Are Manifest.

PORTERVILLE, Nov. 29.—Preliminary steps were taken today toward the calling of a special election to consider the annexation to Porterville of suburban territory which is included in Monte Vista Heights, Westfield, a portion of the Piano settlement and Kessing.

It has been deemed expedient to have this election called prior to that of the call for water bonds, since the inclusion of this territory will make a much larger amount of taxable property against which to issue the bonds.

Careful canvass of the territory included shows beyond doubt that the issue of bonds will be carried by a large majority. Fully nine-tenths of the property owners of the proposed territory are in favor of the annexation.

According to the plans for this annexation as they have been adopted by the City Council, the territory included will be bounded by the following streets, all of the land included being at the present time, in matter of fact, a portion of this city: Morton street east to the west line of Monache Heights, thence south to Luther Burbank Park, thence east again to include the Park, thence south to the Tule River, thence west to meet the present west line of the city extended southward.

This territory is two-thirds of the size of the present city limits and includes some of the most beautifully situated and most valuable residence property in this valley. In common with the residence suburbs of Los Angeles, the present tendency in building is toward the hill country, where roads are being laid out and the hill sides terraced to make residence plots where there is a beautiful view over the surrounding valleys.

CITY BUYS WELL.

As a portion of the proposed expansion of the Porterville Municipal Water Works, the City Council today closed with a local irrigation company an option for the purchase of one of their unused wells, a sixteen-inch bore, which is capable of developing 100 inches of water. This will be added to the present two wells, which are now in use, each with a capacity of 60 inches and a fourth, one which is to be driven at the base of Murry Hill, to be sixteen inches in size and which, from the data available, may be reasonably presumed to develop at least 100 inches.

These wells, with the extensive additions which are to be made to the mains, and which will cost the city about $75,000 are to made an auxiliary to the proposed gravity system, which will be eventually established and which will secure the water supply of this city from Bear Creek, several miles distant in the mountains.

Porterville is in the enviable position of building one of the finest water supply systems in the San Joaquin Valley and that without a cent of expense to the taxpayers. At the present time, and supplying water at the same rate as previously maintained by a private company, the total net income of the city plant is about $15,000 per year. This is being put back into betterments to the system and when the present plans have been completed, the city will own a plant costing well toward a quarter of a million, supplying ample pressure, oceans of water and all without a cent of expense, other than the ordinary rates for water, and the rates are lower in Porterville than in any other similar sized city in this portion of California.

KICK, LOCKJAW AND DEATH.

Thomas Beeson, 50 years old, of No. 125 Hooper avenue, died in the County Hospital yesterday of lockjaw, the disease he dreaded most. Beeson was kicked by a horse several days ago, and on being taken to the County Hospital expressed the fear that tetanus would set in. The wound was treated to prevent the development of the disease, but the work of the surgeons was futile and his death followed. Beeson was formerly a well-known horseman in the East. He came to Los Angeles from New York several years ago. He leaves a widow and a brother.

Increasing Traffic from Canada.

"There is a constant increase in the movement of tourists from Canada to Southern California," said H. J. Mackenzie, of Winnipeg, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railroad, at the Van Nuys Hotel last night. "We built 700 miles of extension last year and 600 miles this year," continued Mr. Mackenzie. "We are building west through Yellowhead Pass to the Pacific Coast. This line will materially expedite movement of traffic to and from Canada."

Mr. Mackenzie is accompanied by John Atkins of Toronto; Joseph Errington, off expert for the railroad company, and J. P. Sweyner, attorney for Mr. Mackenzie.

Get a Goat.

PASADENA, Nov. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In replying to an article of November 27, I wish to say that many who are learning that 10 cents a quart for milk (such as it is,) is more than it is worth (and yet feel as if they cannot get along without it,) can overcome this high price and quality of milk by producing their own. Get a milk goat. The goat has the power of producing more pounds of good flavored nutritious milk to the pounds of food taken by them, than the beloved cow. The goat is easily cared for, requiring but a small yard and barn, responds quickly to good care, is healthy, very neat and clean in its habits. In fact goats are just what the family that is looking for good, pure milk at a reasonable price should consider and know more about.

To the laboring people the little "nanai" would be your best friend if you would give her a chance. Giving you a good "mess" of milk twice a day for eight or ten months of the year.

THE WOLVES.

The Thrilling Adventure of an Old Frontiersman.

We had been talking of wolves. Johnson, who had been to France, told the story of how wolves still come down from the mountains in times of great cold or famine. Wilson gave a graphic description of how he and a companion had been chased in the Urals. Then old man Black, who had seen more rough life than any of us, looked at the ceiling with a reminiscent air the while he slowly stroked his shoulder. It was a habit of his. Some of us had seen the ugly scar which pained him from time to time, and wondered what particular "varmint" had given it to him. This evening, for once, he was willing to talk about it.

"When I first came to my claim, up in the North," he began, "there was no clearing within thirty miles, and the only neighbor I had was George Baker, who died last year up by the cedar hill, ten miles or so away. It was a little lonesome, and yet I liked it for a year, and I saw George three times during that twelvemonth. But the next six months I never saw a man, and I used to sit and look at myself in the still water over the side of my canoe, and like it, for it seemed as if I had company.

"But one day in November I was tired out of being alone, and I started on toward evening to go up to George's. I crossed the river just here, and went along up the edge of the water, swinging my rifle in my hand, whistling for company's sake, for it made a pleasant echo in the woods. The night was coolish, very clear, and there was a pleasant moon. Just as I reached the rock-brook, close on the side of the pond, I heard a growl that startled me, and, stopping short, I saw a wolf standing with his paws buried in the carcass of a deer, while his jaws were full of the flesh. But he was not eating, for he had seen me, and seemed to be discussing the comparative merits of his meal before him, and the possible meal which I presented for him.

"He was not any of your dog-wolves, but a grizzly rascal, as large as Leo yonder, with larger hair and stouter legs. He snarled once or twice more, and I was fool enough to show fight. If I had let him alone, he would have been content with his feed; for they are cowardly animals, except when there are droves of them, or unless you disturb their eating.

"I took a short aim at him and shot. He jumped the instant I pulled the trigger, and I missed his breast and broke his fore-paw. Then he yelled and came at me, and I heard, as I thought, fifty more answer him. It wasn't ten seconds before I was in the first crotch of the nearest tree, and four of the grizzly scoundrels were under it, looking at me, whining, and licking their lips, as if their mouths watered for me. I didn't understand their language, or I would have suggested the idea of satisfying their appetites upon the deer which lay a few rods off. But I couldn't persuade them to take any hints of that sort, so I loaded my rifle and shot one of them dead.

"There was more for them to eat, if they had chosen to devour one of their own sort, but I couldn't blame them for refusing the carcass of such a comrade, especially when a tolerably well-fattened man was in a sapping close by, and they could see that the sapling was splitting in two at the crotch, and I must come down soon, in spite of my repugnance to a closer acquaintance with them. So it was thought, and before I had time to reload my rifle and dispatch another of them, crack went the tree, and I dropped my rifle just quick enough to catch with arms and legs around the tree, and hold on for life, till I could get my knife from my pocket, open it, and shove it in my belt. That done, I watched my chance, and if there was a scared wolf, that was one when I lighted on his back and wound my arms around him, and we rolled away together.

"The other two didn't understand it at all, and backed off to watch the fight—a pretty moonlight tussle that was. At length the wolf got me under, and he and I both thought I was gone for. He planted his two paws on my breast, and the claws left marks that are there yet—while he seized my shoulder with his villainous jaws."

Black paused to show us the scars on his breast and arms, particularly the large scar where the flesh was torn from the bone on his shoulder. He continued:

"I was a little faint when his teeth went in. It was unpleasant, and I had time to think of a dozen other ways of dying, any one of which I would have preferred, had a choice been possible. The wolf apparently didn't like the hold he had, for he tore out his teeth, and tore out my coat, shirt, and flesh, too, and seized on my fur cap. It was a lucky mistake for me. I felt his wet lips on my forehead, and had just time to let go my hold of his throat and clutch my knife, when he shook off the cap and made another attempt to get a mouthful, but his throat was in no fix to swallow it if he got it, for my knife-blade was working desperately across his jugular, and the point of it was feeling between the vertebrae for his spinal marrow. He was a dead wolf, and gave it up like one fairly whipped.

"I had bled considerably when I rose, but I wasn't weakened a particle. The whole had passed in less than half a minute, and I was ready for the other two, which now came at me both together.

"I seized my rifle and met one with the barrel across the nose, and floored him. As he picked himself up, I seized him by the hind foot. If the first wolf was scared when I fell on him, this one was more so. I shall never forget the howl which escaped him as I swung him into the air and struck the other a blow with the body of his comrade. The other one, the first I had wounded, frightened at the novel sight, vanished in the woods, and I was left with this one in my hands. He seemed to let out with all his tremendous force as he went around my head twice. The centrifugal force, as they used to call it at school, forced out his wind, but as I let him fly his scream was fairly demoniacal.

"He went a rod from the bank, and the howl stopped only when he reached the water. I was faint and weak now, and my visit to George was of course out of the question; so I seized my rifle, loaded it with difficulty as I ran, and following the water, I at length saw him come up. He struck in for the shore but, seeing me, did not dare to land. I teased him so for two miles, and each time he approached the shore I showed myself, and he kept off.

"I saw he was getting tired, but I didn't want to shoot him yet, and I followed him till he went over some rapids, and into a deep hole by what we used to call the Haunted Rock.

"Here I had to leave the river-bank, and I watched him swimming along the edge of the rock until he found a little shelf, on which he crawled out and shook his hide. But he couldn't crawl up that rock—that was pretty certain, and while he was discussing it all alone to himself, I helped him to settle the question with a rifle ball in his side. He gave a mad half-bark and half-yell, and sprang into the river but he didn't rise again.

"How I got to my cabin, I don't know. I managed to do it, though, and got there half dead, with blood all over me, and my wounds frozen dry. It was a month before I was well enough to hunt again—it might have been forever—and I have been shy of wolves ever since."—[Scrap Book.

FARM LAND IN LONDON.

Over Eight Thousand Acres Devoted to Agriculture in the British Capital.

Some surprise has been occasioned by the discovery that London has farmers of its own who beat all their rivals in the rural districts by the products they gain from the acre, says a London dispatch to the New York Herald. According to the latest official calculation, London has 8811 acres devoted to "agriculture," as compared with 12,580 in 1899. Each year, however, marks the slow absorption of this acreage into building land.

By this same calculation the metropolis has 300 acres under corn. Ten years ago 600 acres had been so planted. The acres under clover and grass in rotation are placed at forty-seven, as against 150 in 1899. The big city retains over 6000 acres of permanent pasture or grass, a decrease of 2000 in the ten-year period, while small fruit farms account for 200 acres more and there are 1600 acres devoted to what are described as "other crops." Also London can claim 500 horses used solely for agricultural purposes, 3741 head of cattle, 2000 sheep and 2000 swine.

The metropolitan farmer gets the blue ribbon when it comes to understanding his business. He gets an average yield of 33 bushels of wheat to the acre, whereas the best the upcountryman can do is 32.16 bushels. The latter, too, get but 33 bushels of barley to the acre, while the Londoner runs his average up to 36. Honors now are easy in the oats line, though there was a time when the countryman held the smaller end. When it comes to potatoes, however, the country yield is only 6.95 tons to the acre, while the London farmer runs his score up to 7.31 tons.

Some of the London boroughs carry on a farming business. Lambeth, for instance, makes hay at the borough cemetery, usually raising a crop that raises £50 for the borough exchequer.

The Bizad Chinese Schoolboy.

Chinese schoolboys present a curious contrast to the schoolboys of the Occident. At least the observation holds with reference to the Oriental schoolboys of Queen's College, Hongkong, where, it is said, a sight to be seen any day is that of more than a thousand pupils, not one of them indulging in any boisterous conduct, or, indeed, even letting off his superfluous spirits by a run or a leap.

The Chinese boys of Queen's College, Hongkong, do not hurry, but walk sedately along with their books under their arms. The utmost exhibition of youthful feeling is a reserved smile lighting up the face of a boy here and there as he listens to the conversation of his companions. Boisterous behavior would be considered by these Chinese lads as undignified and quite contrary to all ideas of schoolboy good form. The more sedate a Chinese boy is in his behavior, the more he conducts himself like a little old man, the more aristocratic he is considered by his school-fellows, and the more praise he receives from his schoolmasters and his parents.

In this country and in England parents and sons do not invariably agree as to what virtues are to be admired in a schoolboy. In China they always do. Strange as it may seem, Chinese youth go to school with the sole idea of acquiring knowledge. Hence the stolid, determined faces of the pupils of Queen's College in the eastern city.

There is little variety in the color and cut of their dress. They wear no hats. Some brush all their hair straight back into their long queues; others have a fringe of stiff bristle dividing the shaven from the unshaven territory of their heads. All carry fans.

In age the boys vary from 9 to 23, and many of them have family cares in the shape of a wife and children at home. Ever year, however, sees a decrease in the proportion of married schoolboys, and the average age becomes less each year. In the early history of the school, boys of all ages were to be found in it, and it was not an unheard-of thing for father and son to be running a close race for the first prize.—[Harper's Weekly.

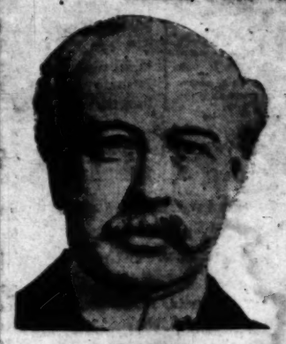
CURED IN FIVE DAYS

Hernia, Piles and Varicose Veins



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
Established 20 Years.

I am the only specialist in Los Angeles who is sole owner of his office and equipment. Who does not advertise a fictitious name and photograph. I publish my true photograph, correct name, personally conduct my office. I am the longest, established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. Imitation of my copyrighted announcement is an evidence that I am a bona fide Specialist. I make this statement that you will know you consult a Specialist, who sees and treats patients personally. I possess skill and experience, acquired in such a way that no other can share, and should not be classed with medical companies. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment may be valued, and it is unwise and expensive to embrace the statements of medical companies. It is impossible for a medical company to attend college. Companies have no diploma or license to practice medicine in California, or any other State. Medical companies usually are refused after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite, is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired substitutes, ordinary doctors with questionable ability, give consultation, examination and treatment.

A thorough investigation should be made by every ailing person as to the specialist he consults. Duty and decency to self and those who depend upon you demand the best medical attention. I have the ability and can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by any man who honestly desires to be cured. I make no misleading statements or unwarrantable promises, neither do I desire to be particularly flattered, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to me on a strictly professional basis, and I induce treatments that I offer, which are my ability and the thirty years' successful experience. Time-saving treatment and guarantee of cure of certain diseases.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor, because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition by so-called unsuccessful treatment, have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services when benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital of interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar so far you have paid me for my services. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles. Unskilled operations or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

Many Cases Cured Permanently in One TREATMENT. Most Time-Saving. Most Natural. Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation. Family or Home. A Medical and Permanent Cure. I Will Give $500 to Any Charity as a Guarantee That Every Statement in This Announcement is True.

I cure rapidly, painlessly and at small expense. I will demonstrate actual results in your case. I will give conclusive evidence of my merit which is obtained and maintained by ability. I invite you to come to my office. I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney Bladder and Rectal Diseases. I will give you free a physical examination, if necessary a microscopical and chemical analysis of secretions to determine existing pathological and bacteriological conditions. Every person should take advantage of this opportunity to learn their true condition. Certainty of cure is what you want.

Varicose Veins

In the cure of Varicose Veins, Rupture and Associate Diseases of the Pelvic Region, I am unequaled in bringing to bear the curative power of Nature's forces in such a manner as to supplant the old-time, wide-open surgical operations. It required several weeks to cure these conditions and the method which some still use is such as to endanger the life of the patient and requires a long period of convalescence. Now an absolute cure can be accomplished in a few days and with perfect safety.

TRUSSES SELDOM CURE RUPTURE.

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous to life, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced on the public in connection with the alleged cure of Rupture, and when I say positively that I cure Rupture, to stay cured, I do not expect any one to accept this statement without investigation of my professional work. My claim to your confidence is based on absolute facts, established results. A personal consultation I will make a free examination and can explain every detail of your Hernia and demonstrate to you the curative value of the method I have discovered. I will make the careful investigation of any person who sincerely desires to be cured. I cure Rupture, in selected cases, with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation more than Fifteen Minutes. Many cases cured to stay cured by one treatment.

PILES, FISTULA, RECTAL DISEASES.

These diseases are very common; most frequently found in persons of middle or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful, and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment is not necessary to be used for weeks or years of experience, my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. Some cases are cured by one or more treatments. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentleness in treatment comes from treating many c

OF INTEREST.

HOW THEY PILE UP THE MONEY.

HUNDRED AND SIXTY-EIGHT PER CENT. FOR LOANS.

Glimpse Into Methods of Pawnbrokers, Who Put Up Little and Want Much—Their Business and Persons Needn't Come Unless They Care to, They Say.

One hundred and sixty-eight per cent a year! Wouldn't Los Angeles property owners, bankers or merchants execute a frenzied dance of thanksgiving if the earning power of their investments reached this fabulous percentage? Yet this is what some pawnbrokers, along Main street are annually piling into their coffers. The great and erudite Solomon of renowned biblical memory left no record approaching the greatness in figures and percentage of these penny-wise members of the prolific family of Mammon. Verily, this is a land of milk and manna for the establishment whose coat-of-arms is the three gilded balls.

A gold watch appraised at $45 was presented by a Times reporter to a Main-street pawnbroker. The timepiece is of Swiss manufacture with a solid gold casing. Three dollars and fifty cents was all he would allow on it. With interest at 50 cents a month, or 14 per cent. of the original loan, the pawnbroker's money would be netting him 168 per cent. a year. Shylock's temperamental venality, figured in gold and flesh, loses interest in the sight of those latter-day Midases who figure in dollars and cents with the same degree of parsimony as if the amount were a lac of rupees.

Twenty-five pawn institutions were visited by the reporter along Main street. Not one would lend beyond 15 per cent. of the actual value of watches, jewelry or diamonds. Few offered as high as 15 per cent.

On Main street, close to Fourth, is an establishment that loans on precious things of all descriptions. There is the front door which the customer enters to ostensibly seek a purchase. Once inside and inquiring for the loan department he is waved to the rear, where are several booths with doors that exclude the daylight and lend privacy to the deal about to be consummated.

The authority on these matters applied the same question: "How much do you want?" or in the language of the business, "How little can you get along with?" Four dollars was his limit on the silver watch, which was not inducement enough to allow the ticker to repose in his burglar-proof safe for several months at 50 cents per.

A few doors down the street, a diamond appraised at $[illegible] was presented for the inspection of a broker whose smile was as pleasant to look upon as a bunch of California poinsettias. But that smile is an educated one. It is an asset to the business. The diamond was known to be a perfect white stone, in fact, it had been passed on by a well-known diamond merchant of this city. The pawnbroker didn't know this, and after submitting the brilliant to the crucial test with the assistance of a glass, he remarked:

"Poor diamond; very poor; full of flaws, imperfectly cut, not of the right color—will allow you $20 on it; $1 a month interest."

"Not on that stone. It isn't worth more than $20."

Sixty per cent a year! That isn't as much as 168, but "every little bit makes a little bit more," so the story runs, so it is presumed that this would-be Croesus isn't kicking.

Another broker close to Second street condescendingly agreed to lend $15 on a diamond ring valued at $100. "Old mine diamonds, you know," he explained, "I don't like to handle them."

But he would be satisfied to lend $15. Eighty-four per cent on a loan of this character wasn't half bad. A few hundred $15 loaned out at that interest had every bank in the country, even the government itself, beaten to a frazzle.

ODD PERSONAL EVENTS.

George W. Edson of Stow, Mass., who writes verse, conducted his campaign for a seat in the Legislature in rhyme. He was elected. It is the first time since the Civil War that a Democrat was elected to the Legislature from Stow.

Jacob Myers, a wealthy farmer, 82 years old, and Miss Ellen Kraft, 48 years old, eloped and were married in Sterling, Ill. Myers' son, 60 years old, objected to the marriage. The bridegroom has three great-grandchildren.

A German nobleman, Baron Frederick Arthur Rudolph von Normann, but who prefers to be called plain "Mr. Von Normann," is to become the son-in-law of Policeman Charles M. Murphy of New York.

Mrs. Josephine Frances Rush of Erie, Pa., after a separation of twenty-two years, during which neither knew whether the other was living or dead, has been reunited with her mother, Mrs. Nettie Edge, of Newark. At the meeting, in the Edge home, the mother fainted, and remained in a swoon some time.

O. P. Greene, of Biddeford, who claimed the title of champion shingler of Maine some forty years ago, is curious to know how much of his old-time proficiency he retains and says he will try to equal some of his former records when he shingles his barn soon. Mr. Greene says that in his best days, he could lay 4000 shingles in an afternoon without any assistance.

[illegible] tenants of the poorhouse at Trieste, Austria, died the other day at the age of 70. An investigation of the effects of this supposed pauper, an Albanian called Sterio, revealed the fact that he owned over $250,000 in investments and bank deposits. He had made a fortune in Egypt before the British occupation and added to it by living at public expense.

Col. Abe Slupsky of St. Louis, man about town, real estate owner, famous character, story teller and a man of some millions of dollars, is at work on a beer-drinking bout for a wager of $1000. The winner of the money turns the money over to a children's charity, in a reckless or happy moment—just as you please—Slupsky declared he could drink twenty quarts of beer every working day of eight hours for thirty days. A rival real estate dealer said he could not. The colonel started on November 3, and so far has made a clean score, but he admits he is fast reaching the limit. Which ever way the beer guzzling feat turns out, a children's home will be enriched.

Andrew K. Hyde, postal clerk in the foreign branch of the New York postoffice, has a record of sixty years in the government service, a term of duty believed to have no parallel in the United States. He was first appointed a letter carrier in 1851, at which time only a half-dozen clerks were required in the New York postoffice.

Felix E. Donnelly, who has been a street car conductor in Brooklyn for forty-four years, has been retired on a pension by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. He is over 70 years of age.

John A. Hinsey of Chicago, 78 years old, after more than forty-seven years' service as special agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, has been retired by the company on a pension of $10,000 a year. In the forty-seven years that Mr. Hinsey has been with the company he has had practically everything to say about what the claim department of the big railroad should do. The officers of the road, in order to fill Mr. Hinsey's place, have created two new offices. One is that of general adjuster, while the other is that of assistant general adjuster.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Annie Wakeman Lathrop is making a tour of this country to study the conditions of American women for a group of London newspapers.

Mrs. John Curran of St. Louis, president of the Woman's Missouri Development Association, is working hard to have the 15,000,000 acres of unfilled fertile land in her State brought into cultivation.

Four women will sit in the Eighteenth General Assembly of Colorado as a result of the late election. They are Alma Lafferty, Louise U. Jones and Louise M. Kerwin, all elected to the House of Representatives from Denver districts on the Democratic ticket, and Agnes Riddle, Republican Representative for Adams, Arapahoe and Elbert counties.

Mrs. George W. Fuckler, widow of a millionaire machinery manufacturer, proposes to start a movement among the women of the country to stop exhibitions of wild animals and birds, and to eliminate zoological parks.

Frau Cosima Wagner was the only woman to receive an honorary doctor's degree at the recent celebration of the centenary of Berlin University. It has bestowed upon her by the philosophical faculty, which conferred the same distinction on Humperdinck.

Mrs. Phoebe M. Palmeter, 80 years old, of Brookfield, N. Y., pensioned by a special act of Congress as the daughter of Jonathan Wooley, who served in a New Hampshire company, is the only pensioner on account of the Revolutionary War remaining on the rolls, according to a statement made in the annual report of the commissioners of pensions, just made public.

Took Them for Insects.

Woodrow Wilson the president of Princeton, said at a recent dinner in the university town:

"When all the world is well educated as all the world will be some day, then it will be better for everybody. Some foolish people, though, don't care to see all the world educated. These people want to shine—and to shine, of course, one must have darkness.

"But that is a poor way to look at it. Those ambitious people should rather say, 'The more education, the more appreciation.'

"There's nothing more disagreeable than want of appreciation, you know. A multi-millionaire returned to his native village and erected a marble palace on a hilltop there. One day, after the palace was completed, he said, to the postmaster and the crowd of loiterers in the general store:

"'Boys, my million-dollar house up on the hill is simply full of Titians.'

"The loiterers exchanged looks of surprise and horror, and the postmaster exclaimed:

"'Good gracious, ain't there no way o' killin' 'em?'"—[Washington Star.

Driven Into the Show Business.

"Have you always been in the show business?" I asked the six-foot-eight contortionist.

"Oh, no," he hastened to say. "I began work as a commercial traveler, and was on the road selling goods for fifteen years."

"Then what in the world put it into your head to become a contortionist?" I questioned.

"I was compelled to become one," he told me, his voice vibrant with what, I subsequently learned, was resentment over past impositions. "I was compelled to become one by the little, measly hotel beds I had to sleep in."—[Chicago News.
